"The committee also hopes before ...long to arrange some sub...cription booths in the smaller outly...g banks so that any resident can go ...to his or her bank and make a sub...cription.

"One of Safest Investments."

"These tax certificates rank as one ...of the safest investments any one can ...make. It again should be stressed that ...such certificates will probably ...not be paid up in full at the time ...the 1929 taxes become payable, their ...early redemption should take place ...within a year and a half at the latest. ...The probabilities of a substantial ...payment this summer and another ...payment five or six months ...hence...

Girl Unravels Love Skein and It Leads to Comedy

A woman phoned yesterday to Ernest Smedburg, manager of King's pantry, a restaurant at 524 Davis street, Evanston, and asked if a girl named Gertrude worked there. She threatened dire things to Gertrude if she found her. Smedburg notified the police, who traced the telephone call to an apartment at 4650 Sheridan road, occupied by Helen Bell. "My sweetheart mumbled 'Gertrude' while taking a nap," Helen explained. "I found a box of matches from King's pantry in his pocket and thought that perhaps Gertrude worked there." Helen was not taken into custody.

Eugene Byfield Dies of Injury in Polo Game

Eugene Byfield, vice president of the Hotel Sherman company, died at 2:45 o'clock this morning at Passavant Memorial hospital of a brain concussion, suffered when he was thrown from his polo pony during a practice match at the Chicago Riding club last Tuesday evening. Mr. Byfield had been unconscious nearly 130 hours when death came.

Widely Known as Sportsman.

Mr. Byfield was a sportsman of wide repute. He, with Frank Behring and other lovers of the sport that led to his fatal accident, revived interest in polo in Chicago about twelve years ago, when that interest was practically dead.

He was internationally known as a breeder and a show judge of dogs. His Grasmere Farm kennels on his farm near Barrington, Ill., a few miles northwest of Chicago, are known the world over to lovers of dogs. He also bred horses on a place he owned in Kentucky.

He and his brother, Ernest Byfield, because of their long connection with the Hotel Sherman, were widely known throughout the country.

Mr. Byfield was also something of a dilettante. He was a writer and a collector of antiques — particularly furniture—and prints.

His Business Ventures.

He was vice president of the Hotel Sherman company, secretary of the Fulton Market Cold Storage company, secretary of the College Inn Food Products company, and a director in other companies. He lived at the Hotel Ambassador.

Mr. Byfield was born in Chicago on Dec. 5, 1884, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Byfield. His father, before he took over the Hotel Sherman about 1900, was a manufacturer and young Byfield attended private schools.

After finishing his elementary education he went to the Princeton-Yale Preparatory school on Drexel boulevard, here in Chicago, and after finishing there entered the University of Chicago. Besides his brother, Ernest, one other brother, Dr. Albert Byfield, also a Chicagoan, survives him.

125 ARE POISONED AT BANQUET; 20 ARE FEARED NEAR DEATH

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 23.—(AP)—More than 125 persons, many of them children, were being treated for a mysterious poisoning at emergency hospitals and by private physicians here tonight after a Salvation Army banquet attended by 500 persons at the Masonic temple.

At least twenty patients were said to be in a critical condition while 110 were being treated in the central emergency hospital and Salvation Army headquarters.

So serious was the situation that Police Chief William J. Quinn ordered motorcycle police to patrol outgoing highways and render aid to others who attended the banquet and who may have been stricken while en route by motor to their homes in nearby towns.

Doctors were unable to determine the nature of the poisoning, which they said resembled that which results from eating spoiled food.

City Cannot Afford Much of This Kind of Business

Three burglars broke into a warehouse of the city electrical department at 714 South Halsted street early yesterday, bound the watchman, Harry Tyerman, 1042 Grace street, and drove away in a truck loaded with fifty coils of copper cable, valued at $2,200.

ACTRESS LOSES BATTLE OF SIX YEARS FOR LIFE

Secretary Only One at Her Bedside.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Monrovia, Cal., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Mabel Normand, once sprightly comedienne of the screen and the principal figure in the still unsolved murder of William Desmond Taylor, died almost forlorn in a tuberculosis sanitarium here at 2:30 o'clock this morning.

Excepting the professional attendants, the screen star's paid companion, Mrs. Julia Benson, was the only one at the bedside. Just before the end, Miss Normand raised her wasted arm and clasped Mrs. Benson's hand, asking her to pray. There was a trace of the roguish smile that won her fortune on Miss Normand's face as she closed her eyes and ceased to breathe.

Married to Cody in 1926.

Lew Cody, also of the films, whom Miss Normand married in a midnight elopement in September, 1926, was notified of her death within an hour at his home in Hollywood, a few miles from here. Some one at the establishment announced for Mr. Cody that he was overcome by his wife's death.

Cody and Miss Normand lived together only three months. A year ago Miss Normand announced her intention of suing for divorce to relieve herself of an "unbearable situation," but about that time she was seriously stricken by the lung malady, which had been incipient for six years, and her doctors prescribed the sanitarium. The divorce suit was never filed.

Transfusion Fails to Save Her.

Miss Normand failed to gain strength at the sanitarium. Her condition became desperate three weeks ago and a blood transfusion was undertaken as a last resort.

On Feb. 5, the day before the operation, she was notified that her father, Claude Normand, a pianist of French descent, had died at his home in Staten Island, N. Y. The comedienne's mother, Mrs. Mary Drury Normand, and her sister, Gladys, were en route here tonight by airplane to take charge of her body. Funeral arrangements were held in abeyance pending their arrival.

Posed for Artists at 13.

Mabel Normand began her career as a child of 13. Well developed for her age and possessing long black curls, sparkling brown eyes and an arch smile, she used to go to artists' studios to pose for the idyllic drawings that Charles Dana Gibson, James Montgomery Flagg and Howard Chandler Christie turned out in those days.

One morning, as the story is told, she was posing for Gibson when the artist was called away from his studio by the death of a magazine publisher. Having nothing to do, Mabel decided to go for a walk until the artist returned. She was strolling along Broadway and by chance met Alice Joyce, then playing minor parts with the Biograph company. Miss Joyce took her to the Biograph studio.

Began at $5 a Day.

It was from D. W. Griffith, at the Biograph studio, that Mabel obtained her first bit in the movies. She played a page in tights and her salary was $5 a day. She had two years' experience with Biograph when Mack Sennett discovered her talent and with him she went to the Keystone company, first as one of the original Sennett bathing beauties and later as the star in Keystone comedies.

She was featured in such successes as "Mickey," "Susanna," "Jinx," and "Fatty and Mabel Adrift," in the last with Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle, another comedian whose star afterward declined. Miss Normand was at the zenith of her career, her popularity was world-wide, and her salary was reputed fabulous when, on Feb. 7, 1926, William Desmond Taylor was shot to death in his Hollywood apartment.

Murder Still Unsolved.

Taylor, a middle aged man whose past was shrouded in mystery and whose reputation was bizarre, was chief director for Famous-Lasky. His murder created a sensation which persists even now, for new clews in the case were reported discovered only a few months ago.

In the immediate investigation the police discovered among his effects a packet of fervid letters from Mabel Normand. Shielded from questioning

18 SUBURBAN CARS IN DITCH AT KENOSHA

Disaster Caused by Auto on Track.

An automobile, wedged between a speeding Chicago, North Shore & Milwaukee passenger train and a freight train, in Kenosha last night, derailed both of them, killing at least nine persons and injuring 77 others, six of them seriously. Several bodies were believed to be buried in the wreckage.

The accident occurred at 10:50 p. m. as the passenger train of five steel coaches was traveling toward Chicago at a rate of 50 miles an hour, loaded with 328 passengers, many of them Chicagoans returning home from a week-end holiday in Wisconsin.

Auto Drives on Tracks.

As the train bore down on the Washington road grade crossing in the northern part of Kenosha, the automobile, driven by Norman E. Shinvers of 778 Jackson boulevard, moved on to the tracks from the west. The crossing is unprotected by gates, only a flashing light signalling the approach of trains. Whether Shinvers failed to see the signal or attempted to beat the train across the tracks will remain unknown.

The front car of the passenger train crashed into the car, tossing it to the east track, directly into the path of a sixteen car northbound freight train.

Two Cars Demolished.

The front coach of the train leaped the rails and plunged down an eight foot embankment, dragging the other four cars with it. The wrecked automobile then knocked the freight train from the rails and the two trains collided, the thirteen freight cars piling up with the passenger cars at the bottom of the bank.

The first two steel coaches of the passenger train were practically demolished, but all five of them remained upright at the bottom of the ditch, thereby saving the lives of many of the passengers.

As the cars slipped over the bank several of the freight cars burst into flames, providing the only illumination at the scene as the panic stricken passengers strove to escape.

Rescuers Are Mobilized.

Residents of the vicinity of the crossing who heard the crash sent calls for help to the police, the fire department, and hospitals of Kenosha, and every available ambulance and automobile was rushed to the scene carrying physicians. All of the doctors who could be reached were mobilized by the police and sent to the two hospitals or to the Washington road crossing to administer first aid to the injured.

Most of those injured were riding in the two front coaches of the passenger train, those in the rear escaping the full force of the impact as the front cars of the freight train crashed into them.

Rescurers, working by the flickering light of the burning freight cars, removed the injured to nearby residences and roadhouses, where they lay until their turn to make the trip to the hospitals. In the front car early this morning, there were still four bodies of the dead, and perhaps more, which wrecking crews were trying to remove.

Most of the 77 injured were suffering from leg injuries, received in the eight foot drop of the coaches, the sudden jolt of landing jarring every passenger in the train. Had the cars turned over, witnesses said, the death toll and the list of injured would have been even greater.

Auto Completely Demolished.

It was not known how many persons were riding in the car with Shinvers when it started the wreck, but Roy Shaw of Kenosha, who was driving a short distance behind the machine, said that he believed there were four. The automobile was so thoroughly demolished that no trace of it could be found in the wreckage of the trains.

Among the dead in the first car was Mrs. Elizabeth Shema Peck, 30 years old, 7614 Essex avenue, Chicago, who was returning from holiday in Milwaukee with her sweetheart, Lee Taxton, of the same address, an official of the G. Delmar Insurance agency. Taxton, who was injured, said that he knew Mrs. Peck was dead, as he saw her decapitated body lying in the wreckage as he was taken from the car. Her body had not been removed early this morning.

None of the members of the train crew on the passenger train could be located after the wreck, and it was believed that the motorman, C. W. Hall, and C. W. Durr, the conductor on the first coach, were still in the wreckage. There were four other conductors in the other coaches.

Both Hall and Durr were residents of Chicago.

Miss Evelyn Metzger, 1619 Wilson avenue, a stenographer for the J. Milhenning company of Chicago, was riding in the first car and was one of the first victims identified. Relatives said she had gone to Milwaukee over the weekend, and was expected to return to her home last night.

Blames Reckless Motorist.

"It is plain that a reckless motorist caused this disaster," declared H. M. Lytle, vice president of the North Shore line, after a personal investigation at the scene of the wreck at Kenosha.

"The crossing at that point is protected by signals, which were functioning at the time. Several motorists who had stopped on the west side of the track when the signal was in operation told me they saw the automobile which the passenger train struck speeding towards the crossing at fifty miles an hour.

"It is evident that the motorist, to whom both trains were visible, was attempting the perilous feat of beating both trains to the crossing."

W. H. Burke, Milwaukee division superintendent of the North Shore line, left Milwaukee for Kenosha immediately after the accident with a wrecking car and a crew of workmen. The wrecking crew was at work early this morning attempting to remove the debris and clear the line, which was blocked by the wreck.

With both the Kenosha and St. Catherine's hospital filled with the injured, North Shore officials were making arrangements to transfer some of the less seriously hurt to hospitals in Milwaukee for treatment.

According to a statement issued by the railroad, the passenger train, which left Milwaukee at 10 p. m., was scheduled to run at a speed of 60 miles an hour, but at the crossing was supposed to reduce its speed to 40 miles an hour, as it was just inside the city limits of Kenosha at that point.

YANKEE INVENTS NEW QUICK FIRE RIFLE FOR BRITISH

LONDON, Feb. 23.—A new rifle which should increase the efficiency of British firing has been announced and is said to be the invention of an American whose name is given as Pedersen.

The rifle weighs 8 8-10 pounds and is 45 inches long without the bayonet. It takes a clip of ten cartridges and each is fired by a separate pressure of the trigger finger. This avoids the disadvantage of the Lewis gun, which wastes ammunition, as it encourages unaimed shooting. When the clip of cartridges is exhausted they are automatically ejected and the breech remains open, indicating that the soldier must insert another clip.

The advantage of this invention is easily comprehended when it is realized that the Germans thought the British front line was bristling with machine guns in 1914 simply because the British infantry was trained to fire 15 rounds per minute. With the new gun regular troops will be able to fire 50 aimed rounds a minute.

4 STOWAWAYS BRAVE SHARKS TO FLEE SHIP

New York, Feb. 23.—[Special.]—A story of four stowaways, believed to have deserted from the navy, who braved a forty-five minute swim in the shark-infested waters off Jamaica, was brought into port today by Capt. William Kroll, master of the Statendam of the Holland-American line. The young men escaped the sharks, but landed in the custody of the United States navy, which is trying to identify them.

The Statendam, on a West Indies cruise, was steaming away from Colon, Canal Zone, on Feb. 12, when the stowaways were discovered. They explained they had been part of the crew of a fruiter which had sailed without them.

"I could tell by their blue navy pants," said the master, "they had deserted from one of the American warships at the canal. I locked them up. Off Fort Yoral I sent for the stowaways. When the door was unlocked, the hospital was empty. They had escaped through the port hole.

"Later they were picked up and handed over to the United tSates cruiser Concord at Kingston."

Capt. Kroll said the men went through the port hole and into the sea when the vessel was fifteen miles off the coast.

KILLS HIMSELF WHEN QUIZZED ON WIFE'S DEATH

Niles Man Eludes Waiting Officers.

Niles, Mich., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Philip Plovie, 52 year old contractor, killed himself tonight when officers attempted to question him about the mysterious disappearance of his wife on Nov. 23 and accuse him of murdering her.

Evading the officers, he sneaked into the cellar of his home and shot himself in the right temple. Officers investigating his wife's disappearance previously had dug down four feet at a soft spot in the floor of that cellar in the belief that his wife might be buried there. The digging will be resumed tomorrow.

Start to Question Him.

C. S. Overcash, Berrien county deputy sheriff, and Lyle Huston, state police officer from Lansing, Mich., were the men who had planned to charge Plovie with killing his wife. There was no one home when they arrived at his place and they went to the house of his brother-in-law, Henry Baker.

There they found Plovie and asked him to go back to his home with them and talk the matter over.

"You'll have to wait a minute," he said. "I'm going to eat dinner here."

Eludes Officers.

They allowed him to go back into the house, and after waiting for some time entered and found him gone.

Hurrying from the Baker home to the Plovie home they found the doors locked. After breaking in, the officers discovered the man's body in the basement. While they were waiting in front of Baker's house he had slipped out the back door, had gone home, locked himself in and ended his life.

Plovie and his wife had been married for 12 years. He had been married three times and she twice.

Mr. and Mrs. Plovie had a joint bank account which showed a balance of $1,700 on Nov. 1. They also are said to have owned property worth $40,000.

APPEAL TO ALL CITIZENS TO BUY TAX WARRANTS

that have existed in our municipal treasuries and at the unfavorable comment resulting therefrom, now have their opportunity to help end such a situation and put Chicago's credit back where it belongs—not by penalizing themselves in any way but merely by buying an absolutely safe inyestment that will yield an attractive interest return until paid.

"So subscribe that Chicago can once more indicate its ability to take itself out of its own troubles with dispatch. It has taken a long time to devise a proper system of relieving these trouoversubscribed the Chicago quota in every Liberty loan by oversubscribing these new certificates and quickly."

Farr Has Different Idea.

A dissenting note to the new plan came in a statement issued by Newton C. Farr, president of the Chicago Real Estate board.

"The plan advanced by the citizens' committee involves the making of an investment in participation certificates which can be paid off fully only after taxes for the year 1930 have been collected," Mr. Farr said.

"Many property owners in Chicago and Cook county are anxious to be helpful in the financial crisis, but because of their peculiar situation are unable to make the investment which the present plan requires.

"Many persons have accumulated moneys for the purpose of paying their 1928 taxes. Those funds cannot be diverted into other channels. One way of mobilizing the unpaid 1928 tax moneys for the purpose of helping the municipalities is to purchase from the banks 1928 tax warrants and have the banks, whose business it is to lend money, purchase an equal amount of 1930 tax warrants."

In this manner, Mr. Farr declared, property owners would not have to wait until late in 1931 for repayment on their certificates, while the delay would not injure the banks.

Warrants for Sale Reduced.

The city already has taken $10,109,500 worth of its own tax warrants out of the market. To creditors the city has issued $197,500 in tax warrants. In addition City Controller Schmidt deposited $9,912,000 in 1930 tax anticipation warrants in the city treasury on Saturday. This is security for cash taken out of trust and surplus funds of the city last October, November and December to pay salaries. Controller Schmidt has said that the limit of city corporate tax warrants this year is $27,150,000. Therefore the city has only $17,040,500 yet to dispose of.

Two Opinions on Tax Levy.

Corporation Counsel Ettelson and his assistants, James W. Breen, Carl J. Appell, and Edward C. Higgins, sent a long legal opinion to the city controller saying that the corporate appropriation is legal and valid and that the tax levy is constitutional and valid.

It appears for the first time that the controller had previously obtained an opinion from the law firm of Chapman & Cutler in which certain questions had been raised. This is the firm on which banks and trust companies rely largely in the purchase of municipal paper. But Mr. Ettelson and his subordinates assert that Chapman & Cutler's views "are largely based upon a misapprehension of facts."

Think "Definite Opinion" Needed.

Mr. Ettelson says that Chapman & Cutler "do not undertake to express any definite legal opinion upon the validity of the annual appropriation ordinance." It is regarded as probable that the bankers will demand "a definite legal opinion" from this or an equally acceptable law firm before there is a purchase of warrants or assurance from Gov. Emmerson that the tax levies will be validated by the legislature.

WIFE SLAYER IS CONVICTED.

Hastings, Neb., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Sidney Trobough, 21, was found guilty of second degree murder by a jury in District court here today. Sentence was deferred pending hearing of a motion for a new trial. Trobough was accused of shooting and fatally wounding his young wife during a quarrel in their home the night of Nov. 23, 1928.

HOOVER CALLS LEADERS TO PAS BUDGET BILL

Conference May Spe Up Federal Projects.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 23.—[Fearful of adverse effects u business conditions, President Hoo day determined to bring his influe to bear on the appropriations si in congress.

The President sent out invitation congressional leaders and treasury budget officials to a White Ho breakfast tomorrow morning.

How to expedite action on pend appropriation bills which are held in the senate by the tariff will be chief of the situation to be discus another will be the question of hold own mounting appropriations.

The President warned congressio leaders last week that unless em ency appropriations were provide will be necessary to discharge fr 1,000 to 20,000 employés on pu works the latter part of March. S action would tend to neutralize administration's efforts to aid busin recovery by speeding up construct of public works. Undue increases appropriations threatening a de and dooming proposed further tax reductions, also, according to the Pr dent's view, would have an injuri effect upon business.

Hoping for Coöperation.

Following his activity during last week in attempting to get ta legislation out of the way, also a means of removing a disturbing fac in the business situation, the Pr dent hopes in dealing with appropr tions to make some progress tow securing coöperation of congress. ut how the appropriations bills be expedited in the senate with- interfering with the tariff is a tion.

Senate Far Behind.

n the situation stands the house passed more than half of the an- appropriation bills. None has been passed by the senate, the leaders ve held them back as part of r program to give precedence to tariff bill with a view to getting of the way at the earliest pos- date. Senator Watson believes the tariff bill will be passed by March 10. Immediately thereafter several appropriation bills will be put forward unless it is possible to sandwich one or two of the more urgent measures in during odd moments in the tariff discussion.

The President has sent a supplemental budget to congress for $12,000,000 for river and harbor work under the army engineers. This amount, which will be added in the senate to the deficiency bill, passed on Friday by the house, is needed to prevent the laying off of men employed on the Illinois and Missouri rivers and other projects.

Worried Over Expenditures.

While President Hoover has been responsible for some of the pending increases in governmental expenditures he is anxious to hold down the steadily mounting costs in all cases where the greater outlay does not seem warranted. Figures for the first half of the fiscal year made it appear that expenditures for the fiscal year 1930 would show an increase of about 150 million dollars over 1929. The pending appropriations for 1931 seem certain to be considerably larger than expenditures in the current year.

The 160 million dollar tax reduction approved by congress early in the winter was the first proposal advanced by President Hoover in dealing with the business situation. He is desirous of holding down expenditures sufficiently to make it possible for congress next winter to continue the tax cut in effect. Unless further action is taken the reduction will be for the present year only and the former higher rates will become effective next year automatically.

It is anticipated that some attention will be given to the tariff situation at the breakfast. In view of a flurry during the last few days in the senate over an article in the Kansas City Star which represented the President as favoring the coalition side in the tariff controversy, he has been urged to iterate his position.

Hoover's Stand on Tariff.

The President's actual position is known to be about midway between the extreme protectionists as represented by Senator Grundy [Rep., Pa.] and the Democratic-radical coalition. After the bill is passed by the senate the President is expected to figure in working out a compromise which will not be satisfactory to either group.

Representative Wood will not attend the White House breakfast, having left today with a house subcommittee to Florida.

Britain Fast Linking Her Far Flung Lands with Sky Lanes

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 23.—The linking together of the constituent parts of the British empire by air routes—one of the ways which the British Federation of Industries recently approved as vital to the economic development of the empire—has progressed rapidly since the last imperial conference in London in 1926.

When the dominion premiers meet here again next September they will be told that 1931 will see the empire's network of air lines practically completed.

Plan More Mooring Masts.

In 1926 the dominions and India promised to give financial support to the imperial air service. This resulted in the building of two monster airships, the R-100 and the R-101, and the erection of mooring towers for them at St. Huberts, Montreal, Ismailiya, Egypt, and Karachi, India. Preparations are being made for similar towers in Australia and South Africa.

It was announced today that the R-100 will make its first empire flight in May. It will fly to Montreal. In the meantime the R-101 is now being lengthened to give it more life and will probably be ready to sail for Egypt and India in September. The latter ship is fitted with oil instead of gasoline engines. These are specifically for tropical service because of the possible danger of fire from motors using volatile fuel in the high temperatures encountered.

What airship travel will mean in bringing the scattered parts of the British empire closer together can best be gathered from the following figures: From London to Port Said, Egypt takes 8 days by steamer, by airship, 2½ days; from London to Karachi, India takes 15 days by steamer, and 5 days by airship; from London to Perth, Australia, takes 28 days by steamer, and 10 days by airship; from London to Cape Town takes 15½ days by steamer, and by airship only 6½. From South Africa to Australia by airship takes 10½ days and there is no comparable steamer route. From Perth, Australia, to Wellington, New Zealand, takes 6 days, while an airship can cover the same journey in a day and a half.

Plane Routes All Charted.

In the meanwhile the task of surveying the empire's airplane routes has been completed and new lines will be opened this year.

The London to Cairo to Karachi to Delhi service will be extended to Calcutta and Rangoon, while the following year it will be continued to Port Darwin, Australia, connecting with the services now operating on that continent. Part, if not all, of the Cairo air service will begin operating this year, making connections with the London and India line. These services cover a total length of 17,860 miles.

JONES MAY BARE BATTLE TO SAVE LARGE CRUISERS

U. S. Admiral's Protest on Cuts Silenced.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 23.—There is much speculation in American circles today as to whether Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones will make public, before going home because of illness, his reasons for holding the American delegation's acceptance of British cruiser limitation terms inimical to the best interests of our country.

Although he lodged with Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson his opinion to this effect, it has not been made public and Admiral Jones so far has felt himself obligated to maintain silence on his difference of opinion with the American delegation.

Callers Denied Admittance.

The admiral, one of and two chief naval advisers to the American delegation, was confined to his room today and not allowed to receive callers by order of his physician, Commander M. E. Higgins, naval physician. Dr. Higgins denied, however, that the condition of the patient has changed for the worse.

Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the bureau of aeronautics, has transmitted to Admiral William V. Pratt, chief naval adviser, the suggestion that congress vote Rear Admiral Jones the full rank of admiral in recognition of his services.

The silence of Admiral Jones regarding his split with the delegation has generally been attributed to actual or implied muzzling of the naval experts, either by the delegation or by the White House. That naval officers, who disapprove the American navy limitation proposals from the viewpoint of an adequate national defense and the attainment of a parity with Great Britain have been muzzled, has been inferred from the fact that only favorable expert comment is being made available for publication.

Granted Right to Express Views.

An article by Commander H. H. Frost of the United States navy, defending the American proposal, has been widely published without its author being disciplined. It is also known that naval officers, still in active service, who disagree with the policy of the American delegation, fear a disclosure of their attitude would cost them their commissions, or chances for advancement.

Mr. Stimson, however, told Admiral Jones before arriving here that there was no reason why he should not state his views on any subject he desires. Admiral Jones is a retired officer and not amenable to orders.

The opinion Admiral Jones filed with Mr. Stimson disagreeing with the delegation's concessions to Great Britain is said to be along the same lines as his arguments at the Geneva naval conference, where he successfully withstood British maneuvers to circumvent our big cruiser building program. Later in Washington he justified his course to the satisfaction of the naval affairs committees of both houses of congress.

Jones Opposed Concession.

When the American delegation accepted the allotment of 18 big cruisers for the United States, it accepted the limitation the British had sought to impose on the United States in the MacDonald-Hoover negotiations last summer. Admiral Jones opposed this concession, not only because he believed the limitation left us short of a parity, but because it would afford us too few big cruisers to protect our commerce on the high seas in view of a lack of outlying naval bases.

In America's disregard for this situation, the Yankee delegation has now agreed to curtail a big cruiser building program and build more small cruisers, Admiral Jones said before the house naval affairs committee in opposing Great Britain's drive to limit American's 8-inch gun cruisers at Geneva in 1927:

"We have a right to a naval parity because of our foreign trade now spiderwebs the globe. We have lines of communication which are necessary to our conomic life. Many of those are actually necessary to our physical life. We now have a trade equal to the greatest, and the right to an equal opportunity to carry on that trade in all parts of the world—to trade with whom we wish, when we wish, without being dictated to by any nation in the world.

Same Needs as Britain's.

"While Great Britain's plea is that it is necessary that the lines of communication on the sea shall be kept open as a means of preserving its life, we must make a distinction between lines of communication that are absolutely necessary to the living of Great Britain and those far flung lines of communications that are its commercial and wealth lines.

"We ourselves have those same commercial and wealth lines overseas, which we have a right to keep open as well as Great Britain.

"Furthermore, although our food lines to our great industrial centers are land lines, yet in order to save those land lines we must have free communication on sea or else our land communication will break down, and that will mean physical starvation for the great industrial centers of the country."

Britisher Doubts Success of Present Naval Parley

"If it had been possible for Ramsay MacDonald to leave the problem of naval armament exactly where it rested when he departed for England last fall after his conversations with Mr. Hoover, I can't help feeling it would have been vastly better than to continue these naval conferences in the face of existing conditions in the world today. But I do not know whether it was possible for him to do so."

S. K. Ratcliffe, a British journalist and publicist, thus yesterday voiced his reaction to the present conference in London. He was addressing the Chicago Forum at the Adelphi theater on "Where Is Labor Leading Britain?" and his opinion on the London parley stood out vividly in the brief but comprehensive review he gave of the present position of the Labor government in England. He was for a number of years one of the editors of the Manchester Guardian.

Would Have Waited Till 1931.

"A Labor government in England," Mr. Ratcliffe said, "is associated in the public mind with the idea of peace and the cutting down of arms. I believe that if Ramsay MacDonald could have allowed the subject to rest until 1931 events would have led up to putting the matter before the English people as a measure of economy. And it would have settled itself as a natural result.

"England, with all her defects as a modern country, has a most excellent and adaptive form of government. The changes of public opinion are immediately registered in the changes in the house of commons.

"When he visited America, Mr. MacDonald made himself the most widely known European statesman of all time, especially in America. I am certain that America is watching the developments in London with less hope of accomplishment than when the prime minister concluded his American visit at Washington.

Views on Industrial Problem.

"If you ask me whether I think the Labor party can do anything about the present industrial situation in England—the tremendous problem of unemployment—I must say that I think it will take years to readjust. Certainly it is not amenable to quick remedy.

"The difficulty lies with the older industries, which have undergone world changes of immense import—especially mining. No community in the world is harder to readjust in industry than miners, and the majority of our English mines have been operated almost for centuries. The seams are thin and new equipment is needed.

"As for the slogan of the left wing of the Labor party, 'Socialism in our time,' I think it only a fanatical dream."

WOMEN OF NAVAL PARLEY PRACTICE UP ON QUEENLY CURTSIES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 23.—Many of the wives and daughters of the naval delegates spent today practicing their curtsies for Thursday, when they will attend a royal tea party at Buckingham palace as the personal guests of Queen Mary.

Telephones buzzed today with womenfolk trying to enlist the help of ladies of the court, who happened to be in town, to coach them in correct court behavior.

The tea party will be as informal as any British royal function can be. The guests will be received by the queen and Princess Mary, neither of whom will wear hats. In contrast to Princess Mary, who is still in mourning for her father-in-law, the late Earl of Harewood, the queen will wear her favorite colors, pale gray with touches of pink and blue. The guests will number 100.

NAVY DELEGATES OF U. S. LAUDED BY LADY ASTOR

Plea for Peace Broadcast from London.

New York, Feb. 23.—[Special.]—The rôle which women should play in making world peace a reality was emphasized today by Lady Astor, American born member of the British parliament, in a speech broadcast from London.

The Kellogg peace compact, she said, must be kept to the fore at the naval conference.

Lady Astor said she is certain that all delegates at the conference and the countries they represent, want peace, "for only a mad man or a mad country would want war." She spoke of the American delegates, saying they have made a good impression, have not "talked" too much, and are "showing a good Yankee spirit."

The member of commons for Plymouth said that although last week was a slow one at the conference, the delegates have made a fine start. She commented on the thorough preparation which the British and American conferees are showing in the discussions on parity.

"I don't think there is going to be any mistake about limitation, reduction and parity, so far as the two leading navies of the world are concerned," said Lady Astor. "That is a big thing to be grateful for. I am hopeful, too, about the other powers, although there doesn't seem to have been the same sort of preparation in their case."

Urging women to make their influence felt, Lady Astor observed that although "as yet we may not be exactly in the seats of the mighty, we can be mighty powerful."

Lady Astor, announced as the first woman to deliver an international speech, spoke over the trans-Atlantic telephone and the network of WABC and W2XE of the Columbia Broadcasting system. She began to speak at 12:34 p. m. and ended at 12:55 p. m. Her trained voice, with its Virginia drawl, came through distinctly.

Police Capture Robber as He Attacks Store Owner

Joseph Calvin, 21 years old, 4316 Madison street, was captured last night by Sergt. Walter Noon and a squad of policemen from the Sheffield avenue station as he was grappling with Morris Eisenstedt, 62 years old, in Eisentedt's candy store at 3054 Greenview avenue. The policemen were driving past the store and saw the two men struggling. They rushed in as Calvin threatened to kill Eisenstedt unless he turned over his money.

Oregon Safest Baby State, Statistics for 1928 Show

Washington, D. C., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Oregon led the United States in 1928—the last year for which figures have been compiled—as the safest state for babies, with a rate of 47 deaths to 1,000 live births.

An analysis of infant mortality statistics made public today by the children's bureau of the department of labor showed that ten states and the District of Columbia achieved a lower death rate in 1928 than in any year since admission to the birth registration area.

Washington ran Oregon a close second with a rate of 48 deaths to 1,000 births. Other states in the honor column were Iowa, 53 deaths to 1,000 births; North Dakota, 59; Montana, 61; Massachusetts, 64; Vermont, 65; District of Columbia, 65; West Virginia, 70; Maine, 73; and Maryland, 80.

DANDRUFF
Soon Destroys the Hair

If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it; then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid Arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid Arvon at any drug store. Four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

Ben Sorel, 24 years old, 2814 North Long avenue, Italian. Arrested on sus-picion and found to be facing a hearing on an extortion charge on March 17.

Acting Chief of Detectives Egan pointed out that of the 920 suspects seized over the week-end, the prison-ers taken on Saturday lacked "class."

Criminals Gone, Egan Says.

"There aren't any real criminals left in town," Egan said. "Our peo-ple are as mild as the weather. Only fourteen petty robberies during thirty-six hours in this city of more than 3,000,000. Show me another city that can equal that."

"Our 5,000 policemen have been hunting big game for the last three weeks and they have found all there was. Last night our men went every place imaginable, looking for crimi-nals. All we could find was this riff-raff. About a third of them have some kind of prison or police records. Out of the catch we had three identi-fications at the showup and we cleared up a recent safe blowing in Wheaton."

FIVE PIRATES SET FORTH ON VENTURE BOLD

But Prove to Be Menace Chiefly to Themselves.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

To Evanston policemen, no doubt, it was only a little old leaky rowboat. They didn't know that it was a full rigged pirate ship, carrying five small pirates to every boy's paradise—the muddy, thrilling waters of the Missis-sippi, made immortal by Tom Sawyer and Huck Finn.

The pirates were all from Evanston —Warren McCowen, 13 years old, 2232 Ewing avenue; his brother, Rob-ert, 15; Henry Wangenberg, 13 years old, 2714 Noyes street; his brother, Walter, 11, and George Lass, 12 years old, 2723 Noyes street.

Adventurers of Then and Now.

They reasoned thus: Tom Sawyer, "the black avenger of the Spanish main," and Huck Finn, "the red handed," with their friend, Joe Harper, had explored the Mississippi on a raft. Certainly a rowboat could take five bold spirits of 1930 down the river until they struck a desert island.

For months the boys had slipped down to the drainage canal and, under the Central street bridge, had guarded their ship. It was a small boat, used in the summer by workers in the canal. It was stuck fast in the ice. Impatiently they waited for the ice to melt. With the warm weather of last week their plans hatched.

Yesterday, early in the afternoon, they crept to the boat and stowed overcoats and bows and arrows in the stern. Then, using as oars the old brooms they had carefully removed from their mothers' back porches, they set sail down the canal toward the great Mississippi.

The Red Handed Speaks.

Here is Henry Wangenberg, or Huck the Red-handed, speaking, late in the afternoon in the Evanston po-lice station:

"We were making swift progress. The wind was with us and we tore along. On either hand people shouted to us occasionally to watch out. We just ignored them. Then along about Church street we saw the true police."

"And how did you know they were the true police?" some one asked.

"Because," said Henry, pointing a grimy forefinger at Detective Charles Holmes, "he looked at us with a keen eye."

So when Holmes and Detective Henry White shouted to stop, the pi-rates stopped, came ashore.

Looking from side to side within the police station, Warren McCowan finally asked where the third degree room was. But promise of a greater thrill interrupted his quest.

"Now, if we can't get your parents to come down here and get you we'll have to lock you up," announced De-tective Holmes.

"Swell!" the pirates cried, their eyes wide.

But their parents did come down.

Mrs. E. W. McCowan, mother of the McCowan brothers, and their step-father, said that the spring weather was to blame. Werner Wangenberg, a plumber, father of Henry and Wal-ter, and George C. Lass, father of George, were worried until they were told that the boys had been taken to the station only because of the danger of their undertaking.

"I can't understand why our Wal-ter and Henry did such a thing," said Mrs. Wangenberg. "We always try to watch their reading so carefully. I don't know where they got such ideas."

NUNS AND FIREMEN RESCUE 125 WHEN HOSPITAL BURNS

Providence, R. I., Feb. 23.—[Spe-cial.]—About 125 patients were saved today by the cool action of nuns and firemen when a blaze almost destroyed St. Joseph's Catholic hospital here. Acts of courage and heroism marked the removal of the patients. There was no panic and no hysteria.

The patients were carried in am-bulances and taxicabs to other hos-pitals, Catholic institutions, and to private homes.

The blaze started mysteriously in a linen chute which runs up through the four stories of the hospital. The flames mushroomed out into the chil-dren's ward on the fourth floor and burst through the roof. Ceilings fell and the plaster walls dropped apart.

A student nurse discovered the fire after smelling smoke and gave the alarm to the Sisters of Mercy, who conduct the hospital. By the time the firemen arrived many already had been carried from the zone of im-mediate danger. Among those saved from the flames were fourteen babies, one less than an hour old.

FRENCH PREMIER TO USE BIG NAVY CRY AS LIFEBUOY

Seeks to Keep Power by Following Tardieu.

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 23.—The new Chau-temps cabinet will hold its first coun-cil of war tomorrow morning to draft the ministerial program on which it hopes to obtain a majority in the chamber Tuesday that will assure its existence for a couple of weeks at least. Twenty members of the out-going government will meet the late premier, André Tardieu, at the same time to decide whether they will be polite and abstain from opposing the new government on the first division or give it battle.

Premier Camille Chautemps can count at most on only 295 votes while the opposition claims 270. A number of groups of the center and the left, which is the no man's land of French politics, have not decided what they are going to do. But Premier Chau-temps is optimistic and expects to get a majority and dispatch Foreign Min-ister Aristide Briand and Minister of the Navy Albert Sarraut to London on Tuesday night with the expectation of following himself when he gets a breathing spell.

To Maintain Naval Stand.

Knowing full well that even if he does get a slender majority the first day, a determined onslaught from M. Tardieu will bring him down at any time, Premier Chautemps again to-day made it clear that he intends to follow M. Tardieu's naval policy to the letter, and a ministerial declara-tion is to be made that will empha-size this. This is the only way M. Chautemps can save himself, even if he were inclined to make concessions in London.

The Ere Nouvelle, a daily favor-ing the left groups, today said:

"Camille Chautemps may take the boat for England. If he does he will take proof to Ramsey MacDonald that a cabinet of the left should always be one of conciliation but never of capitu-lation."

Security Pact Not Enough.

An inspired article in Le Temps tonight states:

"Nobody has got a right to ask us to make sacrifices essential to our security in order to satisfy the con-venience of others," it says. "When our delegation gets back to London it will not take long for the delegates there to discover that a continuity of French naval policy is assured. We must show extreme prudence on the security pact from the angle of not putting on others the task of defend-ing us in case of an unprovoked at-tack. Our independence and existence will always depend primarily on our own efforts, and our military and na-val strength should never be inferior to what our world obligations de-mand."

See No Naval Holiday.

The paper adds that there seems lit-tle hope that an agreement on a naval holiday will take the place of a gen-eral pact, in the event that the con-ference is unable to agree.

"The proposed annex to the Kellogg pact, by which signatories would un-dertake to consult each other in case war was threatened, is absolutely in-sufficient in the eyes of the French."

U. S. DRYS HIRE 156 YEAR OLD MAN; HE NEVER TOOK A DRINK

ISTANUL, Turkey, Feb. 23.—(AP)—"One hundred and fifty-six years old and never took a drink," is the boast of Zaro Agha, Turkey's longevity cham-pion, who will abandon a job as door-keeper at the city hall here at the end of April to sail for New York at the in-vitation of the American Anti-Alcohol society. The society intends to ex-hibit the aged man throughout the United States, calling attention to the teetotaler's mental and physical vigor. Zaro, who has buried eleven wives, will leave his twelfth at home when he embarks for America.

RUSSIA DARES WORLD TO MARCH ON RED ARMY

Pleads with Nation to Be on Guard.

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Coincident with celebration today of the twelfth anniversary of the founding of the Red army, soviet newspapers and political leaders renewed the loud cry of "war." They appealed to the country to be on guard against the menace from imperialistic powers, which are pictured as jealous of the soviet's economic and industrial progress.

Communist authorities here appear to entertain genuine fear that the soviet's European neighbors intend, in concert, to inaugurate either economic measures against their government, or a direct military attack. This war scare has become immeasurably intensified by the present campaign abroad against the soviet government for its attitude respecting religion.

"World Masses Against Us."

"All the forces of reaction throughout the world are mobilized against the soviet union, which is going full speed ahead toward socialism," declares Isvestia in a flaming front page editorial. "The pope, the archbishop of Canterbury, the French police, the English die-hards, Socialists, Fascists, foreign counterfeiters of soviet money, and the German bourgeoisie have united into one holy union to launch new bandit attacks upon our country.

"But the rulers of capitalistic Europe forget they are dancing the 'can-can' on a barrel of powder. We will remain firm and calm, watching this dance of dying capitalism. In our country all workers and peasants are convinced of the final results of the struggle between bolshevism and capitalism.

"They know our government stands in defense of peace. They want peace themselves, but if the enemy directs his guns on the land of the proletarian dictatorship each worker and peasant will consider it an honor to participate in the victorious marches of the Red army in order to destroy the class enemy."

Plays Tune of War.

Pravda says the present anti-soviet campaign abroad is unprecedented in its fury, hatred, extent, and forms, and is the precursor of an armed attack by the capitalistic states.

Playing to the same tune of war, K. E. Voroshiloff, who displaced Leon Trotsky as head of the Red army, warns the country that the Red army must ever be ready to repel foreign invasion. He calls attention to the fact that foreign armies, including the American, have grown enormously in recent years.

"The United States now has 155 heavy machine guns and 792 small machine guns," he says, "whereas in 1924 it had only 24 heavy machine guns. The American army now has 121 large field guns, whereas in 1913 it only had 24.

Air Forces Growing.

"The air forces of all countries have steadily grown. France has 2,000 airplanes as compared with 1,550 in 1924. England has 1,350 as against 600 in 1924. Other bordering countries have a total of 685 airplanes compared with 275 in 1924.

"We must offset this menace in every way possible. The Red army, on the threshold of its thirteenth anniversary, together with 150 million people of our Socialistic country, will watch with complete calmness the developments of events outside our country, in the conscious knowledge of the invincible power of our army. That army will be ready at any moment with arms to repel any foreign assault."

BLAME U. S. RABBI

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Feb. 23.—The recent arrest of Chief Rabbi Pevsner of Minsk with six other rabbis and 20 former prominent Jewish business men is the direct result of the recent visit of Rabbi Bleese of America to Minsk, according to a long report published by the Moscow Cheka, or secret police.

Rabbi Bleese is accused of holding secret meetings with leading Jews of the Minsk district and collecting information on the alleged religious persecutions of Jews in Russia. He is further accused of making a speech before a meeting of rabbis in Paris, saying he expected further information from Russia concerning activities of the Third Internationale in the organization of Arabs for a revolt in Palestine.

The prisoners are further charged with receiving religious literature smuggled from Riga and Warsaw, and planning to organize religious schools for children of their congregations. This is called "counter revolutionary activities" by the cheka.

Famous Hebrew Evicted.

While searching the dwelling of Rabbi Pevsner, cheka agents are said to have discovered a copy of an appeal, addressed to foreign Jews to come to the aid of their co-religionists in Russia. A number of reports, citing instances of religious and economic persecution compiled for foreign Jewish organizations were also confiscated, it is claimed.

The most noted Hebrew scholar in Russia, Chief Rabbi Katzenellenbogan, 84, has been evicted from his apartment and ordered to leave the city by agents of the cheka. Rabbi Katzenellenbogan became chief rabbi of Leningrad in 1907. Recently his synagogue, the largest and most beautiful in Russia, was converted into a workers' club.

Leningrad authorities propose to clean the city of all religions before May 1, the soviet Labor day, under the theory that all inhabitants of the city, named after Lenin, must be atheists.

Rabbis Free, Borah Told.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Senator Borah of Idaho said tonight that he had been informed by Acting Commissar Litvinoff of foreign affairs for the soviet republic that all but three of the Jewish rabbis, who were arrested on charges of counter revolutionary activities, had been released.

Senator Borah added that he felt reasonably certain there was no danger of execution of the three who still were held. He said that he was informed that one of those released is Rabbi Gluskin.

New York Pulpit Attacks.

New York, Feb. 23.—(AP)—The religious policy of soviet Russia, termed "persecution" by Christian and Jewish leaders of Europe and the United States, today was attacked from the pulpits of various churches and synagogues in New York, as a prelude to the concerted protest scheduled for March 16.

Hohenzollerns Join Protest.

BERLIN, Feb. 23.—(AP)—A big mass-meeting of the Protestant churches, attended by the former crown prince and other members of the Hohenzollern family, today appealed to all the Christian world to protest against "Christian persecution and religious oppression in Russia."

FIGHT TYPHUS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Feb. 23.—Spotted typhus, the most dreaded plague in Russia, has begun to appear in Volga and Ukranian cities. At a meeting of the commissariat of health in Moscow it was decided to quarantine the city against the epidemic. Four thousand unemployed doctors in Moscow and Leningrad will be mobilized into special sanitary divisions and sent to the plague center.

Of the three forms of typhus prevalent in Russia the spotted typhus, which is spread by vermin, is the most feared. A proposal has been made to use the delousing plants of the Red army at Moscow railroad stations to disinfect travelers. It is hoped this procedure wil confine the plague to its present area.

Press Silent on Plague.

News of the outbreak has suddenly disappeared from the soviet press, the health commissariat fearing the threat of the plague would increase unrest among the workers.

Another reason for the energetic campaign to combat the disease is the fear that the epidemic may cause a decrease in the tourist traffic, which is expected to bring Russia large sums during the coming summer.

The commissariat for communications has ordered disinfecting of all trains, and also forbidden the crowds of peasants their usual practice of sleeping in the stations.

Stalin Held Responsible.

The plague is declared here to be the direct result of Dictator Joseph V. Stalin's policy to communize the Russian village. According to Isvestia 10,650,000 individual farms were recently grouped into commercial farms having 120,000,000 acres of arable land, this amounting to 45 per cent of the cultivable land in Russia.

Only the poorer peasants are permitted to join the communal farms, the wealthy elements in the villages being evicted. These are now traveling around Russia seeking a place to live. More than 200,000 homeless kulak families are wandering aimlessly over the country.

Seek to Emigrate.

For the last week, according to an official of the Latvian foreign office, the border guards on the soviet frontier have been obliged to turn back families of kulaks who evaded the Russian guards and pleaded on their knees for admittance. Both the Lettish and Esthonian consulates in Moscow and Leningrad are crowded with applicants for visas.

Philippine Independence Leader on Visit to City

Carrying on his campaign for independence for the Philippines, Dr. Hilario Camino Moncado, president of the Filipino Federation of America, arrived in Chicago yesterday for a two days' stay on his way from Washington to Los Angeles. He said his organization, composed of 12,000 Filipinos on the Pacific coast and 10,000 more in Hawaii, is going to wage a continuous campaign for Philippine independence.

MABEL NORMAND IS DEAD AFTER 6 YEAR ILLNESS

Only Secretary at Film Star's Bedside.

at the time because of her reported illness, Miss Normand was finally questioned and admitted having visited Taylor's apartment an hour before his death. Thereafter she was referred to as the person who last saw Taylor alive.

Spends Year in Europe.

A month after Taylor's death Mary Miles Minter, whose handkerchief had been found in the apartment, sailed for Europe. Two months later Miss Normand also sailed. She spent nearly a year abroad, visiting London, Paris, Berlin, and Naples, and spending a great deal of time hobnobbing with the nobility who made Deauville their playground.

Some of her pertness seemed to have been washed away upon her return. Mabel, who had been the delight of interviewers for her breezy style, was peevish as she landed from the boat. She went to Hollywood and was about to resume her picture career when a new scandal burst. On New Year's eve of 1924 her chauffeur, Horace Greer, burst into the apartment where Courtland Dines, Denver oil operator, was entertaining Miss Normand, and shot him in the chest.

Has Appendix Operation.

Again the screen star became ill. She went to a Los Angeles hospital for removal of her appendix, and while there was deluged with letters, some loyal, others critical. Censors in four states banned her pictures, and when the star left the hospital, Mack Sennett and she parted, thus ending one of the longest associations of director and star in the history of Hollywood.

Dines recovered and Greer was acquitted at a trial where Miss Normand appeared as a piquant principal witness. Six months later she was named in a $500,000 breach of promise suit filed by Mrs. Georgia Church, who charged that Miss Normand had alienated the affections of her husband, Norman W. Church, Los Angeles financier. Miss Norman retaliated by filing suit for a million, charging Mrs. Church with libel. Both suits were dropped.

Mabel Normand was born in Boston and educated at a Westport, Mass., convent. The date of her birth is uncertain, one record giving it as Nov. 10, 1895, and the other as Nov. 10, 1897. She therefore was either 32 or 34 years old.

WASHINGTON HAILED AS FATHER OF U. S. BUSINESS ACTIVITY

Washington, D. C., Feb. 23.—(AP)—A picture of Washington as the big business man and real estate dealer "who would have had little to learn from any modern promoter of subdivisions" was drawn tonight by Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce, in a radio address.

"Washington had to make his living like any one of us today—and he made it as a business man," Dr. Klein said. "That is not in the least to his discredit; it rather adds to our contemporary admiration for him.

"He formed corporations and was our first great commercial executive, the progenitor of that business, managerial genius which has been so potent a force in the growth of our republic. George Washington and Herbert Hoover are alike in being engineers, in having had wide experience in practical business enterprise, and in the assiduous encouragement of constructive undertakings. In the 130 years that separate those two administrations, the nation has had no other chief executive with qualifications of just that sort."

SEARCH CAREER OF VICTIM IN BEATING CRASH

Seek Connections After Unusual Accident.

An attempt to determine the connections of Donald E. Strook, 35 years old, who was killed in an unusual automobile accident early yesterday, will be made at the inquest today.

Efforts of detectives from the Central detail, under direction of Capt. Daniel Gilbert, to learn something of Strook and where he obtained money to buy a $5,000 auto and expensive clothes had been without results last night. Strook had been listed as an agent for a merchant tailoring concern, but the company reported that during his several weeks of employment he had obtained no business.

A man who said he was Strook's brother appeared at St. Luke's hospital shortly after the man had been pronounced dead. He looked at the body, seemingly without emotion and as he turned away said, "Well, the old head is dead at last!" Then he laughed and left.

Visits Undertaking Rooms.

Late in the afternoon the same man walked into the undertaking rooms at 2336 North Clark street and ordered the body brought there. He gave no details concerning Strook's identity nor his own. He said he would be back today.

Strook was riding early yesterday with Frank J. O'Connor and two women in Strook's expensive automobile along Michigan avenue between Chicago avenue and the bridge. A car going in the same direction bumped his fender. O'Connor says the same auto bumped Strook's fender five times.

Two Attack Driver.

Strook forced the other car to a halt at the curb and he and O'Connor leaped out and started to pommel the driver, Erick H. Daniels, 27 years old, of 11 West Delaware place. Daniels had attended a fraternity dance in the Drake hotel.

O'Connor, formerly chief of police of Specialville, got back into the Strook car and took the wheel after he had struck Daniels several times. Strook continued his attack after Daniels had started his car going. The attacker jumped on the running board and clung to the windshield as he kept pounding Daniels about the head and face.

At Lake street, Daniels struck a safety island. His car skidded and Strook was thrown from the running board to the sidewalk, striking his head.

Two Aid Strook.

O'Connor and one woman, Miss Marie Myers, 617 West 14th street, a stenographer, stopped to aid Strook, but the other disappeared. O'Connor and Miss Myers were held temporarily by police. She said she had known O'Connor for two weeks and met Strook Saturday evening. Police released her on her promise to appear at the inquest.

Police found Strook had been living both at 841 Lafayette parkway and at 6731 Jeffery avenue. At the latter address he had been living as D. E. Young, with a young woman whom the police found in the German Deaconess' hospital recovering from an operation.

SPRING LURES MOTORISTS INTO SAME OLD JAMS

But Hopes Are Held Out for Future Years.

BY HAL FOUST.

The 1930 motoring season was opened with yesterday's mild weather. It was the first spring-like Sunday of the year and the boulevards and highways were crowded with automobiles.

After a severe winter, with pavements covered with snow or ice much of the time since Christmas, automobile owners turned out in large numbers for this first opportunity to roll over dry concrete in summer style with sunshine and balmy breezes.

Approximately 300,000 cars were on the roads in Chicago and Cook county. They formed blockades at the congestion points familiar from previous years, the intersections of important highways, such as Lake street and Mannheim road, Milwaukee avenue and Dempster street, and at Dyer, Ind., and Miller, Ind.

Better Roads Promised.

The automobile population of the metropolitan area has been increasing rapidly while little has been done to improve highway facilities. However, Gov. Emmerson plans to widen the radial thoroughfares in the next two years and, with the county, expects to separate the grades at busy corners so the city dweller can visit the country on holidays more conveniently.

Yesterday's traffic was as heavy as on a midsummer Sunday. The congestion became so acute in Lincoln park that officials were forced to open the outer drive, which had been closed since the lake storms and high waters of last fall washed out the pavement.

Thousands of cars bumped over a temporary pavement on the lake front, escaping the blockades on the inner drives. The scheme worked so successfully that, according to Lincoln park police, the outer drive will be opened hereafter for one way traffic during the rush hours while repairs are being made.

South Side Drive Also Bad.

The outer drive on the south side is in no better condition, though it is supposed to be a modern boulevard. The temporary pavement leading into Jackson park from the north is rough and speeds above fifteen miles an hour cause discomfort. The slowing up of traffic at this point resulted in blockades.

Aside from the delays at intersections and the congestion on entering and leaving the city, yesterday afforded genuine motoring pleasure to a motoring hungry public. Cars were performing with summer efficiency, although there were some radiators steaming anti-freeze solutions. Sedans were driven with windows open. Touring cars had their tops down.

The forest preserves, sand dunes, beaches and parks were too wet from melting frosts for strolls, so the public enjoyed the premature spring on pavements.

ELOPEMENT ENDS IN JOB HUNT FOR 2 YOUNG HUSBANDS

After matrimony comes a job, two high school boys learned yesterday on their return with their brides to their Chicago homes following an elopment to Springfield, Mo. George Barbaras, 21 years old, 5712 New Hampshire avenue, and his chum, Herman Schirmer, also 21, and like Barbaras a student at Carl Schurz High school, must find jobs to support their wives, was the parental ultimatum that was issued together with forgiveness.

Barbaras was actually married last July, he revealed, to Virginia Seib of 5345 Montrose avenue. Virginia is a niece of Herman's bride, Lorine Newbrogh. The latter couple were married in Springfield, the point reached by the four on a projected automobile trip to California, financed by their combined resources of $20. When the funds ran out and they wired home for more, George's father, Albert C. Barbaras, and R. H. Seib, father of Virginia, responded in person and brought the elopers home.

Father Finds His Son Dead of Auto Fumes in Garage

Irwin Lambert, 30 years old, 5624 South Elizabeth street, was found dead of automobile fumes yesterday in the garage at the rear of his home. Lambert started to go for a drive on Saturday night and when he failed to return yesterday, his father, Robert Lambert, went in search of him. He found his son dead at the wheel of the car.

RUTH M'CORMICK TO CAMPAIGN IN NORTH COUNTIES

Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican primary candidate for United States senator, was preparing her itinerary yesterday so that at the end of the week she will have visited 81 of the 102 Illinois counties.

She will return from Washington in time to speak tomorrow in Belvidere and Woodstock. On Wednesday she will make speeches in Ogle and De Kalb counties. Thursday she will visit Douglas and Champaign counties, and on Friday she will appear in Ford, Iroquois, and Kankakee counties. She will speak later in one city in each of ten counties. Her Cook county campaign will start March 10, and thereafter she will make daily talks at meetings or on the radio.

Next Sunday night she will be the guest of the supreme lodge of the Italian-American National union in the Morrison hotel. An addition to the volunteer forces of campaigners for Mrs. McCormick was announced yesterday as Mrs. Marie Anna Schaedler, who is organizing a committee of German-Americans.

R. L. Radcliffe, chairman of the labor committee in Mrs. McCormick's headquarters, announced yesterday that unions in Illinois with a total membership of more than 100,000 had indorsed her candidacy.

"Our committee has chairmen and subcommittees in counties throughout the state and the enthusiasm and energy shown by these workers encourages us to believe that the rank and file of organized labor in Illinois will give Mrs. McCormick a splendid vote at the April 8 primary," Radcliffe said.

CALL ATTORNEY IN BANK CRASH OVERDRAFT QUIZ

Walter P. Murphy, Chicago attorney, who is a director of the People's State bank of Maywood, closed recently by the state auditor, will be questioned today concerning $38,000 in alleged overdrafts cashed by the bank for the Suburban Times Publishing company, of which Murphy is the treasurer, it was announced last night by Edward Markham, assistant state's attorney. A teller of the bank has admitted, according to prosecutors, that he cashed several overdrafts for the publishing concern, although knowing that the drafts bore forged signatures of Murphy. Mr. Markham said that he was not satisfied with the explanation that Murphy's signature was a forgery.

7 Hours in Bed and Not 7 Minutes of Sleep!

The Toll Acidity Takes

You go to bed dog-tired, but the minute you hit the pillow all sleepiness vanishes. If you do sleep at all, it's only in snatches and you wake out of these "stupors" with a strange, startled feeling, sometimes in a cold sweat. Morning finds you a rag, gaunt and hollow-eyed and barely able to crawl out of bed.

Acidity is due to our unnatural eating habits, our excessive smoking and irregular hours. The excess acid upsets digestion and causes acid-indigestion with gas and heartburn. It causes putrefaction and fermentation in the gastro-intestinal canal, which frequently results in ragged nerves, sleeplessness, logy days and general loss of strength and vitality.

A remarkable new corrective of acidity has been developed by a famous 100 year old pharmaceutical house in Germany. This new, improved magnesia comes in the form of small white tablets called Magnesia Oxoids, which do not have to be chewed, but which may be swallowed whole. Magnesia Oxoids, upon contact with the acid in the stomach, generate nascent, or active, oxygen! Now, active oxygen, as any doctor will tell you, when generated within the digestive tract does just the things required for acidity. It stimulates the secretion of the alkaline mucus. It checks the putrefaction and fermentation in the gastro-intestinal canal. It exercises a stimulating effect upon the activities of the intestinal walls and aids the movement of the bowels.

All three effects are necessary to the true relief of acidity, and Magnesia Oxoids supply them in a perfectly natural manner.

5-Day Acidity Test

To ascertain just how "acid" you are, make this 5-day acidity test. Get a bottle of Magnesia Oxoids from Walgreen's Drug Stores and Economical Drug Stores or any other druggist on our money-back guarantee. Take two after each meal for five days. Mark the change in your physical condition—note how more sound and restful your sleep and how more cheerful and active your days. If you don't sleep better and have more "pep" and power, return the balance of the Magnesia Oxoids to the druggist and he will refund your money.

BOULDER DAM BARED AS PAWN IN POWER ROW

Senate Radicals Attack Wilbur's Plans.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Just as opponents of Boulder Dam predicted would be the case, power production has become the big stake in the scramble for the benefits of the 165 million dollar project. What were represented during consideration of the legislation as the primary and pressing reasons for the building of the highest dam in the world at the taxpayers' expense seem to have been subordinated or forgotten.

Radicals in congress with the approval of the California sponsors of the legislation are directing their fire against Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur with the apparent object of forcing him to allocate power in such a way as to deal a blow to private power interests. The situation has taken this turn despite the insistence of supporters of Boulder Dam during the crucial stages of the legislation fight two years ago that power production would be provided merely as a means of financing a project intended first and foremost for flood control, second for irrigation, and third for a domestic water supply for municipalities of southern California. Power development was listed at that time as of fourth and incidental importance.

Woodruff Speaks Plainly.

"This Boulder dam law is an arrow aimed directly at the heart of the power trust," said George W. Woodruff of Pennsylvania, a former attorney in the interior department and close friend of Gifford Pinchot, in a statement issued in Washington during the last week. "It not only hurts the trust by freeing the municipalities in California, Nevada, and Arizona from its domination, but it will be an example leading gradually to nation-wide freedom. The future of the whole country is at stake. This being so, how illegal and how unwise for Secretary Wilbur to give the power trust any of the power so clearly dedicated by congress to the municipalities."

That production of cheap power by the government was the chief purpose of the Boulder Dam legislation is the impression conveyed in a magazine article inserted in the Congressional Record by Senator George W. Norris [Rep., Neb.], radical leader.

Situation Called "Monstrous."

This article commenced as follows: "Let us suppose that a number of states and municipalities seeking cheap electric power have succeeded, over the prolonged and bitter opposition of certain private power interests in inducing the government to build a large hydroelectric plant with public funds; let us suppose that the private power interests having lost the fight have the incredible nerve to ask that the power be given to them instead of to the states and municipalities which made it possible—is it reasonable to suppose that any administration would even momentarily consider granting such a request? Obviously it is not. Yet that is exactly the situation with regard to Boulder Dam as this is written. It is monstrous, shocking, incredible—and true."

According to those who figured in the unsuccessful fight against Boulder Dam legislation, the statements which are now made by proponents of the project disclose motives which were carefully kept in the background.

Charges Once Denied.

The advocates of the legislation indignantly denied the charge by the late Representative E. O. Leatherwood [Rep., Utah] in a minority report from the house committee that "it is a scheme to secure construction by the federal government of a power project under the guise of a flood control and irrigation measure," and similar statements in a minority report by Representative L. W. Douglas [Dem., Ariz.] It was insisted by Mr. Douglas that the project was not for flood control, irrigation, domestic water, desilting or navigation, but for "the largest power project in history owned and operated by the government."

It was on the basis of assurances that the project was not intended to put the government into the power business in competition with private industry that approval was given by former President Coolidge as well as by administration leaders in the two houses of congress.

Wilbur Seeks Assurance.

The position of Secretary Wilbur is that it is his responsibility to enter into contracts which will offer some assurance that the government will get back the part of its investment which under the law is supposed to be paid back through power production over a period of 50 years. Consequently if private power companies are ready to absorb some of the power, he holds, they should be permitted to do so, regardless of the fact that these power companies opposed Boulder dam legislation.

Secretary Wilbur presumably has in mind the experiences of his department in attempting to carry out legislation sponsored by far western members of congress for reclamation development under which the government originally was to have been reimbursed in ten years, then in 20 years, still later in 40 years, and on the basis of present conditions in anywhere from 50 to 100 years.

Secretary Wilbur is expected to announce within a few days his final allocation of power. It is understood that he will make only slight modification in his tentative allocation of 50 per cent to the metropolitan water district of southern California, or as much thereof as may be needed for the pumping of Colorado river water, 25 per cent to the city of Los Angeles and 25 per cent to the southern California Edison and associated companies, these allotments to be subject to prior deductions up to 18 per cent each for Nevada and Arizona and a small percentage for municipalities.

Contracts for power must be executed under the law before construction work is commenced.

GAINS BY WETS THROUGHOUT U. S. SHOWN IN 1929

Five States Reject Own Dry Laws.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Distinct political gains were registered by the wet forces of the country during 1929, with one more state, Wisconsin, added to those rejecting state dry laws, as shown in the annual report issued today by the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment.

"The supporters of prohibition were beaten in 1929 in Maryland, New York and Wisconsin in vitally important contests, and a formidable movement for a further repudiation of Volsteadism is well under way in Massachusetts," the report declared. "The net gain at present is that Wisconsin has decisively joined the states which have rejected concurrent legislation in the shape of state Volstead acts.

"There are now five such states: New York, Maryland, Wisconsin, Montana, and Nevada."

"Prospects Excellent."

Reviewing the fight in various other states over dry laws, the report declares "the prospects for further important advances are excellent" in Illinois and elsewhere.

"An effort to put the question of repeal of the state Volstead act of Illinois before the people in a referendum was defeated by the drys, with a margin of six votes in the senate after a bill for that purpose had passed the house," continues the report. "The measure, known as the Weber-O'Grady bill, was passed by the house by a vote of 77 to 65. In the senate it was defeated, 27 to 21, with three members absent.

"Pulls Out Prop."

Admitting the "legal and peaceable revolt" of the five states which have voted wet does not alter national prohibition, the association report contended that nevertheless "it pulls out a false prop from under that artificial structure."

"The national government," the report continued, "has already confessed that it cannot enforce national prohibition unless the states and their individual citizens turn in and help—and in all conscience should not this confession end the argument for federal fiddling with state affairs? If Kansas wants prohibition let her have it, but let her not make the use of wine in Massachusetts a felony.

Liberties Are Lost.

"Liberties are lost one by one. If a glass of wine be a crime today a cup of coffee or the free choice of one's religion may become so tomorrow.

Summarizing the year's activities of the A. A. P. A., the report showed expenditures of $427,213, and receipts of $457,326. New state divisions were established in New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, and Rhode Island, divisions previously having been organized in California, Delaware, Maryland, Massachusets and Nevada. Organization work is going on in Arizona, Colorado, Montana, Wisconsin, and other states.

Although the association has formed no state organization yet, in Illinois, six Chicagoans are listed as directors. They are R. T. Crane, Jr., president of the Crane company; Samuel M. Felton, chairman of the board of the Chicago Great Western railroad; Stanley Field, director of Marshall Field & Co.; Mitchell D. Follansbee of Follansbee, Shorey, & Schupp; Ralph M. Shaw, attorney, Winston, Strawn, & Shaw, and Joseph L. Valentine, trustee.

Police Plan New Hunt for Clews in Woman's Slaying

A new search of the strip of woodland skirting the Milwaukee railroad tracks at the Forest Glen station will be made by the police today in an effort to find evidence that might have been left behind by the slayer of Mrs. Agnes Lavander, 5451 Ludlam avenue, who was shot to death near the station last Monday night. That search will be directed by Lieuts. Julian Bernacchi and Charles E. Dudley of the Irving Park station. The police yesterday confronted an impasse in their hunt for clews to the identity of the killer.

FILIPINOS SPLIT 3 WAYS IN FIGHT TO WIN FREEDOM

Want Independence, but Disagree on Plans.

BY FORD WILKINS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MANILA, P. I., Feb. 24.—[Monday.] The first Philippine independence engines swung into full stride last night, with the discussion of various plans and consequences of independence. The talks revealed such a wide divergence of opinion among foremost leaders that it may lead to a permanent factional split.

The congress is divided into three sections, with one body discussing the economic phases of freedom, another its international aspects, and a third its political phases. The last named proposes a protectorate form of government like Egypt, and also expresses its faith that the league of nations is sufficient protection in the event of independence.

Economic Aspect Looms.

"When we get our independence by Divine Providence will take care of the Filipinos," said Dean Jorge Bocobo, leading Nationalist.

The political division, letting its oratory flow promiscuously, insisted on complete, absolute, and immediate independence, not once mentioning a protectorate, which its leaders are all in favor.

The economic aspect was brought home to Filipinos strongly with speeches by Rafael Alunan, secretary of agriculture, and Miguel Unson, secretary of finance, forming the real backbone of the conference.

Differ Over Same Figure.

Although the secretaries differed on their conclusions, Señor Alunan refused to rationalize his pessimistic figures, showing ruin for practically every industry in the islands. Señor Unson, using the same set of figures, claimed the islands are ready for independence anyway.

The congress was provided with some excitement in finding additional expression regarding the effort to boycott American cigarets by fists. The attacks continue and many Filipinos are beaten up daily. The recent school strike, which was settled with the removal of the American teacher, Mabel Brummitt, finds students crowing over their victory.

VIENNA LAUGHS IN FACE OF HUGE ECONOMIC CRASH

Army of Jobless Totals Fourth of People.

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Feb. 23.—Official unemployment figures show one-fourth of the nation's working population is unemployed. And today the Vienna police recorded 15 attempted suicides.

Not so many persons try to kill themselves every day here for, according to police records, suicides in Austria have only increased fourfold since 1914. That 15 had the idea of doing it on the same day perhaps only indicates that Austria is worse off now than a month ago, or a year ago, if that is possible.

Industry at a Standstill.

To many the situation seems hopeless. Still, the once dazzling capital of the mighty Hapsburg empire struggles on somehow. The charming but frivolous Viennese, though starving and poverty stricken, refuse to believe that the end is near. Industry here is at a standstill. One-third of the industrial plants have closed down, and the rest are only running a fraction of the time.

Figures for February divulge that 283,000 of the unemployed are receiving state doles out of a population of 6,500,000. This is 10,000 more than last month and 25,000 more than a year ago, whene every one thought that the very zero of depression had been reached.

The government estimates that there are from 400,000 to 450,000 unemployed who do not receive the dole. Added to this are probably another couple of thousand from the bourgeois and gentry, who are too proud to ask for the dole from the hated Socialists.

Seek Way Out of Depression.

But the situation in Austria is getting more desperate every day, so next Saturday the Socialist trade unions, employers, and the government will get together to try to find some way out of the morass.

The employers are handicapped by their inability to borrow capital at a decent rate of interest to finance their concerns, and are also weighed down by exorbitant taxes imposed by legislation passed.

The employers propose cutting down the terrifically high unemployment insurance tax. But the Marxists will have none of it. They blame the stagnant condition of industry on the banks, which ask 8 to 12 per cent for loans.

Seek $100,000,000 Loan.

The way out seems to be the floating of a government loan of $100,000,000 as soon as The Hague agreement is ratified. Part of this, about $16,000,000, is to be paid to the banks in settlement of the state railroad debt, thus releasing the capital for general industries. The rest is to be applied to the development of Alpine water power works and a building program. More than $50,000,000 is needed for the housing project.

Despite its hundreds of thousands of workless who rely on the dole, and probably 200,000 others who do not know where their next meal is coming from, Vienna, outwardly at least, retains much of its charm of the golden pre-war days. Behind these baroque facades there may be suffering and privation. But on the outside, in ballrooms, cafés, theaters, concert houses, there is gayety.

The Viennese cafés, the real center of the town's social life, are as crowded as ever. Though beer, wine and brandies may be obtained in all of the cafés, 99 out of 100 of the Viennese drink coffe. The great Vienna opera, with or without Maria Jeritza, retains its artistic excellence of pre-war days, as does the state theater. Both receive large government subventions.

2 BOYS KILLED WHEN KITE WIRE HITS POWER LINE

Danbury, Conn., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Two boys, brothers, were killed today when a fine wire with which they were flying a kite fell across an overhead wire carrying 2,500 volts of electricity.

The boys were Carl Will, 14, and Wendell, 12.

Joseph Eonorzicz, who attempted to extricate the kite from a bush near his home, was thrown to the ground unconscious. He was revived and apparently escaped serious injury.

The boys were found in a field by a passerby.

JAPAN LIBERALS TRIUMPH ON FULL DINNER PAIL CRY

New Premier Noted for His Rigid Standards.

BY ST. CLAIR M'KELWAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Feb. 23.— The cautious and almost smileless premier, Yuko Hamaguchi, whose slogan has been the same as that of America's leading party—prosperity—took hold of the reins of government with new confidence today.

The Minseito (Liberal Opposition) party, which entered office following the forced resignation of the late Baron Giichi Tanaka last July, won 273 of the 466 seats in the diet, winning a plurality of 91 seats over the other major party, the Seiyukai (Conservative Ministerialists), according to the final count of the ballots cast last Thursday.

Labor Failure Conspicuous.

Of unusual interest was the widespread unpopularity of the proletarian parties. Only five of their candidates were elected throughout the empire, among the defeated being Dr. Isoo Abe, a leader of the Social Democratic party. Much of the proletarian lack of success was due to lack of coördination. The proletarians were split into three distinct parties, the Social Democratic party, the Farmer party and the Labor party.

Many observers see in the result of the election the distinct reaction of the Japanese masses against any sort of radical departure from the empire's ancient traditions. Dr. Abe admitted that he thinks the time is not ripe for the proletarians to enjoy the faith of the people.

The public scandals which in recent months have led to several former cabinet ministers being jailed, besmirched men who had been personally approved of by the emperor, and involved both major parties, seemed to have made no impression on the mass of the voters. None of the minor party showed an appreciable increase in popularity.

Premier Called "Lion Face."

Premier Hamaguchi, a short, stocky, rustic born man who seldom smiles and is known as "lion face," is chiefly noted for his ability to keep from getting excited in the face of grave crises. He is famed also as a painstaking economic administrator in private as well as public life. He neither drinks or smokes. Former Premier Tanaka died in a concubine's house, and the majority of Japan's politicians openly frequent geisha houses to attend gay parties, but Premier Hamaguchi never attends such parties.

It is said that Premier Hamaguchi once did attend a geisha party, and after a prolonged silence addressed one remark to the geisha delegated to him. He asked her opinion of the government's policy on lifting the gold embargo.

Pigeons Carry Election News.

Public interest in this election, the second under the universal suffrage law, reached a high point throughout the empire. Tokio was as excited as when the Zeppelin flew over. Newspapers installed loud speakers to proclaim the late news, and for the last three days newsboys have been overrunning the principal cities. Carrier pigeons by the hundreds brought the latest returns to the furthest rural districts, and there it was megaphoned to the crowds.

Kintaro Yamamoto, who has voted first for the last 19 years, again triumphed after waiting ten hours with his brush in his hand. He had previously planned to wait five hours, but he heard a neighbor of his in a public bath house, which is Japan's place of gossip in the center of the day, plan an earlier arrival, so he decided on a longer vigil.

DIES OF SELF INFLICTED WOUND.

Edward Jaskolski, 27 years old, 1634 West 18th street, a photographer, died last night at the People's hospital after shooting himself in the head early yesterday while sitting in an abandoned car in an automobile wrecking yard at 2115 Federal street. Jaskolski arose from bed late Saturday night and putting on his clothes over his pajamas walked to the auto yard.

PRINCE NOW SUES FOR DIVORCE IN MONACO SCANDAL

Makes Sure Son's Royal Status Is Safe.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTE CARLO, Monaco, Feb. 23.—The report is current here tonight that Prince Pierre of Monaco has changed his mind and revised his petition for separation from his wife, Charlotte, hereditary princess of Monaco, to one for divorce.

Because of the intense secrecy preserved by the principality's handful of officials it was impossible to confirm the report. However, it is learned that Prince Pierre has received the assurance he asked from the country's little ruling council that in the event of a divorce his little son, Prince Rainier, would not lose his right to the throne.

Hesitated for Son's Sake.

Fear that his son would lose his status originally kept him from asking an absolute divorce. Another factor was that he naturally prefers to be known as prince of Monaco to merely Count de Polignac, his title before his marriage. Besides, in Monaco you do not have to pay any taxes and in France, Prince Pierre's first home, you do.

Prince Pierre, it is also learned, after depositing his children with the duchess of Vendome at Cannes, left for Paris and is now on the road driving, presumably, with the recklessness to which he has accustomed the Monegasques.

Princess Charlotte's return to the palace was quite an exciting affair, it now develops, with the resignation today of Lieut. Col. Alban Gastaldi, aide de camp to the sovereign and chancellor of the Order of St. Charles; a countess who was a lady in waiting; M. Bartholoni, the court chamberlain, and his wife, Mme. Bartholoni, a lady in waiting. The princess staged some kind of a disturbance and then retired to her chamber, not appearing as expected at a gala party given that night by the French colony.

Charlotte Plans New Alliance.

It is rumored in court circles that Dr. Dalmasso, whom Prince Pierre is reported to have named in his petition for divorce, is only a stalking horse so to speak, and Princess Charlotte's real ambition is to marry a certain prince of Bourbon-Parma when she has got rid of Prince Pierre.

The truth is that she is proud of the title which her father, Prince Louis, the ruler of the principality, made possible when he had her legitimized, and would not care to lose her position for a mere doctor. The Bourbon-Parma house is linked both with the Spanish royal family and the still existing pretenders to the French throne.

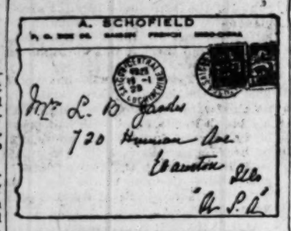
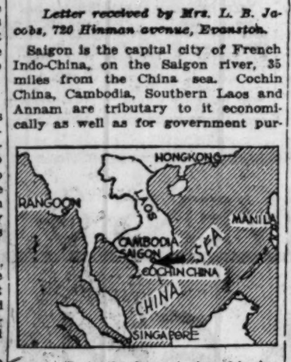
From Saigon, Cochin-China



Letter received by Mrs. L. B. Jacobs, 720 Hinman avenue, Evanston.

Saigon is the capital city of French Indo-China, on the Saigon river, 35 miles from the China sea. Cochin China, Cambodia, Southern Laos and Annam are tributary to it economically as well as for government purposes. It is the largest rice shipping point in the world and the most important Asiatic port between Singapore and Hongkong. It is France's important naval base in the orient and has a population of about 70,000.



U. S. INDICTS 6 FOR SMUGGLING POLISH ALIENS

New York, Feb. 23.—[Special.]—An indictment charging six men with conspiracy to smuggle aliens from Poland into this country was returned on Friday in the federal court in Brooklyn, Lindsay R. Henry of the staff of United States Attorney Amell revealed today.

Four of the men indicted are under arrest.

The principal witness against them will be Harry Hall, formerly American vice consul in Warsaw, who, according to Mr. Henry, told officials of the state department that he gave the alleged leader of the band visas signed in blank while intoxicated. The spurious visas, Hall said, were sold for from $600 to $1,000.

BITTER ELECTION OVER YRIGOYEN GRIPS ARGENTINA

Ballot for 79 Deputies to Show Radical Slump.

BY HAROLD TATAM.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 23.—Next Sunday Argentine voters will be called on to elect 79 national deputies, constituting one-half the chamber of deputies. A fierce election campaign is now going on, organized principally by the Conservative Socialist and Independent Socialist parties.

Although it is improbable that the political complexion of the chamber, at present overwhelmingly radical, will be greatly changed by Sunday's voting, it is generally anticipated that there will be a sharp slump in the radical poll.

Yrigoyen Losing Cities.

While President Hipolito Yrigoyen's personal popularity is still great in the rural districts, where his party is expected to win despite a distinct waning of radical enthusiasm, the voting in the cities, principally Buenos Aires, is generally expected to show a violent reaction against the government party and a total absence of the "veneration" of President Yrigoyén which characterized the presidential election of 1928.

Reawakening after having been long dormant the Conservative party will contest most of the provincial seats next Sunday, having been encouraged by the recent elections of provincial governors. They are likely to obtain striking successes in the towns but are not likely to break down the radical hold on the rural districts, except in the provinces of San Luis and Entre Rios, where Yrigoyenism is at a low ebb, though the provinces of Santa Fe and Cordoba may supply surprises.

Radicals Feeling Ebb.

With respect to the city of Buenos Aires itself both the Socialists and Independent Socialists are waging a bitter fight to regain their old time supremacy encouraged by the strong anti-Yrigoyenist feeling. It is now evident that the radicals anticipate a "moral defeat" in the shape of a division of seats with their Socialist opponents.

Such a result will probably be a shock to the aged president, whose entourage it is currently believed, do not permit him to read criticisms by independent opposition papers, and who is therefore entirely ignorant of the unquestionable decline of his popularity.

OFFICIAL WEDS OFFICIAL.

Logansport, Ind., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Miss Maude Davidson, deputy county recorder here, and Benjamin F. Carr, former judge of the White county Circuit court at Monticello, were married today.

2 GIRLS LURED; 3 FIRE ENGINES PURSUE AUTOIST

Suspect Is Captured in Evanston.

Attacks on women and girls received the attention of the Evanston police and the police of the Gresham district on the south side last night. In Evanston three fire engines were called out to pursue a suspect who had tried to lure two 10 year old girls into his automobile. The Gresham police were trying to identify a Negro as the assailant of several Chicago women.

The Negro, Frank Hart, 25 years old, 3636 South Wabash avenue, was captured by a crowd of a dozen men Saturday evening after he had tried to attack Miss Ruth Collins, 23 years old, 7645 Lafayette avenue.

Cries Bring Rescuers.

Miss Collins was on her way home when Hart seized her and tried to drag her into an alley on 77th street between State street and Lafayette avenue. She broke from his grasp and ran screaming toward a neighbor's house. Hart seized her again, but her cries attracted a crowd of rescuers. They captured Hart and beat him into unconsciousness before the Gresham police arrived.

Several south side women who have been attacked recently will view Hart today in an effort to identify him.

Girls Accuse Salesman.

The man arrested in Evanston is Allen B. Caldwell, 39 years old, 345 18th street, Milwaukee, a scales salesman. Two little girls said he tried to persuade them to enter his car at Church street and Orrington avenue. The girls became frightened at his persistence and ran to a drug store, notifying the proprietor.

Unable to get the police station on the phone, the druggist turned in a fire alarm and three fire engines and a police patrol wagon responded. Caldwell was arrested a few minutes later and locked up.

Missing Girls Found.

Two Libertyville girls, both 16 years old, were found by Evanston police yesterday in a flat at 7711 North Paulina avenue. The girls had been reported missing on Friday. Two taxicab drivers, Arthur Hunke, 31 years old, and William McKenney, 23 years old, occupants of the flat, were taken to Libertyville and held to the Lake county grand jury on bonds of $1,000 each on charges of contributing to the delinquency of the girls.

AUTO HITS BUGGY; WOMAN DIES.

Dubuque, Ia., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Mrs. Amelia Sutter, 70, was killed and her husband, Robert, 76, was seriously injured early today near East Dubuque when the buggy in which they were returning after a party in East Dubuque was struck by an auto driven by Charles Williams, 33, Elizabeth, Ill., in the dark. Sutter is expected to recover.

HOOVER INQUIRY OPENS SOON ON ISLAND OF HAITI

Washington, D. C., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Tuesday morning the commission appointed by President Hoover and headed by W. Cameron Forbes, a former governor general of the Philippines, sails from Key West, Fla., to determine what progress Haiti, under American supervision, has made toward self-government and how and when the helping hand may safely be withdrawn.

News dispatches and private advices from Port au Prince assure the commission of an enthusiastic reception from the various groups, including the occupation forces, who for as many different reasons are anxious for a painstaking appraisal of the achievements and failures of Uncle Sam's fifteen years' labor to set the Negro republic on its feet.

All classes, it seems, are happy over the unexpected eminence of the President's selections for the commission, which, in addition to Chairman Forbes, includes Henry P. Fletcher, former ambassador to Italy; William Allen White, the Kansas publisher; Elie Vezina of Rhode Island, and James Kerney of New Jersey.

The majority of Haitians literate enough to understand the situation—the "elite" mulatto class, the less than 5 per cent of the population which ruled the country before the American interventions—are anti-occupation, and while they have little hope of success, they will demand immediate withdrawal of the protectorate which for fifteen years has prevented them from plundering the public treasury as they believe they have a divine right to do.

COOLIDGES PLAN TO START RETURN EAST TOMORROW

Santa Barbara, Cal., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Coolidge are about to conclude their first visit to southern California, it was learned tonight after the former President and his wife had seen the sights of Santa Barbara. The information is that they plan to leave for the east on Tuesday.

They ask that no public demonstration be arranged during their stay here as guests at the Monticedo estate of Mark L. Requa, prominent Republican.

They attended morning service at the First Congregational church and heard a sermon by the Rev. H. C. Culberson of Los Angeles. Later they were escorted through the historic Santa Barbara mission.

2 Boys Play with Matches in Home; Burns Kill One

Mrs. Mary Kuklewicz, 922 West Madison street, went to a neighborhood shop for a few minutes Saturday night and her sons, John, 2 years old, and Stanley, 3, found some matches. When she returned Johnny's clothes were aflame and Stanley was trying to put them out with a glass of water. John died in the county hospital yesterday.

COMPLETE LIST OF COOK COUNTY CENSUS CHIEFS

Seven Generals to Rule Nose Counting.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Cook county's last census supervisor has been appointed, it was announced today by W. M. Steuart, director of the census, completing the list of seven under whose direction a small army of enumerators will start counting noses in Chicago and its environs April 1.

The Chicago metropolitan area has been carved by the census bureau into seven districts, stretching from the Indiana to the Wisconsin lines, and west to River Forest. One supervisor will preside over each district, reporting directly to Washington.

Here's Full List.

The full list of Chicagoland supervisors who were nominated by Senator Charles S. Deenen [Rep., Ill.] and approved by Director Steuart, their headquarters and districts are as follows:

Henry M. Porter—Chicago. Wards 1, 2, 3, 4, and 11.

Frederick Kuhlman—Chicago. Wards 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, and 10.

David A. McGilvray—Chicago. Wards 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, and 19; Calumet, Lyons, Stickney, Lemont, Palos, Worth, Orland, Bremen, Thornton, Rich, and Bloom townships.

Joseph E. Veseley—Chicago. Wards 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 29, and 30; Berwyn, Cicero, Proviso, River Forest, and Riverside townships.

John R. Malmquist—Chicago. Wards 28, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, and 39; Leyden, Norwood Park, and Oak Park townships.

Woman Named for Evanston.

Mrs. Estelle Northam — Evanston. Wards 40 and 41; Barrington, Hanover, Palatine, Schaumburg, Elk Grove, Wheeling, Maine, Northfield, Niles, New Trier, and Evanston townships; Lake county.

Ralph L. Goodman—Chicago. Wards 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, and 50.

Approximately 100,000 enumerators will be required to take the census all over the country, of whom from 175 to 300 will be under each supervisor in the Chicago area districts.

As the 1930 census law requires that in cities having 2,500 or more inhabitants the enumeration must be completed within two weeks, the Chicago enumerators will start their house to house and office to office canvass early the morning of April 1. As fast as the returns are completed from a district they will be announced locally by the supervisor.

Plan 24 Questions.

Twenty-four questions will be put by the enumerators to each individual or to persons who can answer them for individuals in their households. These will include the usual information as to sex, race, age, marital condition, education, literacy, place of birth, parents' place of birth, mother tongue, occupation, industry in which employed, and whether employer, employe or working on own account.

Among the most important of the new questions will be that calling for the value of the home if owned, or the monthly rental if rented. This will make possible a classification of families according to economic status or buying power, a classification urgently desired by business firms using the census figures.

Marriage Ages Wanted.

Another new question will ask for the age at first marriage, thus producing information as to the relative age at marriage of persons in different racial and economic groups, and the size of families. A listing of radio sets will show how large the potential radio audience is.

The 1930 census will be the fifteenth, it having been 140 years since the first census was taken in 1790. At that time the population of the United States was only 3,929,214, less than the present population of the Chicago districts alone. It is expected the coming census will have to enumerate 125,000,000 people comprising the inhabitants of continental United States and of all outlying territories and possessions except the Philippines, of which a census was taken in 1919 by the Philippine government.

WILKINS MAPS 300 MILES OF NEW ANTARCTIC LAND

MONTEVIDEO, Feb. 23.—(AP)—Maps showing 300 miles of hitherto unknown coast line discovered by the Wilkins expedition to the antarctic and movie films showing scenes of the eternal ice were landed here today on the Norwegian steamer Hendrik Ibsen, which brought the party from the far south. Sir George Hubert Wilkins, head of the expedition, and Pilot Chessmann left the ship off the coast and flew to land by airplane yesterday.

Sir Hubert said he found less ice than on his previous expedition to the south polar regions, but the weather was invariably worse. Six flights were made in his hydroplanes, some over land, others over the sea, and still other over large masses of floating ice which resembled islands of exceptional size. Three of the flights were of long duration and traversed hitherto unknown territory never described by other antarctic explorers, Sir Hubert said. Altogether the planes flew 2,500 miles and discovered 300 miles of new coast and two islands previously unknown.

He said the expedition also was able to verify theories that the so-called Charcot island, discovered by the French explorer Charcot, is not an island but a peninsula, with a large continent southward. West of Charcot, instead of finding the land he expected, he found only water.

FRENCH FRIVOLITY.

The London conference is a bit impatient that France should have chosen this precise time to have first a sick and then a new premier, involving the blowing up of one government and the setting up of another which confessedly has Leon Erroll legs. It took France out of the parley when it was thought that some one might be about to begin to get somewhere. Consequently criticism in London is almost testy, crying out against the "irresponsible and frivolous" political system to which the French are addicted.

Tardieu went home sick and it would be unkind to hold him responsible for that, although if the premier had to be sick there could not have been any better time to have an illness. It had the elegance and delicacy of an exquisite diplomatic triumph. Furthermore, if there was to be a blowup over the budget proposal of allowing the shopkeeper to write something off his taxes if his wife was his assistant, here again was the beau moment. The explosion explodes and Tardieu cannot come back because he is sick and mad and the radical cabinet will exist only so long as he permits it to live. Meanwhile France has a stopgap government and how can the conference go ahead with negotiations on such terms? If the new premier goes to London any meeting of the delegates may be interrupted by a message for him from Paris: "You're fired." How can any sober gathering of statesmen get anywhere in such a fashion?

The "irresponsible and frivolous" French governmental system is the delight and excitement of the soundest country in Europe. It has about all of Europe's remaining gold and is getting more of it. It has no unemployment and its people are not painfully taxed. It has signed all the peace treaties, covenants, and protocols, and has the best army on the continent. It has increased its overseas real estate holdings by mandate and expansion. It has just about the navy it wants and a great air fleet. It comes out of every conference with about what it desired to have when it went in. It cuts through the moral rhapsodies of starry eyed convocations and emerges with a cartload of material assets. It wants submarines and keeps them. It compromised its debts on the soundest percentage basis and friendly Americans and other peoples have helped clear up the débris of war. Everybody likes to visit the charming land and spend money there at special tourist prices—which are not reductions.

If this be irresponsibility and frivolity France may say: "Make the most of it." Tardieu may be sick. Chautemps may have rickety political legs. One blowup may follow another. France may not be able to send any responsible agents to London just now, but Washington should be so frivolous and come away from London, when it comes, with so many good products of irresponsibility.

THE CHILD STALINS.

Child communists who have been working in the public schools to bring their schoolmates and playmates to class consciousness and then have them chase the bourgeoisie up the street were taken into court for inciting a school strike. Their artless prattle of the revolution interested the judge, who asked them if they were not willing to work their reforms a little less violently. No, they weren't. They were Reds and they wanted red meat.

Juveniles may find communism an interesting child's game. It has a great many things attractive to them. There is the illusion of maturity, essential in an exciting game. They can talk just as sensibly as a grownup communist, with a patter of mystic phrases. They are supposed to be quite terrifying, a thing the most amiable child likes occasionally to be, but the amiable ones do not carry it beyond reason. They will relent, when it has gone far enough, and confess that they are not really hairy wolves and the folks can come down off the piano, and as a reward could they have some candy? Then there is the destructiveness and some children think they would like to shoot 'em down and lop off heads, burn big buildings, and divide up the contents of confectionery stores.

Communism, with a good bedtime story teller, might do something in the kindergarten, where its general logic would confine it.

DIVORCE IN NEW YORK.

The reactionary attitude of the New York City Bar association, which pronounced against legislation for relaxing the stringent New York laws governing divorce, has a sardonic humor. The New York restrictions are imposed on the poor and the obscure and are easily avoided by any one with money enough to reach a more lenient jurisdiction. They are to themselves the product of prejudice and override human experience, but their weakest aspect is their futility in reaching the class which most flagrantly defies them. To the individual suffering which they inflict is added the public injustice of their unequal incidence. The New York bar, whatever the influences which have directed its formal action, has little support for it in social conditions or in that science of law which the legal profession is supposed to understand and interpret to the public. Its position is neither enlightened in principle nor expedient in social effect.

THE BRIDGE NUISANCE.

The city's traffic engineer, Leslie Sorenson, reports that the traffic over the downtown bridges is four times as dense as it was fifteen years ago. In the same time the use of the river for navigation has shown no appreciable increase. Nevertheless, the hours during which the bridges may not be opened are today fewer than they were seventeen years ago.

The injustice to citizens of Chicago who suffer delays in consequence of the bridge openings is apparent. It is impossible to believe, under the circumstances, that the case for modifying the present regulations has been adequately stated by Chicago's representatives in Washington. The facts are too overwhelming to admit of doubt that appropriate relief would have been granted had the case been stated with proper emphasis upon the salient points.

Chicago does not wish to close the river to navigation or even to impede the proper use of the river for commerce. Chicago wants merely that its bridges remain closed during the rush hours, recognition that the rush hours today are not what they were a decade ago, and provision that the tugs and other harbor craft which are more or less continuously in the stream be designed to clear the bridges. The war department, in opposing modification of the bridge ordinances, is taking a position which cannot be defended. On the one hand the department has charged Chicago with lowering the lakes and on the other refuses to permit Chicago to rewrite its ordinances because the lakes have risen. The department cannot be correct in both contentions.

THE UNIVERSAL DRAFT AGAIN.

The officers of the American Legion continue to propagandize on behalf of the universal draft. They are not advocating any particular scheme for drafting everybody and everything in time of war; what is sought now is merely the appointment of a commission to study the principle and the various proposals for applying it. The commission, unlike the other Washington commissions, we are assured, will approach the question with an open mind and act upon the evidence as it is presented. Legislation will be based upon the commission's findings and not upon any a priori notions about the universal draft.

If the commission is appointed, it will be because the Legion officials want it appointed. After yielding to pressure to that extent the government can scarcely be expected to stop there. The members of the commission, accordingly, will be selected with an eye to further yielding for the political values inherent in the scheme. A finding against the universal draft under the circumstances would be cause for amazement.

The commission, if appointed, will hear officers of the general staff, who, of course will be friendly to the notion. The Legion spokesmen deny that the general staff must, under the proposed arrangement, run industry in time of war, but the general staff, we suspect, thinks differently. A precedent was made in the last war that generals and their staffs should function at the rear and leave leadership of the fighting units to the junior officers of the line. The new proposal, which will provide more offices of importance combined with safety, has been inspired by the soldiers of the Wilson-Baker model and is seconded by the gentlemen who served in various dollar-a-year capacities in the last war. They enjoyed their work for the most part, especially the eminence which attached to it, and they have probably forgotten the disorganization and failure of production which they were supposed to prevent but frequently encouraged unwittingly. The dollar-a-year voices will hardly be raised against further centralization in the next war.

Upon evidence from these two sources the commission may be expected to act. The legislation which will be recommended to congress and the President will be proffered to the country as a means of assuring peace. Commander Bodenhamer says that no nation will dare make war upon us if we adopt a plan along the lines proposed because no nation will dare confront us when we are mobilized to the last child. The assumption here is that all nations will agree with Mr. Bodenhamer upon the military value of the universal draft. The assumption places a considerable strain upon the probabilities. Far from encouraging peace, the universal draft is likely to encourage wars. If the universal draft automatically is to become effective when war is declared, the temptation upon a hard-pressed administration to rid itself of political opposition and economic disturbances by a war will be considerable.

Editorial of the Day

SHILLY-SHALLYING REBUKED.

[Decatur (Ill.) Herald.]

On the crash in the Massachusetts Second congressional district, which awakened the whole country, the Springfield Republican makes some pointed observations.

Tuesday's by-election resulted in the defeat of the Republican candidate for representative in a district that had not returned a Democrat in 40 years. The Republican, which is dry, spoke as follows:

"A party must be one thing or the other when public questions arise on which a clear division of opinion is in evidence; and so must a party candidate in order to gain public confidence."

The successful Democrat declared his wetness openly. He was for the repeal of the Volstead act, and said so. The Republican announced that he was personally dry, but would be governed on liquor legislation by the results of a referendum on prohibition. In other words, he would go to Washington as a rubber stamp.

The result was that the bone dry Republicans, disgusted by their candidate's weak stand, remained at home, and so helped the wets to win. It was the strongest rebuke to political shilly-shallying seen in a long time.

Politicians have been accustomed to straddle on the liquor question. Their traditional course has been to proclaim it as not an issue. It is true that in most districts other issues overshadow it, but in the Massachusetts election, if not dominant, it was an outstanding one. People are quick to detect when a candidate is playing both ends against the middle. There are some things on which a candidate can be obscure, but he cannot be obscure on a question on which everybody is thinking and talking.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the gibes fall where they may. —W. M.

KEEP YOUR EYE ON SILENT CAL. MAYBE—

he's thinking about choosing to run in 1932. Anyhow, he's worth watching. You notice Cal is making the front page with great regularity. And with pictures on the back page, and sometimes the third and even the second. He's moving all around the country, and for a silent man it might be he's up to something.

He visited the squawkie works out in Hollywood, and that means he attracted the attention of the pitcher fans all over the country. Notice we say pitcher. That's what the people who go to see 'em call 'em, and that's good enough for us. Of course that isn't the word Webster uses, but as the old time editor said when the printer ended an argument by mumbling, "Well, anyhow Webster says different." "Webster?" shouted the editor, "Didn't know we had a man in the office named Webster. Kick him out." So, as we said before, the pitcher fans, and there's millions of 'em, will be strong for Cal because he loves the talkie pitchers.

And then Cal goes to visit Bill Wrigley at Catalina Island. You may just read that in the papers and pass it by without thinking what he means. All right, we'll tell you. Bill Wrigley's w. k. Cubs are rehearsing at Catalina Island. Do you see it now? No? All right; Cal arrived at Catalina Island at the same time the Cubs did, and in the story about it, who gets the picture that goes at the very top of this exciting piece of news? The Cubs? Not on your life. The picture in all the newspapers was that of Silent Cal Coolidge. Now, what of it? Just this: That carries Cal home to the hearts of all the baseball players, the baseball fans, and the guys at the ball parks that sell soda pop so that the bleacherites can throw the empty pop bottles at the empire, as the fans quaintly call the man who referees the game.

Just think of the millions of people in this country who are interested in baseball. And it looks as though right now Cal had the baseball vote tucked away in his inside pocket.

And that isn't all that Cal's visit to Catalina Island means. He's visiting Bill Wrigley, the Chewing Gum King. Now, do you get it? Don't you see now what it means? Why, everybody that chews chewing gum will feel like sticking to Cal.

And how many people chew chewing gum? Don't be silly. Look around the street car. Look at the people that pass you on the street. Look at the people in your own office. Look at the bediamonded and silken holders of the boxes at grand opera when the lights go down. It'll be hard to see 'em when the lights go down, but take our word for it. Anyhow, think of a candidate for President with the chewing gum vote behind him. Think of all those people saying, "Cal is our friend. He chews to run." What a slogan! Gosh, you can't beat it!

LETTRES DE CACHET.

By Zeus, I'd like to bang my lyre and make the welkin jump
With whanging, clanging epic stuffs that Chronos could not trump;
I'd weave yarns super-epochal till mankind stood agape,
But I'm a married-household guy, and that's no empty jape.

The tuneful Nine I cannot hear when my kids start to yip—
The merry Muse, when my sprouts choose, is due to get the pip:
My dithyrambs my gentle lambs drive haywire in a trice,
Calliope grows frightened when my kinder yell advice.

A gent can't climb Parnassus or top Helicon his goal
When he has to bust up kindling wood and heave the shoveled coal;
The bird who cannot run his furnace, featly build a fire,
Nor keep his ashes neatly piled, has no time for a lyre.

Ten thousand pantry shelves fall down and cause a family jar . . .
Can "handy men" draft poems "round and perfect as a star?"
To Lares and Penates one goes down upon his knees
And waves a paterfamiliar adieu to all Pierides.

THE SOLICITOR.

Now, Folks, Lissen to Mister Oracle, the World's Greatest Announcer!

RHL: Ladies and gentlemen: This is the Baloney hour. We come to you each week sponsored by the automatic horsefeathers company, makers of fine applessauce and hooey. These programs run the gamut of russian, spanish, french, italian, austrian, checko slovakian, mexican, and lastly but not leastly, song hits from the all squawky feature picture Roses of the Alley, now playing at the leading theaters in your home town. We will also go into the history of Bethoven, Verde, Pazuki, Tannehauser, Cachauski, and many others. A few little mistakes may be made in the thumb nail sketches we make for you, but we trust you are not sufficiently educated along these lines to embarrass us. You will notice the nasal tone of our french pronunciation, and how the spanish rolls softly from our tongue. That is to impress you quietly that yours truly is also a linguist. Every now and then and anon your local announcer will interrupt in his flat, colorless way. I suppose the poor hick has ambitions to arrive, but if you are at all observing, and have an ear for rythm you will quickly discover that I myself am no small hunk of cheez. Of course the horsefeathers company have an idea that you are listening for the merits and quality of their enameled horse radish but every one knows that I play second fiddle to none. I, myself, do not really think very much of the predigested blarney and universal succotash put out by the automatic feather company, and I dare say the moments are very uninteresting when we lower from the sublime to say a few words about these cold, clamy and uninspiring subjects. The theme song sung at the beginning and the end of the automatic horsefeather hour was not written by Victor Herbert as you suppose. It should have been, but no matter. I could go on indefinitely relating how the old composers and the broadcasting company luckily became acquainted with me, but my time is up and you will pardon me if I say just a few words for the Automatic Horsefeather company.

ORACLE.

MAYBE THE WAY to pep up the navy parley in London would be to drag in the 18th amendment. Then we'd all sit up and take notice. Anyhow, it's been dragged around and stuck into everything else, and there's no reason why it can't horn into the naval parley.

PERIL OF CHROMIUM PLATING.

THOSE who work at the job of chromium plating are in considerable danger of being poisoned by the mists and vapors which they must inhale. The most frequent effect of chromium poisoning is the development of a hole in the partition between the two sides of the nose. Such a man is all fixed to wear a ring in his nose; all set to follow the example of the troublesome bull or, to come nearer our level, the savages of Africa. In some instances chromium causes the development of holes elsewhere in the body, but the nose is the favorite location for the disorder.

The chromium plating industry is developing rapidly and unless precautions are taken we will presently see an outbreak of hole in the nose.

In electroplating with chromium some salt of the metal is in the solution in a vat. A current of electricity causes the salt to be broken up and the metal to be laid down on the object to be plated. Gases are freed by the electricity. These bubble through the solution and break into the air, carrying with them mists and vapors rich in the poisonous metal. Workmen who stand by the vats inhale the poison. The danger can be removed. To make the industry safe ventilating ducts must draw air across the top of the vats, about 8 inches above the solution. The small ducts opening laterally must be so located that the moist, polluted air is sucked less than 18 inches. In other words, there must be many small exhaust ducts and they must be distributed around the sides of small vats and sides and centers of larger ones. The mists must never rise high enough to reach the breathing zone of the workmen. Deflectors must be so placed as to prevent the currents of air from windows and doors from blowing chromium mists into the atmosphere of the room. The workmen must be supplied with vaseline or salves and required to anoint the nose, and especially the septum, several times daily. They should wear rubber boots, gloves, and aprons. They should grease the skin once daily or oftener with a mixture of three parts vaseline and one part lanolin. If an eruption appears the skin should be washed with a 5 per cent solution of sodium bisulphite and then greased as above.

FOR ITCHING SKIN.

Mrs. N. M. writes: Some one asks about itching skin after bathing in winter time. I have a very simple ready which I have used for over twenty years. Before coming to this country I lived for a number of years in the Transvaal, South Africa, where the air is very dry. After stepping out of the bath tub, whilst dripping wet, I pour a little glycerin into the palm of the hand and rub quickly over the body. Then I dry with a towel as usual.

COFFEE AND EGG INJURIOUS?

Mrs. B. writes:

1. Is a cup of coffee once or twice a week injurious to a person with heart disease?

2. How about an egg a couple of times a week?

REPLY.

1 and 2. Not injurious.

USE OF PSYLLIUM.

R. H. B. writes: Is there any harm in the regular use daily of psyllium seed for the bowels?

REPLY.

No.

COD LIVER OIL.

J. Z. B. writes:

1. What good is derived by an adult from cod liver oil taken along with a well balanced diet?

2. Does it have a tendency to upset the stomach?

REPLY.

1. It may raise the resistance to infections. Exposure to sunlight has the same effect.

2. Sometimes it does. In case it does one can consider taking some preparation of irradiated ergosterol, or using light treatments.

HOW TO RESIST INFECTION.

Mrs. S. R. writes: My six year old girl gets cold very easily. She also gets a bronchial cough. Do you think cod liver oil would help her?

REPLY.

We say one way to prevent repeated coughs and colds is by building up resistance to infections. We say also that taking cod liver oil or viosterol and exposing one's self to out of door sunlight or to special lamp treatment will increase resistance.

LIMA BEANS AND ACID.

Mrs. B. G. writes: Are dried lima beans acid or alkali forming? Are other kinds of beans acid forming?

REPLY.

Alkali forming.

Some people use bean flour to get away from acidity due to grain flours.

KISS DOESN'T CONVEY CATARRH.

A. C. A. writes: Is it dangerous to kiss a man suffering from catarrh?

REPLY.

Not from catarrh.

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 24, 1865.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Maj. Gen. Schofield reported from Fort Anderson on his movements, which in coöperation with Admiral Porter resulted in the capture of Fort Anderson. He says that his information is that the retreating rebels have a strong line of defense behind Tom Creek, where they propose to make a stand.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Information through rebel sources is to the effect that Wilmington was occupied by the Union forces on Feb. 19, the rebels moving toward Raleigh.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—By order of the war department a ration of fish, viz.: fourteen ounces of dried fish or eighteen ounces of pickled fish, will be made hereafter to troops once a week in lieu of the fresh beef ration.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The Negroes who followed Gen. Sherman through Georgia and South Carolina are being organized into regiments at Hilton Head. It is estimated that one of the effects of Sherman's movements will be to add from 25,000 to 30,000 loyal blacks to our army.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—The Evening Telegraph has the following from Washington: "Richmond papers of Feb. 21 say that Gen. Sherman is pushing rapidly north for Charlotte, Salisbury, Greensboro, and Danville, thence to join Grant in an attack on Richmond. Unless Sherman is soon checked he cannot be stopped at all."

NEW YORK.—The Richmond Examiner of the 20th says: "We have confirmation of the report concerning the movement of Gen. Thomas' forces. His work is to open the Alabama river from its mouth to its source, involving the capture of Mobile, Selma and Montgomery and the destruction of machine shops and railroads."

CHICAGO.—Charles M. Sturges of Chicago and Miss Ella Delafield, daughter of John Delafield of Memphis, Tenn., were married on Feb. 22 at the home of George Sturges in this city by the Rev. Dr. Robert H. Clarkson. S. T. Webster of Chicago and Miss Carrie Bailey of Pekin, Ill., were married in the latter city on Feb. 22 by the Rev. U. D. Gulich.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 24, 1900.

LONDON.—Fleet street is full of rumors that the war office has been advised that Ladysmith has been relieved. There is no confirmation of the report. A dispatch to the Daily Telegraph from Chieveley, dated Feb. 21, says: "It is reported that Gen. White sortied from Ladysmith and captured a number of Boer wagons. There is heavy firing in the direction of Ladysmith." A Chieveley dispatch of Feb. 22 says the main body of the Boers has fled. A Durban dispatch says it is reported that Gen. Cronje has surrendered 8,000 men and that Gen. Kitchener has been slightly wounded in the left arm. Crowds throng the streets, cheering and singing because of the supposed victories.

NEW YORK.—Mrs. Nellie Grant Sartoris, only daughter of Gen. Grant, is at Dr. W. Gill Wylie's private sanitarium, where she was subjected a week ago to an operation for cancer or tumor, her physicians refusing to say which. It is said she is recovering rapidly.

CHICAGO.—The will of Leander J. McCormick provides for the disposition of an estimated annual income of $300,000 under the direction of R. Hall McCormick, the elder son, who is named as administrator, executor and trustee, for which services he will receive an annual salary of $15,000 for twenty years. The entire estate is left in trust to the three children, R. Hall McCormick, L. Hamilton McCormick, and Mrs. Nettie L. McCormick-Goodhart, who resides in England. The petition estimates the estate at $4,000,000 realty and $135,000 personal property.

IRON RIVER, Mich.—The "whisky rebellion" of the Michigan peninsula is dying. With the announcement of Maj. A. V. Dalrymple, federal prohibition enforcement chief at Chicago, that the federal authorities would appear in force to handle the situation here, all open opposition to the federal prohibition act has vanished. Martin S. McDonough, state's attorney of Iron county, announced he would submit peaceably to any federal arrests.

CHICAGO.—Maj. A. V. Dalrymple, accompanied by eighteen picked assistants, left for Iron River, Mich., to "clean hell" out of the "whisky rebels" there or give up his job. He announced his first step would be the arrest of State's Attorney McDonough and the deputy sheriffs who defied Leo J. Grove, Dalrymple's deputy, and stripped him of his credentials.

CHICAGO.—Today is Chicago's first nonpartisan election for aldermen, and by night 25 of the 35 wards will know who their alderman will be. The other ten wards probably will have to wait for the supplementary elections to be held on April 6.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—By a vote of 47 to 17 the senate adopted the conference report on the Cummins-Esch railroad bill, concurring in the action of the house on Saturday. President Wilson will get the measure tomorrow, and it is generally believed he will sign it despite the bitter opposition of organized labor.

CHICAGO.—Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Shannon, 6120 Ingleside avenue, announce the engagement of their daughter, Mildred, to Hugo A. Wichman of East Orange, N. J.

VOICE OF THE GALLERY.

Chicago, Feb. 20.—What mechanical difficulties, if any, prevent the raising of drapes above stages in our theaters so that patrons in the second balcony can see?

At the performance of "Richard II." Tuesday evening the second balcony was the only really well filled part of the house. Here sat the people in whose faces one could read toil, sacrifice, economy, and desire for that better part which their presence to witness Shakespeare by the Stratford players demonstrated. Here the applause began and continued, proving their appreciation. And yet, in four or five scenes not a patron, even in the first rows, could see the faces of the principals; and in one scene could not see the principals at all, due to action taking place at the back of the stage in positions slightly raised above the floor.

In these days of volume production $1 will buy quite a bit of amusement on the main floor in comfortable seats. Is the legitimate stage business so prosperous that the really enthusiastic portion of the audience in dollar seats can be put in the upper regions of stuffy air, far removed from the stage, and then not be permitted to see half of the actors in all their action on the stage?

OBSERVER.

ASK THE GUESTS.

Atlantic City, N. J., Feb. 20.—Hotels are placed in a very peculiar position. Employés are strictly instructed against the sale or handling of drinks. Is the management responsible if guests violate the law against the wishes of the hotel? In many instances guests are highly insulted if they are told so. In how many cases does the hotel or restaurant lose revenue by guests going to smaller restaurants where they can get a cocktail or some wine? Today many of the leading hotel dining rooms in any city are suffering on account of these places. I may say here that I think it would be a good idea for the great American Hotel association and in turn, the different state and city hotelmen's associations, to coöperate in starting a drive for the repeal or modification of the 18th amendment. I would suggest that cards be placed on the tables in the dining rooms and guest rooms which guests may fill out to show their approval or disapproval of the 18th amendment.

WILLIAM LEICHSERING,
Maitre d'Hotel, Ritz-Carlton hotel.

PROPOSES ALLIANCE.

Chicago, Feb. 21.—Why don't you get the communists interested in fighting the dry law? They too, believe in open defiance of a law which displeases them. With their coöperation the saloons might be brought back again, who knows?

L. N. JOHNSON.

PROHIBITION AND FARM PROSPERITY.

St. Charles, Ill., Feb. 21. — Today's headline in THE TRIBUNE is, "Farming Ruined by Dry Laws." You tell of the witness in Washington who made the plea that farming in this country is not profitable due to lack of old liquor outlets for barley, rye, and corn.

Farmers at present, the world over, are not prosperous. Why are farmers in the wet countries the least prosperous? Our farmers in general have more autos, tractors, farm equipment, home conveniences and money by far than the average farmer in any other large agricultural nation. During the period of prohibition in our country there has been an enormous increase in the consumption of milk, dairy, and poultry products, which offer a larger and more beneficial outlet for grain than booze ever offered.

HAYSEED.

WINTER RESORTS.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—Speaking of news items, I believe one which is of unusual interest is the average weather report. In looking over this morning's TRIBUNE I notice that the three temperatures reported for Medicine Hat were 14, 6, and 44, and on the same day the following temperatures were reported for Jacksonville, Fla.: 54, 60, and 44.

L. J. BOUDWIN.

AN ANALOGY FROM BERLIN.

Three Rivers, Mich., Feb. 18.—The general trend of your editorials and news items against prohibition would lead one to believe that if the government would allow the return of light wines and beer or would set up liquor stores such as in Canada, the entire problem of bootleggers and criminals would be solved.

In your issue of the 17th appears an article by your German correspondent giving an account of the protests against the closing of bars two hours earlier than at present. This protest, he states, is based on the plea that on account of the earlier closing hour the number of speakeasies would greatly increase and that even with the present 1:00 a. m. closing there are speakeasies where flourishing, untaxed, unregulated business begins the moment the regular places close.

If there are speakeasies in a city where there are no prohibition laws, and if the number increases due to a mere two hour earlier closing, how can THE TRIBUNE justify their fight against prohibition on the ground that it would reduce bootleggers and booze joints?

Your correspondent further intimates that the American visitors in Berlin are really the cause of the protests against the early closing hour, which, I believe, is an insult to the American people as they are not as weak kneed as this.

D. E. STOVE.

ALLEGING A CERTAIN INCONSISTENCY.

Chicago, Feb. 20.—I have read that the American committee on religious rights, headed by the president of the Presbyterian board of foreign missions and other Protestant organizations, have addressed letters to President Hoover protesting against the denial of "the right of religious freedom" in soviet Russia and "persecutions that have shocked the moral sense of the civilized world." These letters have asked him not to recognize the soviet government until religious persecutions cease.

Until a few months ago for three years Calles, the president of Mexico, had been slaughtering Catholics and priests by the hundreds and closed every church in the country, a persecution even worse than the one in Russia. The Protestant organizations remained not only silent at the crimes perpetrated in Mexico, but when President Coolidge had almost decided to sever relations with that country on account of the petroleum laws he and his secretary were overwhelmed by protests sent by almost every one of these organizations.

A MEMORIAL TO THE WATCH DOG.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—Now that the new outer drive has been named Field drive, why not show our appreciation and respect to the man who was directly responsible for the city having a Grant park? We who have lived in Chicago since before Leroy Payne had his livery stable on Michigan avenue knew that A. Montgomery Ward fought intrusion of the lake front for many years both in and out of court and was known as the watch dog of the lake front. Let us honor the man to whom a great honor is due and Grant park is the appropriate place for it.

WALTER CORNHAUSEN.

NEWS FROM RIGA.

Evanston, Ill., Feb. 18.—As a constant reader I protest against the persistent use of your Riga lie factory. You must think your readers are afflicted with an incurable case of infantilism. So grotesque and contradictory are the "news" and opinions of your imaginative correspondent that only an imbecile can read such without a deep feeling of shame and disgust.

Announcing new features of the FORD TRUCK

4-speed Transmission
A wide, flexible range of speed and power

New Spiral Bevel Gear Rear Axle
Rugged strength and long life

Larger Brakes
Providing a greater degree of safety

New Front Axle and Spring
Unusually sturdy front construction

TO EVERY ONE interested in moving goods economically from one place to another, the improved Ford 1½-ton truck offers long, reliable service and low cost of maintenance.

Rugged strength is an important feature of the improved Ford chassis. Many parts are of new design. For example, the front axle, which is a chrome-alloy forging, is nearly twice as strong as formerly. The front spring is heavier, with wider leaves. Front radius-rod is heavier, and king-pins, thrust bearings and wheel bearings are larger.

The rear construction is also improved. It has a spiral bevel gear of special Ford truck design, with straddle-mounted pinion. The housing is of exceptionally strong construction. The axle shafts are heavier than formerly, and because of the three-quarter floating type of axle construction, they serve only to turn the wheels, without carrying any of the weight of truck or load.

A feature of the improved Ford truck is the new 4-speed transmission, which provides an unusually flexible range of speed and power. At ready control of the driver is abundant power for moving capacity loads, and ample speed for efficient service where time saved is an important factor.

Brakes on the front wheels have been enlarged to the same size as those on the rear wheels, providing increased braking area and a high degree of safety. Brakes are of the mechanical type, internal expanding, and all are fully enclosed. Controls have been redesigned, and operate with minimum effort.

The four-cylinder engine of the Ford truck develops 40 horse-power at moderate speed. This means that nearly its full power becomes available without the need for excessive speed. Especially important to the reliability of the engine is the simplicity of the electrical, ignition, cooling, lubrication and fuel systems.

Other chassis features, many of which are unusual in a truck of such low price, are the cantilever rear springs, which reduce unsprung weight and lessen rebound; the torque-tube drive, which relieves rear springs of all but their normal function of absorbing shocks, and the large-sized opening provided in the transmission for power take-off mounting. Dual rear wheels are available at small additional cost. Balloon tires of one size are used throughout, with the dual equipment, so that all six wheels and tires are interchangeable all around. Only one spare wheel and tire need be carried.

You can inspect the improved Ford truck, today, at the showroom of your Ford dealer.

BRANDON JURORS TO HEAR TALE OF 10 MILLION GIRL

Miss De Lamar to Appear by Deposition.

BY TOM PETTEY.

New York, Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Society's "bachelor girl" will bring a breath of the Riviera into the scarlet triangle suit tomorrow when Mrs. Frances Marion Brandon, the Portia of Park avenue, resumes her money and vindication action against George J. Gillespie, president of the board of waterworks.

The "bachelor girl" is Alice Antoinette de Lamar and her testimony will be by deposition for she is not inclined to appear in person. The "breath of the Riviera" also will be more or less synthetic, for Miss De Lamar is contributing her bit to the Brandon suit from her Palm Beach residence—on "the American Riviera."

Mrs. Brandon Her Protector.

Miss De Lamar is the "poor little Alice" about whom Mrs. Brandon was so concerned several years ago. Mrs. Brandon, according to testimony, served her as a sort of super-watch-dog, keeping fortune hunting beaus and fortune hunting business men away from the $10,000,000 heiress. At the time Mrs. Brandon was "guarding" Miss De Lamar, the young woman occupied an apartment of 20 rooms and seven baths on Park avenue, maintained a country place on Long Island known as Pembroke, and was being "preyed upon by fortune hunters."

To escape all this Miss De Lamar fled to Honolulu and found peace on the beach at Waikiki. Tomorrow, if her deposition is read, will mark her first return to the public eye in five years.

Miss De Lamar is an innocent participant in the breach of promise and business suit. It was the loss of her friendship and business through Mr. Gillespie's intervention, according to Mrs. Brandon, that started all the trouble.

Says "Old Bird" Called.

The De Lamar deposition is expected to concern financial matters almost altogether, but it may have its paragraphs, for if Mrs. Brandon quotes her former friend correctly she had a way of stating things. "Miss De Lamar told me one day," testified Mrs. Brandon, "on the phone, 'Well, the old bird called on me Sunday morning in a silk hat, but I didn't let him in.'"

The "old bird" referred to being Mr. Gillespie.

"SLAYER OF NINE" BOASTS OF PLAN TO KILL 2 MORE

Disarmed When Taken Aboard Train.

New York, Feb. 23.—[Special.]—James Baker, 23, of Detroit, also known to the authorities as "Texas Jim," confessed to District Attorney Crain and detectives today that he killed eight men with poison and one with a revolver.

He also admitted he planned to kill the two detectives who were bringing him to New York, with a revolver they found on him after he was taken aboard the train at Detroit. The detectives took from him a large hunting knife. Although Baker was supposed to have been in custody of the Detroit police for several days and Detectives George Fitzpatrick and Arthur M. Horey were told he had been searched, the detectives took the precaution of searching him as soon as he was aboard the train.

To their questions as to where he obtained the revolver and knife, Baker refused answers. He talked freely, however, and said that he planned to shoot his captors and get off the train if there was any way to do it.

To Ask Indictment Tomorrow.

The detectives remained up all night bringing their prisoner to New York. As soon as Baker reached New York he was rushed to police headquarters. Here the prosecutor, his assistants, and detectives were waiting.

After hearing his story, Mr. Crain said he would ask the grand jury Tuesday to indict Baker for the murder, on Dec. 8, 1928, of Henry S. Gaw, night watchman of the Guggenheim laboratory, where Baker had been employed.

Less than an hour after his arrival at headquarters Baker was describing in great detail the murder of Gaw and the eight others.

Mr. Crain and the detectives said they believed Baker. They announced he not only gave perfect details regarding the poisoning of Gaw, but went into descriptions of the other killings.

Mr. Crain said the youth evidently took life for the thrill he got out of it. He said that although Baker probably would be examined by alienists, he regarded the youth as normal.

Wanted Back in Detroit.

A telegram from Detroit received here today said that a special officer, Walter Aue, connected with the Grand Trunk railroad, had been murdered with a shotgun in 1929, and Detroit would be glad to get Baker back to its jurisdiction for prosecution for that crime if the local police had no case against him here.

The youth chatted pleasantly with his captors and with reporters who boarded the train at Newark, N. J.

"Naw, I ain't goin' to plead insane," he said to the reporters. "There's nothing crazy about me. Why, the reporters that have been questioning me are a darn sight crazier than I ever was.

"I've been in India," he said, "and I've seen human beings horribly tortured. I've seen plenty in my life. I'm willing to go. I'm not afraid of death."

BRIDGE OPENINGS DELAY 96,000 BUS RIDERS EACH DAY

Makes Service Gaps Felt for 14 Miles.

Forty per cent of the total business of the Chicago Motor Coach company is affected by loop bridge openings and one such opening during the period approaching or following rush hours is sufficient to retard and delay the service for a distance of almost fourteen miles.

Affects 96,000 Persons.

These are the principal claims set forth by G. T. Seely, vice president and general manager of the coach company, in a conference with Attorney Benjamin F. Goldstein, special assistant corporation counsel appointed to advise the city council bridge committee.

The 40 per cent of the total passenger list inconvenienced by open spans constitutes about 96,000 persons on a tpyical week day, Mr. Seely said. Coach lines are routed over the Michigan, Randolph, Washington, Madison, Monroe, and Jackson street bridges and 1,630 coaches, at an average, enter and leave the loop across them. On the Michigan bridge, the gateway to the entire north side residential and business district, the company operates about fifty-six coaches per hour in each direction.

Makes Gap in Service.

An eight minute delay at this bridge will bring eight coaches to a stop and a corresponding gap will occur somewhere on the line. Mr. Seely said his investigations showed that such a delay will cause inconveniences felt as far away as Howard street, almost fourteen miles north. On Saturdays, in the absence of a bridge closed period at noon to accommodate home goers, the delays are more marked in the event of an opening.

In an amended ordinance sent to Washington, the council bridge committee asked approval of extensions of thirty minutes each on the morning and afternoon closed periods and a period from 12:30 to 2 on Saturday afternoons to take care of the loop crowds. All these proposals were frowned upon and a rehearing is asked.

The Adventures of GERMANY'S GREATEST WOMAN SPY

..Miss Doctor

One of the most mysterious figures of the World War was the girl from Berlin, known only by the nickname Miss Doctor, whose exploits made her famous as Germany's most successful woman spy. Until now she has remained a figure of mystery, and in Berlin there has been much discussion as to who she really was.

The revelation of her identity and story of her adventures in the current issue of Liberty Magazine is vouched for as authentic by Captain Gerd von Buggenhagen, wartime chief of the secret service bureau of the Fourth Army Corps, who knew Anna Maria Lesser and was familiar with her activities as a spy. Others have corroborated it and have declared a rival "Miss Doctor" who turned up recently in Berlin to be an impostor.

1 and 4 · G and W

The publisher of this story in Berlin is the one who brought out Remarque's "All Quiet on the Western Front." In offering it in the United States, Liberty has every reason to believe that—except for an occasional change of name to protect some important men still living—it is an accurate narrative.

The Ace of Spades

By WILLIAM MACLEOD RAINE

SYNOPSIS.

Jim Rutledge, accompanied by Sim Hart, is sent out with a herd of cattle to fulfill a contract made by his father, Chandler Rutledge. On the trail they are overtaken by men from the Moss outfit, enemies of Rutledge. The Moss men start a stampede and drive off some of the Rutledge cattle. Jim recovers them, but in doing so shoots and injures one of the Moss raiders. The men of the Moss outfit swear to be revenged for the injury and pursue him. Jim takes refuge in a ranch house, where he finds Stevie Lawson alone in the house. She hides him when the Moss gang comes to the house inquiring for him and sends them off on another trail, even though she learns that he has injured her brother. Jim rides on into the town after saving Ellen from the unwelcome attentions of Pete Moss. Shear, the town marshal, threatens to arrest Jim for the attack on Stevie Lawson, but Harrison Pendleton, an old trail driver, arrives on the scene in time to save him from arrest. Shortly afterwards Shear kills Mart Brown, who he claimed had threatened his life. This causes a great deal of excitement in the little cattle town. Jim goes into the local gambling den and is astonished to find Ellen Lawson there. She tells him she has come to speak to her brother Steve. Jim guides her to where Steve is sitting in a poker game with Shear, Buck Roe, and others. As they reach the table the lights go out and when the room is again lighted Shear is found crumpled in his chair dead, with Jim's knife in him. Ellen's white blind is covered with blood. She had become separated from Jim in the dark and someone had jostled her. In putting out her hand for support she had touched the bloodied figure. Jim and Ellen are questioned by the sheriff, Manders, and Jim is arrested. He and his friends are determined to discover the murderer in order to clear Jim.

INSTALLMENT XXV.

THE SQUARE TOED BOOTS.

Pendleton added a contribution. "Not a range rider or a trail herder's boot. An' notice how the outer edge of the heel is wore clean away."

"I'm noticin' that," Jim said slowly. His mind was puzzling to recall where he had recently seen a heel run over like that.

Dr. Aubrey went on with his little lecture. "Exhibit three. A long, narrow footprint squared off at the toes. It doesn't in any way resemble either of the other two. I should judge this may have been stamped by a square made boot."

"May or may not be that. Anyhow, it's one that leaves an entirely different track from the other two," the big cattleman said.

"Correct," assented Jim. "No doubt at all that three men made these footprints."

"Two of these casts were made from prints left by men moving toward the window of the alcove room at the Longhorn, the third by some one going from it," the doctor explained.

"Lemme do a little guessing, doctor," Jim said. "I'd say that exhibits one and two are the brands of the fellow headin' toward the window, an' the square toed one of a guy awful busy leaving the neighborhood."

"You win," boomed the cattleman. "How come you to know so much, son?"

"Mostly a guess," Jim admitted modestly.

"Here is another cast, not very clear," Aubrey explained, picking up the one labeled four. "The ground was too hard to leave a deep impression."

"I don't know. Mr. Pendleton found it just beneath the window."

Young Rutledge took one look at it and turned to number five.

"The hand of the doctor ranged over the remaining three. "The rest are all defective and probably quite useless for whatever purpose you may have in mind. As I said before, all of them have been defaced by other prints stamped above them."

"Gee," Jim exclaimed. "Gee, we're lucky."

"I decided to take casts of them even though they were spoiled. I think I mentioned that my training tends to make me more thorough than is sometimes necessary."

"I'm certainly glad you did, doctor. Yore way of diagnosis suits me fine. Unless I'm way off these plasters you call useless are gonna be a big help to us."

"Suppose you come clean, boy. What's on yore mind?"

Jim did not answer immediately. He had picked up a button from the table. It had been lying on a card upon which was written, in Dr. Aubrey's fine, neat chirography, "Exhibit eight." It was a cloth covered button, and one edge of it showed a streak of white.

"Meanin' what, doctor?" Rutledge asked.

"I don't know. Mr. Pendleton found it just beneath the window."

"Brought it along for you to play with," the cattleman blared with friendly derision. "If you're going to be a detective you've got to have all the clews, haven't you?"

Jim's eyes lit up. He put the button down very carefully on the card. "Looks like I can hardly help being one with all the sign you gentlemen have cut for me. I'm sure glad to see that button. How high is the window sill from the ground outside?"

"About five feet, more or less," Pendleton said.

"It's a kinda long story, but I'll tell what I've been thinkin' and see how it looks to you gentlemen," Jim said. "It goes back to Blackbeard and the moment when the light in the card room was shot out. I'm satisfied that the fellow who fired the gun was standing outside the window. I'd think there were twelve or fifteen people in the card room. Nobody remembers seeing anybody else fire the shot."

"Buck Roe an' Pete Moss claim they saw some one do it," the big cattleman said with a grin.

"So they do, but they are lying to try and convict me. What they say has no weight with us. It looks reasonable to me that since nobody saw the shot fired or noticed a gun being drawn we can come pretty near proving nobody in the room did it. I'm positive nobody in the main hall was firing that way at the time. That leaves as a possibility only that fellow standing outside at the window. It wasn't square toes, so it must have been either the big cowboy or broadfoot."

"How do you know it wasn't square toes?" the doctor asked.

"Because he wasn't standing at the window. Square toes, or Blackbeard if you'd rather call him that, was in the room when the light went out, but he wasn't there when the candles came. For some reason he went over that window like a scared rabbit. He lit a-runnin', and he didn't quit till he was quite a ways from the Longhorn."

"You are deducing that, Jim," the doctor cut in.

"I'm reasoning from known facts to unknown ones that logically follow the way any one does who is trailing man or beast. Blackbeard was in the room when the light went out. The eye patch proves that. He wasn't there when the bartender brought the candles. There wasn't time for him to get out by the doors before they were closed. So he went out by the window of the card room, which would have been the easiest way anyhow, with all that mob millin' in the big room. You've proved by the footprints that one person at least got out of the window. Where else could he have come from, since he left no tracks leading to the window?"

"I reckon the boy is right," Pendleton said. "Blackbeard and the square toed gent are one and the same."

"Probably," Dr. Aubrey assented. "But when you say he was in a hurry, pursued by fear——"

"Why did he leave the way he did, doctor?" Jim inquired. "The rear door jumps right at us. He was scared to stay and be found there because he knew what had happened to Shear."

"Yes, you're right," the doctor agreed.

"It wouldn't have been healthy for Mart Brown if he'd been found there rigged up in a disguise and a knife in his enemy's heart," the cattleman said. "Prove he was Blackbeard and we don't need to look any farther for the killer."

"It looks black for him, but I wouldn't say the case was proved against him," Jim differed. "It looked black for me at first. Before we fasten this on Blackbeard we've got to find out about two other men, the ones outside the window. One of the two shot out the light. Why? Was he a friend of Blackbeard? We don't know. Was it the big cowboy or the gent with the short, broad feet?"

"Any one can ask questions till the cows come home," Pendleton snorted. "I've got a little kid can shoot 'em at me all day."

"You've got to ask them before you can answer them," Jim said mildly.

"He's right again," Aubrey admitted.

"That's why these defective prints, as Dr. Aubrey calls them, interest me as much as the others," Jim explained, examining one of the casts. "They ought to help us piece out the story. We know one of the men was outside when the shot was fired. Were they both there at the time?"

Pendleton shook his head. "No way of showing that by the footprints. They may not have been together, but we know they had both been there before Blackbeard jumped out of the window. Doc's exhibits five and six prove that. See? In number five here he blotted out all but the heel of a broadfooted gent's track. In six his foot landed squarely inside the heel left by the cowboy in the mud."

"They may have been waiting for him," Jim hazarded. "Perhaps they were pals of his ready to help out if necessary."

"Can't we find that out later?" Pendleton asked impatiently. "This is doing

"Singing Time" Is Recommended for Very Little Tots

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

I am often asked for the names of song books for small children. Two song books have recently come out which I want to review in succession, as they are both for younger children, and because one might logically follow the other in point of age, though they are by different authors and of different character.

The first is called "Singing Time," by Satis N. Coleman and Alice G. Thorn. It is published by the John Day company of New York and costs $2.50. Mrs. Coleman is music investigator at the Lincoln School of Teachers' college, Columbia university, and Miss Thorn is in the department of kindergarten, also of Teachers' college.

To quote the description of the authors, "This collection of small songs for very young children is offered to teachers of kindergarten and nursery schools, as well as to mothers at home, in the hope that it may meet what seems to be a real need—songs suited to the very youngest singers.

"They have grown out of the actual experiences of children from 3 to 6 years of age in the private studio, the nursery school, and the kindergarten. The children themselves have helped to bring them to their final form.

"The piano accompaniments need not be used unless desired, and in all cases the accompaniment, when used, should be kept simple and subdued. In many of the songs the piano takes only the melody with both hands in soft unison. Some of these songs may be dramatized as well as sung."

There are forty songs in the book, all with page decorations or actual illustrations. Most of these are charming—but a few unfortunately are a little confusing because of a curious technique employed by the artist, not suitable to a book for children. The binding is in a deep, soft orange with unusually nice lettering.

FARM AND GARDEN

BY PAUL POTTER

That urge to go gardening, though seemingly out of season, is perfectly natural. Send for the catalogs and use them as a text, for they are no longer samples of fiction, but a standby for the flower gardener, according to Miss Lua Minns of Cornell university.

Often the catalogs give growing directions that are valuable in the home territory of the nursery, but cannot be used with success in another territory; get the catalog near home, advises Miss Minns.

Early ordering brings prompt service. Seeds may come at once, but living plants not until they can be cared for properly. And when ordering do not choose just a kind of flower, but choose carefully a strain of the selection offered.

For winter reading, after the catalogs, get some of the many special instructions offered by nurseries. Some of these are fairly large, well illustrated pamphlets—as growing flowers from seed; growing bulbs, growing roses, rock garden plants, water lilies, and others. Many of the catalogs give helpful information as to the sowing of seeds, culture of sweet peas, asters, and planting tables for bulbs. They mention the new plants, and the uses of shrubs and where they grow satisfactorily.

Bright Sayings of the Children

The Tribune will pay $5 for each children saying printed. The story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unavailable contributions. Write on one side of the paper. Address bright sayings to Aunty Bee, The Tribune, Chicago.

I left my firstborn peacefully sleeping in her cab outside of the grocery store while I went in to do my marketing. When I came out I noticed a little boy standing on the curb, wistfully—I thought—watching the cab, so I called to him:

"Come over and see the baby if you wish, little boy."

"No," said he, shoving his hands into his trouser pockets, and beginning to saunter off, "We got two of 'em . . . home!" L. W. K.

I have a little nephew who had been naughty at school and his teacher sent a note to his mother, which the child lost on his way home. His mother told him to ask his teacher to rewrite the note.

While she was doing so the child noticed that it was quite a big one and said, "Miss Ford, you're not writing more in this note and making me any worse than I was this morning, are you?" A. B.

Bossy Gillis Tells California Girls He Desires No Blondes

San Pedro, Cal., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Andrew J. [Bossy] Gillis, mayor of Newburyport, Mass., was en route to San Francisco tonight aboard the steamship Virginia to begin his search for a California wife.

"That's a great break for some girl," he said. "I've made up my mind to marry and having heard so much about the beautiful girls in California I came out here to pick a wife, but blondes won't do, and no wife of mine is going to be a bridge tea hound. I've decided to give all the brunettes and redheads who can qualify as good lookers an even chance."

Gillis said he would spend a week in San Francisco, where he will arrive tomorrow. The Newburyport mayor described his own qualifications as: "Aged 33, healthy as they make them, and a darn fine fellow."

Tired of Same Old Figure 'n' Coiffure? You Can Change 'Em

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

One grows tired of the living room curtains, and only a change will suffice to make the room alive again. One grows tired of a frock or a hat after it has been worn a certain number of times. One grows tired, too, if the cook runs to monotony in her menu. In fact, there are just any number of excuses for indulging in fatigue, limited or not. And only a change will rejuvenate the spirits.

One can grow very tired of her looks. Same old face day after day. Same old figure. Same eyes. Same color of hair. It's a wonder the inconstant minded don't break out in rebellion oftener. Some do, of course. Some rush down to the hair dresser's and order blonde locks for a change. Some enroll with a body molding emporium with the intention of getting a new kind of silhouette. And some add shadow above their eyes to get a mysterious glint that wasn't there before. Some try out a new color of rouge and lipstick.

So, relieving the monotony is possible. But changing the color of the hair is an extreme measure, rarely justified, since there is the simpler system of changing the coiffure when you would like to try out a new personality.

Changing the shape of an unshapely figure is highly recommended as a means to a new individual. In fact, if the silhouette undergoes a complete remodeling and the coiffure undergoes a change for the better, I don't know any better proceedings upon which to build a new personality.

A new hat has its advantages. Likewise a new dress, but still there are the same face and the same figure. But if you pounce upon coiff and form with the determination to make them relieve your monotony for you, they are the two good friends that will do it with the greatest satisfaction.

The new styles grant coiffure licenses where the old held you restrained. You can break out in a grand rush of curls, if you want them. You can do a number of things with your hair now. And a new coiff is worth trying every now and then just for the good of your ennui threatened soul.

Sliding Down the Steps.

During some recent warm weather a boy whom I wanted to impress favorably asked me to go out with him.

I had been inside all day and, coming out, remarked, "O, how nice and warm it is!" I suddenly started sliding down the stairs, a distance of some 10 to 15 steps.

In the excitement of going out with this boy I had completely forgotten that the stairs and railing were coated with ice. Embarrassed? Maybe I wasn't. H. S.

Lovely Strawberries.

One day two women came to visit me unexpectedly during housecleaning time. We had painters, and things in general were in a state of turmoil.

Mother had previously mentioned intending having strawberries for supper. After greeting our guests, I started to prepare supper and saw two boxes of berries on the table, which I immediately started to pick. When the men were ready to go home one of them said, "Those are lovely berries." I snappily replied, "Of course they are!"

He then smilingly remarked, "That's what I thought when I bought them." I was so ashamed I could not apologize enough and quickly gathered them back in the box. M. L. F.

At the Hinsdale club is to be held an exhibit of local artists, sponsored by that suburb's woman's club and its new Arts club. The exhibit is to open this afternoon with a tea given by Mrs. James Walker, president of the Arts club.

There will be teas and programs every afternoon. The show with two matinee in charge ends on Saturday. Presiding at the tea tables this afternoon will be Mrs. O. W. Dines, Mrs. John Lamson, Mrs. William A. Kendall, Mrs. Elsworth Keith, Mrs. Lawrence Kennedy, Mrs. James S. Knowlson, Mrs. Mason Tilden, Mrs. J. C. Holliday, and Mrs. Davis McMakin, president of the Woman's club.

Mrs. James Walter Marshall of Winnetka and her two young sons, Jimmy and Jimmy, have had a fine time this winter, according to the enthusiastic letters they sent back home to Mr. Marshall. He has been batching it at the University club since they left the first of November. They've had a villa at Juan les Pins, just outside of Cannes in southern France, and have had all sorts of good times. Mr. Marshall is getting ready to leave about March 1 to go over and be there with them for a few weeks before they all come back in early April.

Presently it will no longer be of any value when a member of society writes a book, just as it is no longer of signal interest to the press when a society woman gets herself a job. So many of them are doing it, you see.

The latest author to arise from fashionable ranks has been so modest about her accomplishment that it is due to appear in the book shops any day now, and it has so far escaped the eagle eye of the society editors.

The versatile Mrs. John Elliott Jenkins Jr. is the writer, and she has written a manuscript about her beloved Airedale, Pal. The publication date was supposed to have been last Friday, but Mrs. Jenkins hasn't yet received her author's copy, so it is to be assumed that a postponement is in order.

Mrs. Jenkins completed her writing of the book last fall, and engagingly admits her thrilled sensation when the publishers expressed their enthusiasm. Mr. Jenkins refused to be impressed until the galley proofs arrived, and then he was so interested that he insisted on seeing to the commas and the exclamation points in the work.

Mrs. De Forest Hulburd of Lake Forest, who had to have an emergency operation while she was in New York City, is now improving, and it is expected that she will be well enough to be brought back toward the latter part of next week. Her mother, Mrs. Gustav Hessert, rushed east when she received the news of her daughter's illness.

Mrs. Robert P. Shimmin of 1320 North State street and her daughter, Miss Helen Shimmin, left on Wednesday for a nice long trip to Honolulu. Mr. Shimmin is taking a somewhat shorter jaunt to Havana, Cuba.

Mrs. Nathan S. Davis III. of 460 Barry avenue is back from New York City, where she went for one of those pleasant larks that includes shopping, theaters, and what not.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur S. Jackson of 70 Scott street sailed on Thursday morning on the Mauretania for Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Carpenter of 945 North Dearborn street are sojourning in Arizona.

The Vincent Healys of 220 East Walton place are in the south, going places and seeing things.

MISS EDITH ATWATER.

Miss Edith Atwater, debutante daughter of Mrs. Adeline L. Atwater of New York and Chicago, plays "Meg" in the Saturday matinees for children at the Goodman theater. The production opened last Saturday and will continue for several weeks. Miss Atwater has been spending the winter with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin L. Lobdell of 2716 Prairie avenue.

Karl Wagner Gives Show of Paintings That Opens Today

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Two interesting exhibitions are scheduled for an opening today. Drawings by Alexander Archipenko, whose paintings we have seen at some length in various Arts club shows, will be the center of interest at the Knoedler galleries. Oil paintings, pastels, and drawings by Karl Wagner will be placed on view in the Kroch galleries. Karl Wagner is a native of Munich, where he studied portraiture under the famous Franz von Stuck and Prof. Herman Groeber.

Later Mr. Wagner traveled extensively through Germany, Italy, and Switzerland and painted a number of prominent people. Exhibits in Munich and Cologne have brought him much favorable comment. He is now living in Chicago and his painting, "Augustine," hangs in the current Chicago artists' exhibition in the Art Institute.

At the Anderson galleries the beautiful paintings by A. G. Warshawsky are on view and also a group of lithographs and wood blocks by Rockwell Kent may be found there. Water color portraits by Clara R. Saunders, portraits which deal chiefly with Breton peasant women, are waiting for a suitable gallery. They may be shown in the Lakeside Press galleries. The artist lives in Washington and studied at the Art academy of Cincinnati. She has worked under Charles W. Hawthorne and in Paris at the Moderne, Collarossis, and the Grande Chaumiere.

Her water colors are generously handled; the color is delicate. Interest is concentrated on the head; the portraits are swift impressions, very well done. "The Old Friend," "The Seamstress," "Ernie Duncan, Engineer" [a Springfield man], and "Madame Frichere" are among her best. A still life of tiger lilies is a gorgeous piece of painting. The pink blossoms with their red-tipped long tongues are as fresh as though the dew were still on them.

The marriage of Miss Ruth Virginia Oliphant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Oliphant of Oak Park, to Douglas S. Crooks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry V. Crooks of Kenilworth, took place a week ago last Saturday at the Harvard Congregational church in Oak Park.

Tactless Wife Can Put a Big Crimp in Husband's Plans

BY DORIS BLAKE.

On the impodtance of being a wife, Mrs. Jack, we will call her, was not nearly so well informed as her own value on her educational attainments might have led one to suspect. In fact, as the history of her husband's one big opportunity is recorded in his group, she is set down as a colossal flop. Her brain power, in spite of her superior education, is set down as minus and her wit as less than that.

In the course of her thirty-some-odd-year husband's business progress there came a time when a man of tact and ability was needed in a town of about 30,000 population. The husband had the requirements and more. The promise from his house was that if he accomplished what was wanted in the western town, he would be sent east later to establish an office and factory. The rise in salary was named and it was a tempting one.

The situation in the western town was a ticklish one, depending heavily on successful social contacts and the personal element upon which much of our business is legitimately conducted today.

The woman arrived on the scene about six weeks later than her husband. In the brief period of six weeks, he was beginning to make excellent headway with the men of the town. He had joined the country club, played golf, immediately plunged himself into the community's civic and political interests and the townsmen agreed he was a pretty fine fellow. His presenting of his wife led the men to suppose that she would make a charming addition to their local society.

Well, she came. But she conquered not. Before a couple of months were over, not only was she the victim of complete ostracism, but the husband was being evaded by the same men who had formerly extended him the welcome hand. At the end of six months, the husband was recalled and DISMISSED from the organization. The woman's difficulty was a big town complex and an incredible lack of tact. Her house, the shops, the clothes, the club—everything in the new town was "provincial."

Comparison with big city was on her tongue every moment. The wives revolted—and when a body of wives revolt, you can be sure their husbands will not be far behind. Which little incident proves something or other about the importance of being a wife.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

His First Offense.

"Dear Miss Blake: The fellow I go with made a date and then broke it. Don't you think if he really cared as much as he says he does he would not break a date, although this is the first time? L. H."

If this is the first time and he has a good reason for changing the date, you want to accept his explanation. Often things occur which make it necessary to change our plans.

Feathered Flowers Bloom in Boudoirs

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The Paris boudoir imitates the spring and puts forth fresh buds and petals of shiny satin and misty tulle. The birds also take part in this spring song. They lend their plumes to flowers and foliage that veil the relaxing élégante in layers of charm. In the intimacy of her boudoir, the chic Parisienne indulges that secret passion for fluff that is apt to abide in even the most tailored breast.

And Paris, this spring, offers a positively bewildering variety of beautiful nonsense to distract the hard working social light from the rigors of the overflowing day. And, believe me, now that different costumes for everything have come back into the mode, this business of being a lily of the field is no sinecure!

Paris likes pink this spring and it is the most universally becoming color in the world. It adds intriguing 1830 blushes to 1930 indépendantes. The half transparent tint of the wild rose, the luminous inside of a shell, the mother of pearl tones of rose chair are the favorite pinks, but you may choose whatever shade suits you best. Pure white has also returned to the interior mode and, if it harmonizes with your coloring, there is nothing so beautiful. Paris boudoir ensembles are the airiest trifles. Floral motifs predominate and extra lightness is given to these intimate sartorial flowers by making them of mousseline, chiffon or tulle and fringing them with delicate tendrils of ostrich.

Annek, which is the sartorial "non de plume" of Lady Abdy, herself one of the smartest women in Paris, created this charming boudoir foliage. The little bed jacket is in white mousseline, cut kimono. It is covered all over with mousseline petals with long sprays of white ostrich passed through their edges and lightly knotted. It gives you the look of a delightful polar bear, though it is light as thistledown. Ostrich tendrils, also make the tiny conventional roses, which doubly wreathe the coquettish bonnet. It may be in either pink or white mousseline and mousseline streamers tie it snug under the chin or in a bow at the back of the neck. The bed cover is like a huge full-blown rose. It has a square foundation of pale pink washable satin, and is edged all round with a triple row of satin petals. It is completely covered with petals of pale pink tulle. They begin small in the center and grow larger and larger as they approach the boundaries.

On Gulf Coast.

Mrs. George A. Ranney of 1421 State parkway and her daughter, Miss Dorothy Ranney, are at Edgewater Park, on the gulf coast of Mississippi, for a week's stay.

Tribune Cook Book

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Beet Oddities.

Last winter I was made quite ashamed by not recognizing new beets boiled and cut in eighths and served in a thin cream sauce. The markings of the layers of the beet happened to be quite positive and I thought for a moment that they were tomatoes. I was so embarrassed that I did not ask how to make the cream sauce—it was an old timer—which was seasoned so as to be slightly piquant. The beets had been boiled in the oldfashioned way.

Oldfashioned cooks have certainly been shocked at the Jewish method of peeling beets, cutting them up into small pieces and cooking them in only a small amount of water. It is possible to cook beets cut up in this fashion in about ten minutes, whereas there are few beets boiled in their skins that do not require an hour's cooking. Cooked the first way, we get a product of an entirely different shade, nearer blood red than boiled beets ever are.

It might seem ridiculous to combine beets and new potatoes, but it is possible to make a very palatable and pretty dish in this fashion. The beets and potatoes are boiled separately till tender, then each peeled and cut in dice into the hot dish into which they are to be served. Put first a layer of potatoes with a seasoning of pepper, salt and butter, then a layer of beets, seasoning in the same way, the butter being really the main consideration, therefore the vegetables should be hot enough to melt it. Proceed with the layers until the dish is full and, as we have suggested, use plenty of butter. Take two forks and mix the vegetables together without breaking them and serve hot. It is imperative that the dish be hot, and that the vegetables be so when they are cut up.

With carrots and beets we can make a jam that will taste like fresh fruit. Take equal quantities of each, cook separately. After they are cooked pass them through a coarse sieve and measure the product, which is a purée. To each pint consisting of equal parts of carrots and beets, add one standard cup of sugar and the juice of two lemons. After the mixture comes to a boil cook gently for thirty minutes and put into jam glasses or low jelly glasses. A mold from the latter glass will be bright and handsome.

DIGNITARIES PAY LAST TRIBUTE TO DIPLOMAT MOORE

Body to Rest Beside That of Wife.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Friends, many of high place, gathered from far and near today for the last rites in memory of Alexander Pollock Moore, ambassador to Poland and former envoy to Spain and Peru, who died last Monday in California.

The services, held at a funeral home, were marked by simplicity and were in charge of the Rev. Edward S. Travers of St. Louis, former rector of Trinity cathedral, Pittsburgh.

Nearly 500 persons crowded the chapel, while several thousand stood outside, and even a larger crowd appeared at the place of interment.

"A Great Representative."

Referring to the diplomat throughout the sermon as "Alex," the minister spoke of his courage, ideals, and service in foreign lands as "a great representative of our country."

Twelve hundred floral tributes were grouped about the bier, the offerings of President Hoover, from foreign governments, friends and relatives, a soldiers' organization, and from former employés of the Pittsburgh Leader, which Moore published almost a decade ago.

Col. Campbell B. Hodges, military aid to President Hoover, represented the chief executive at the funeral. Assistant Secretary Victor Podski of the state ministry at Washington represented the country to which the late ambassador was credited at the time of his death. Joseph F. Carriols, Spanish vice consul here, represented the king of Spain, a warm friend of Ambassador Moore during his service in that country.

Honorary Pallbearers.

Honorary pallbearers included Postmaster General Walter F. Brown, Assistant Secretary of Labor Robe Carl Riley, Mayor Harry A. Mackey of Philadelphia, ex-Gov. Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania, Judge Robert A. Gleason of the state Supreme court, members of the Allegheny county congressional delegation, and various Pittsburgh city and Allegheny county officials.

Interment was made in Allegheny cemetery in a mausoleum where rests the body of Lillian Russell Moore, actress-wife of the diplomat.

CHINESE TROOPS CLASH; FEAR NEW CIVIL WAR IS ON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Feb. 23.—Traffic was interrupted today on the Tientsin-Pukow railway and minor skirmishes were reported along the Kiangsu-Shantung border in the vicinity of Hsuchowfu. These are considered the opening guns in the renewal of the civil war between the Nationalist government and Gen. Yen Hsi-shan, governor of Shansi province and boss of the country around Peiping.

Ho Chih, Nationalist general, stationed at Hsuchowfu, the junction of the Lunghai and Tientsin-Pukow railways, met with sharp resistance when he disarmed a number of allegedly rebel troops which had previously been stationed at Haichow, at the eastern end of the Lunghai railway. He charged these troops were trying to entrain for Russia for the purpose of joining the northern allies.

The government ordered Gen. Chen Tiao-yuan, head of the Shantung government, to cooperate with Gen. Liu. Chinese papers, as well as government officials, minimize today's clashes and say serious fighting is not likely before the meeting of the third plenary session of the kuomintang, which is scheduled for March 1.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Caught Red Handed

Spring Touch by Orchestra Pleases Elmer

Composition Given First Rendition.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

The Chicago Symphony orchestra, Eric DeLamarter conducting, W-G-N, 2 to 3, offered its program in spring fashion yesterday. The program included a rendition of Schubert's "Unfinished" sympony, a colorful "Zorahayda," by Svendsen, and "The Betrothal" suite by Mr. DeLamarter.

The last named is a charming suite of three sections. The solo part in the second section was played by Concertmaster Jacques Gordon.

Ernest Bloch's prize winning "American" rhapsody in three movements was given its first complete radio performance on the theater program from New York, through KYW, 1 to 2 o'clock. The playing took fifty minutes, with the orchestra of ninety pieces, a mixed chorus, and a pipe organ participating.

Lady Astor gave a radio address on the naval conference from London through WBBM, 11:45 to 12 noon. Every word was as clear as though originating in the United States.

The Clef Barons, a Negro male quartet, from W-G-N, 4:15 to 4:45, gave a program of spirituals. Remarkable quartet singers these, every selection a musical entertainment gem.

Delibes' "La Source" ballet suite was played by the W-G-N Symphony orchestra during the concert program, 7:45 to 8:15.

The concert from New York through W-G-N, 8:15 to 9:15, was brilliant. The orchestra was under the direction of Alexander Smallens, conductor of the Philadelphia Civic opera. We will not soon forget the bewitching beauties brought out in Handel's "Water Music."

Cops Guard a Husband Awaiting an Ex-Husband

With a police guard about his home W. F. Bolinger, 1238 Central avenue, Wilmette, was hoping last night that Merle Cox, 31 years old, his wife's former husband, would make his threatened visit, so that he could dispense with the policemen. Bolinger armed himself and waited for Cox after the latter told friends of the Bolingers that he intended to kill Bolinger because he had married the former Mrs. Cox.

GAS STATION OWNER ROBBED.

A bandit obtained $85 last night from Charles Nickel, proprietor of a gasoline filling station at West 63d street and Long avenue.

BAD LUCK ROBS WALES OF SHOT AT FIRST TUSKER

NAIROBI, Kenya Colony, British East Africa, Feb. 23.—(AP)—The prince of Wales has been robbed by bad luck of a chance to shoot at a big bull elephant after traveling nearly 100 miles on foot in search of him, and finally getting within 40 yards of the animal.

The prince's misfortune was revealed by Capt. D. G. Finch-Hatton, famous hunter, who accompanied the party into the African jungles, whence they returned yesterday. He said the elephant got scent of the porters just as Wales was preparing to shoot, and quickly crashed away through the jungle and got out of range. He said the animal had tusks that must have weighed 100 pounds apiece.

Capt. Finch-Hatton said the prince was greatly disappointed, but, heeding the old hunters' saying, "One hundred miles—one elephant," hopes to bag his first tusker soon. Near Kasigau, however, the prince killed a fine buffalo with the first shot. Wales will stay with Gov. Sir Edward Grigg for a few days before going into the Masai game preserve on a photographic expedition.

India's Non-Brahman Body O. K.'s Round Table Policy

BOMBAY, Feb. 23.—(AP)—The all-India non-Brahman congress committee, meeting here over the week-end, expressed a willingness to cooperate with the government of India and with their parties in attending a proposed round table conference in London for discussion of India's present day problem. The nonBrahman congress is a separate organization from the all-Indian congress party, led by Mahatma Gandhi.

Mrs. Esther Wilson, Who Shot Husband, to Be Freed

New York, Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Mrs. Esther De Forest Wilson, Washington society woman and big game hunter, will be released from the penitentiary on Welfare island on parole tomorrow after having served almost a year of an indeterminate sentence of not more than three years for shooting her husband, Dallett H. Wilson, lawyer and at one time an advisory member of the Republican national committee.

TURKEY DENIES TROTZKY FEARS PLOT TO KILL HIM

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Feb. 23.—(AP)—The chief of police here today denied that Leon Trotzky, exiled Russian leader, had appealed for extra protection on account of rumors that Russian émigrés in Prague were plotting to kill him.

Since his arrival in Turkey the police have been guarding his villa and his person closely on account of the number of White Russians here. The chief of police said this vigilant surveillance insures Trotzky's safety.

The German publisher of Trotzky's works was said in Berlin yesterday to have received word from Czecho-Slovakia that a group of Russians in Prague had planned an attempt against Trotzky's life. The Turkish embassy in Berlin was notified and the Turkish authorities were requested to furnish special protection to Trotzky's home near Istanbul.

Besides her daughter, she is survived by one son, Karl H. Goodwin of Evanston, and a sister, Miss Abbie Aldrich of Battle Creek, Mich.

Children Drink "Selected" Without Coaxing

Now's a good time to change . . . to this better drinking milk

Every month-end brings many new "Selected" users as mothers decide to make milk drinking more inviting with "Selected."

Every mother knows that plenty of milk is vital to a child's normal growth and development—that 4 glasses at least should be the daily milk ration.

Every month more mothers are learning that there is no need to resort to command or entreaty to induce milk drinking when they offer "Selected." Children are so fond of its "Sweet Natural Taste" that they drink it with thorough enjoyment and never tire of it.

"Selected" is produced on 105 picked farms, not only modern in equipment but managed by farmers with the real desire to produce fine milk. We pay a substantial premium for extra care and vigilance. Special safeguards likewise protect the milk throughout its journey from farm to your door. That's the reason for the "Sweet Natural Taste" that children love and grown-up milk drinkers enjoy.

Costs only 3 cents more a quart to enjoy this special drinking milk

Give "Selected" a trial in your home. The first of the month makes a good time to change. Here's a coupon for your convenience.

HAWKS LOSE FOURTH IN ROW TO DETROIT, 2-1

VANGUARD OF GOLDEN GLOVES ARMY ARRIVES TODAY

OYS FROM 60 ITIES WILL SEEK EAM TROPHY

ur Classes Box at liseum Tomorrow.

Tribune has established Golden ves headquarters at the Bismarck el. Boxers and out of town news-pers may get information on the ournament there.

T. WALTER ECKERSALL.

The advance guard of amateur box-rs from sixty cities and towns in Illi-is, Indiana, Wisconsin, Michigan, wa will arrive today for THE BUNE's third annual Golden Gloves ur boxing tournament which ns tomorrow night at the Coliseum, d last continues through Friday.

All of town lads have earned the ht to compete in the Coliseum by winning in sectional tourna-nts held in sixteen cities. Their ening is a place on the Chicago ard which will meet New York at the Chicago Stadium on March 19.

Want Team Trophy.

Rival visiting squads are hopeful of winning the team trophy despite the fact that owners of local gymna-ums have been laying advance claim to team championship.

The work of putting the Coliseum ring for the four day tournament will start this morning. Two rings will be constructed in the middle of the floor. The same seating arrange-ment which has been used for Jack Dempsey's shows will prevail. A light-ing system will be installed to enable newspapermen to take pictures with-out flashlights.

Contestants will be weighed and ex-amined in the basement room, which will be fitted out with tables, chairs and dressing benches.

Lighter Boys Open Meet.

Bouts in the 112, 118, 126, and 135 pound classes will be held tomorrow night starting at 7 o'clock. At least two bouts will be held in the two classes. Qualifying rounds in the 147, 158, 175 pound classes, together with the heavyweights, will be de-cided on Wednesday night. Boxers in these classes do not have to report before night. On Tuesday and Thursday nights contestants must report on or before 6 o'clock to be weighed and examined. No second weighing is necessary. Drawings will be made at 6:30. Fighters who do not report before 6 o'clock automatically forfeit their right to compete. It has been decided to accept the second entry of a team from Jackson. Trouble in securing a hall pre-vented the management from holding the tournament until last Friday. Some of the Jackson fighters will not appear on the program. They will be announced when they enter the ring. Each bout will be represented by eight boys.

Numbers Identify Boys.

Instead of the usual announcements numbers will be displayed in each cor-ner of the ring to denote the names of the fighters. They can be identified by referring to the program which will be distributed free.

The bill will be the American Legion night affair and practically every post in Cook county will be represented. Drum and bugle corps will be on hand to furnish music, and dignitaries of the legion will occupy seats in the direc-tors' box. Wednesday will be Army and Navy and Thursday Navy night. The finals for will be Chicago night, when the team which will meet New York will be selected. On this night the winners of first and second places in each class will automatically win places on the local squad, which will immediately settle down to a siege of strenuous training for the intercity contest.

Starting at noon tomorrow the box office at the Coliseum will be open dur-ing the days of the tournament.

Whitney Pair, Out of Derby, Will Run Here

Chicago racegoers are to see some-thing the Kentucky Derby will not offer this year.

Ben Carruthers, executive director of the Arlington Park track, said yes-terday he had received definite an-nouncement that Whichone and Boo-jum, brilliant 3 year olds, owned by Mrs. Payne Whitney, had been with-drawn from the Kentucky Derby to be held for the Belmont stakes in New York and the $60,000 added event at Arlington park.

"In many rich stakes follow the Derby April and May fixtures in Mary-land and Kentucky, Mr. Whitney de-cided to wait with Whichone and Boo-jum and try for them," Mr. Carruth-ers said.

C. W. Hay, general manager of the Hawthorn Park track, was reported to be making a trip east to land the pair of Whichone and Beejum for the $50,000 added American Derby.

Enos Cox's Caruso, also missing from the Kentucky Derby entries, will be named for all the 3 year old fix-tures to be run in Chicago, it was announced.

OLD BALLYHOO FORMULAE CROP UP AT MIAMI

Bullets Whiz By Fainting Phil, as Scheduled.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., Feb. 23.—None of the boys entered in the prize fight tourna-ment of the Madison Square Garden corporation has got around to the matter of rescuing an exclusive soci-ety heiress from drowning in Miami bay, but this doubtless will be attended to before Thursday evening, when the daring display of self-reliance and clean sport is produced in the ring.

In the meantime, however, it de-velops that Fainting Philip Scott has been shot at by a gang of typical American roughs and hooligans, and that Jack Sharkey, his opponent in the main demonstration of the show, intends to do him serious bodily harm in revenge for certain slighting re-marks about him attributed to Faint-ing Philip's manager, James J. John-ston.

Ballyhoo Is Mishandled.

Thus the ballyhoo follows formula, although I must say that the attempt on Phillip's life, instigated no doubt by misguided American patriots in a de-sire to keep the heavyweight champion-ship at home, has been grievously mis-handled by the propaganda depart-ment. This event, originated on these same grounds last year when Jack Dempsey reported an attempt to kid-nap him from his couch at night, at-tended by pistol fire on the stairs, was staged about ten days ago at the hour of midnight as Philip was stepping down from a taxicab, paid for by a friend, to break muffins and sip a quiet dish of tea, as the guest of an-other friend at a modest lunch coun-ter in the outskirts.

Life is uneventful at Mr. Sharkey's place of dwelling on Miami beach across the blue water in which giant trout sometimes cruise in single file, cutting the surface with triangular dorsal fins. These imposing fish bear a distinct resemblance to the fearsome shark, but I have often been told that they are very amiable indeed, the kindliest character dwelling within their forbidding exterior as is so often the case with blameless young men around the saloons who are misunder-stood and persecuted by the police. It is only fair to digress to explain this and to say also that it is practically impossible to drown in the surf along these shores, although a certain num-ber of people die of heart failure while bathing every year.

Goodness, but He's Mad.

But, as I say, life at Mr. Sharkey's dwelling is serene and domestic, with Mr. Sharkey and the kiddies installed in a bower of purple boucanvilles, hibiscus and night blooming jasmine, except that the husband and father falls into moods when he mutters and curls the lower lip down from his teeth, meditating on the insult to his usual vengeance on the frugal and unoffending Philip.

"He is in a terrible rage," said Mr. John Buckley, his manager. "Jimmy Johnston gave an interview to the lo-cal papers in which he said Sharkey was yellow and expressed the hope that the authorities would post a guard over him to restrain him from leaving town before the fight. I never knew such a high-strung fellow. At home he is most gentle and affection-ate, but you have to know him as I know him to appreciate the dual na-ture of his character. He is a rea-ular Doctor Weber and Mr. Fields and I tell you they had better arrange to weigh the boys at separate hours be-fore the contest, for I will not take any responsibility if Jack attacks Philip in the scale room."

The delay in reporting the attempt on Fainting Philip's life and 'Great Britain's world prestige has been due to the journalistic zeal and the fru-

THE SITUATION'S WELL IN HAND

When Manager Joe McCarthy and his party of Cub pitchers and catchers landed on Catalina island last week Owner William Wrigley Jr. (left) was present to greet them and present Joe with a good luck token. McCarthy didn't wait long, however, to get down to business and all of the battery men worked out Saturday and Sunday. [Pacific and Atlantic Photos.]

Room for 4 More Pitchers on Cubs' Staff

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Avalon, Catalina Island, Cal., Feb. 23.—If it's steady employment they want, the rookie hurlers on the 1930 Cub roster seem to have come to the right place. There is room for four additions to the staff of the National league champions. When Manager McCarthy made known these oppor-tunities today there was a marked revival of interest among the young fellows who would like to be picked but who came into camp with the feeling that they would merely fill out in batting practice and exhibitions until such time as minor league spots could be located for them.

A team winning a pennant usually goes into camp the following spring without offering much of an induce-ment to a newcomer, but the Cubs of the moment seem to be an exception—at least in the hurling department. Releases during the winter reduced the staff to six pitchers. That is why Mc-Carthy is going to keep four new or re-called youths if he can find four worth keeping. It appears that he has at least a couple who can meet the re-quirements.

It is part of McCarthy's baseball theory that a team cannot have too many hurlers. Emergencies arise often among the moundsmen. The average big league manager contents himself with eight hurlers, mainly be-cause he is afraid to make room for them by cutting down in other depart-ments and still keep within the legal limit of 25. Not McCarthy. He is going to make room for ten hurlers by limiting his catching staff to three men, his infielders to six, and his out-fielders to five.

It doesn't take an expert to pick the extra fly chasers and inner defense men. They'll be Heathcote and Taylor for the former and Blair and Beck for the latter.

So far in the spring labor only two of the rookie hurlers can be included in the list of those with better than an even chance to stick through the coming campaign. One is Lynn Birchard Nelson, the quiet but hard-boiled youth from Kansas City. The other is Arthur John Gilbert Teach-out, who is about at the stage where he should make something of himself by forgetting what he knew about college baseball. Teachout is a left-hander with a fine, swift ball but only a fair hook. If he doesn't hang on, it is a certainty Charles Moss will. They are the only two southpaws available, and one of them must be retained out of necessity.

New York Polo Star Injured as Argentines Win

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Laddie Sanford, leader of the New York Hurricane club polo team was injured so seriously in a fall during the first chukker of a game with the Argentine team here today that he will not be able to play during the remainder of the California polo sea-son. The pampas horsemen won the game easily, 8 to 5. The Argentine team recently won the Pacific coast open championship.

Sanford was pinned under his pony. He was placed in an ambulance and removed to a Pasadena, Cal., hospital. Dr. Carl Wagner, his physician, said after examining an X-ray of Sanford's injury that he suffered a minor frac-ture of the first rib on the right side, and that a piece of the rib was pulled loose in Sanford's back.

San Carlos Four Wins.

Del Monte, Cal., Feb. 23.—(AP)—In a desperately fought extra chukker game the San Carlos poloists here today defeated the Midwick four, 6 to 5.

White Sox Move to Own Field Today

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 23.—The White Sox will move into their own training ranch, Van Dale field, in the Mexican quarter of the city, tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock. The New York Giants have been nice about sharing acres with the Chicagoans, but Mr. Comiskey's athletes were placed in the inferior rôle of a herd of stray heifers seeking haven in a rival ranchers' coral. From now on Manager Donie Bush can work his charges from dawn till twilight, if he so elects, which is more, perhaps, than the new boss will exact, although he showed his urge for work and plenty of it by having the boys out today, a matter of contrast with the Giants, who spent a day off.

There is to be another week of bat-tery work before the second squad arrives, and Boss Donie has his pro-gram all mapped out. As far as he personally is concerned, the early presence of Infielders Cissell and Jef-fries seems to have relieved the mo-notony of the routine with the pitch-ers. Bush is getting a great kick out of his private fielding classes with these two young men.

But, returning to the pitchers, Bush's prime idea in opening the train-ing season two weeks earlier than usual was to have some hurlers ready to make it tough for the batters in the second squad. With Faber, Thom-as and Lyons established factors; Wei-land, Walsh and McKain showing marked improvement; Adkins and Blankenship giving promise of come-backs, and Rookies Frasier and Cara-way pleasing everybody, Bush is not so much concerned with his pitcher problems as he is with the idea of developing hitting strength, for many seasons a more or less negligible fea-ture of White Sox performance.

Smead (Carnera) Jolly is Bush's big bet for punch. He also expects to make a great hitter out of Carl Reyn-olds. Although the new boss will not get Carl in a panic by switching his batting style too much, he plans to make an effort to get the speedy Texan to alter his stance. Reynolds bats with "his foot in the bucket," as the saying goes, and accordingly is a chump for a curve outside. Carl will get a few lessons on this weakness.

Eastern Players Win Both Squash Racquets Titles

Eastern players made a clean sweep in the play for the national squash racquets championships concluded yesterday at the Harvard-Yale-Prince-ton and Racquet clubs.

The new U. S. singles squash racquet champion is Herbert N. Rawlins of New York, who eliminated Neil Sullivan of Philadelphia, 3 to 1, in the semi-final matches at the Harvard-Yale Princeton club today and went on to defeat Donald Strachan of Phila-delphia, 3 games to 1, to regain the title he relinquished to J. Lawrence Pool of New York a year ago. The scores were 15-10, 10-15, 15-15, 16-9.

Poole was eliminated in the semi-final round by Strachan in a hard fought match that went to five games, Strachan winning three.

In the team championship finals held at the Racquet club Boston de-feated Buffalo, 3 to 2. Boston elimi-nated Chicago in the semi-final round, and Buffalo won from Baltimore.

The winning Boston team is com-posed of Thomas Jensen, Ralph A. Powers, Ralpt E. Stewart, Richard C. Cooke, and William H. Rice. The members of the Buffalo team are John Gowans, A. W. Smith, C. H. Polley, H. B. Burgard, and Norman Duffield.

DEAF BOXER DIES IN ATTEMPT TO REGAIN HEARING

Takes 5,000 Foot Leap; Parachute Fails.

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Fred Mahan, welterweight boxer from Tombstone, Ariz., plunged to his death here today in a 5,000 foot parachute jump from an airplane. Mahan, a deaf-mute, made the jump in an effort to regain his hearing. He had been deaf since he was eight months old.

A crowd of several thousand per-sons watched horror stricken as he catapulted from the clouds. Only the pilot parachute opened as he fell from a plane piloted by Col. Harry Abbott, Berkeley aviator, inventor of a new type parachute which Mahan was using.

Pulls Cord Too Soon.

Col. Abbott said after landing that Mahan pulled the rip cord of the para-chute too soon after jumping. The pilot parachute struck the stabilizer of the plane, hopelessly entangling the fighter, Abbott said.

The accident occurred almost direct-ly over Mills field, San Francisco's mu-nicipal airport. The body fell in a meadow a short distance away.

Mahan had been planning the jump for several months, over the protest of his manager, Fred Winsor. Mahan previously arranged an airplane dive in Los Angeles by which he had hoped to regain his hearing, but the attempt was unsuccessful.

Winsor attempted to dissuade him from making the jump only a moment before the plane took off today, but he refused to heed. Meanwhile the crowd cheered.

Pilot Writes Instructions.

Col. Abbott said he wrote out careful instructions for Mahan to count six before pulling the rip cord. He ap-parently disregarded the directions and jerked the cord as he stepped off the wing, the flyer said.

Mahan, whose real name was Fed-erico Mesa, was survived by his step-father, William Mahan, and his moth-er of Bracketville, Tex.

Mahan had fought Jackie Fields, welterweight champion; Young Cor-bett, and Meyer Grace of Chicago. He scored 54 knockouts out of 100 matches.

JOHNNY DAWSON WINS HOUSTON TOURNEY, 2 AND 1

Houston, Tex., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Johnny Dawson of Chicago shot one under par golf for 35 holes today to win the sixteenth annual Houston Country club invitation tournament by defeating the defending champion, Ossie Carlton, two and one.

HORTON SMITH WINS.

St. Augustine, Fla., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Horton Smith of Detroit, who yester-day won the Savannah open golf tournament, and Gene Sarazen, recent winner of the Agua Caliente open, beat the Farrell brothers, Johnny and Jim-my, in an exhibition match here today by one up.

Hill Succeeds Knox as Wightman Cup Chairman

New York, Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Pressure of business has forced the relinquishment of the chairmanship of the Wightman cup committee by Harry S. Knox of Chicago and Don-ald M. Hill of Boston was today ap-pointed by President Louis B. Dailey of the United States Lawn Tennis as-sociation to serve in his stead. The revised committee now consists of Jones W. Mersereau of New York, Joseph W. Ivy of Kansas City, and Mr. Hill as chairman.

Referees—Cleghorn and Goodman.

BY HARLAND ROHM.

Though the Blackhawks lost their fourth game in eight days at the Sta-dium last night, they returned to their own aggressive style and the sting of defeat was swallowed up in three rounds of fisticuffs, an awarded goal, and a couple of mixups that almost started further warfare on the ice. The Detroit Cougars won, 2 to 1, which leaves the Hawks in third place, a game behind the Rangers, and two and one-half ahead of Detroit.

Ten thousand fans left the Stadium peeved, not with the Hawks but with a couple of decisions that would have reversed the result. Referees Cleghorn and Goodman didn't add any to their Chicago popularity when they awarded Detroit the winning goal on a doubtful decision.

Goodfellow Scores First.

Goodfellow had scored first for De-troit in the second period and Arbour tied it in the third. The good feeling hadn't been helped any by the fist fight between Rockburn and Ingram in the second period, and when Miller appar-ently scored and the goal umpire de-cided otherwise, the boos were loud and long. Spectators on line with the goal said the puck had clearly passed the red line, but calling goals is the umpire's business.

With five minutes to play, Rock-burn started a solo rush and inside the Hawks' blue line, Teddy Graham reached across Detroit's stocky tough egg. Possibly he tried to trip him, at least Rockburn kicked the stick from his hand and Graham fell. Rockburn failed to score, but the referees award-ed him the goal, asserting Graham had thrown his stick and at the same time penalized Graham for tripping.

Mistakes Graham for Somers.

Those were the incidents that sent the fans home arguing, but the real action came in the second period, ap-parently on a misunderstanding. Rockburn was said to have mistaken Frank Ingram, who hasn't been in a fight all season, for the aggressive Art Somers, and cross checked him in front of the Cougars' goal.

Rockburn found Ingram just as was like as Somers, for as they fell to-gether Ingram stripped off his gloves, and though on his back, started swing-ing. Rockburn was willing and they mixed on the ice until teammates pulled them apart. That ended round one, but Ingram immediately skated around the knot of players to let go a few more Golden Gloves' swings at Rockburn.

Once more they were separated and both ruled off the ice with major pen-alties. Rockburn's nose was bleeding, but immediately on the Cougars' ar-rival at the red gate, Ingram started to throw punches again and it took both teams and officials to pry them apart.

Through the game the same hard luck which has dogged the Hawks' shots in the last four games stuck with them. Beveridge had to stop 49 shots to 27 for Gardiner, which brings the Hawks' average for those four contests to 17 shots a game more than their opponents.

The first period was rather tame, neither team being able to make use of their chances on the four penalties called. The Hawks forced Beveridge to make twice as many saves. With half the second period gone, came the Rockburn-Ingram episode and when Rockburn returned to the ice Abel crashed him into the boards and drew a penalty.

That opened the way for Ebbie Goodfellow, Detroit's slender blond center to score. He sailed down center ice and though the defense checked him off balance he recovered, held the puck, and raced in on Gardiner, who dove at him. Goodfellow avoided the drive, skated around the prone Gardiner, and scored.

Tie Score in Second Period.

The Hawks' tieing score came about the middle of that third period. The Chicagoans had been keeping the puck in Cougar territory and it happened a goal came on that shot rather than any of the twenty others. Somers shot from twenty or thirty feet out and Beveridge dropped to his knees to stop it. Arbour, at the left, caught the rebound and drove it into the net.

With renewed hope the Hawks fought on, as usual, getting far more shots at the goal, until the goal awarded Rockburn, brought the whole team up around the referees in a wild protest. But it did no more good than a batter protesting to an umpire on a strike. Then came the final mix-up when, in a change of lines, the Hawks got seven men on the ice and the entire Detroit team protested as loudly as the Hawks had.

BRUINS' SCORES IN LAST PERIOD BEAT RANGERS, 3-2

New York, Feb. 23.—(AP)—The Boston Bruins put on another of their great finishing rushes tonight to take one more National Hockey league battle from the New York Rangers by a 3 to 2 score. The Rangers still are seeking their first victory over the Bruins since 1928.

After scrapping furiously through two periods and falling behind in the third, the Bruins scored twice in the last half of the final frame, netting the winning goal with only a minute and ten seconds to go. In spite of unusual heat and the softest ice of the season, the game was generally fast and was marked by crashing body checks and much rough play.

Bricklayers, Carpenters Play 1-1 Tie

The Bricklayers and the Carpenters battled to a 1 to 1 tie in two overtime periods yesterday at De Paul field to decide which team would represent Chicago in the national challenge cup competition.

The Carpenters scored in the first two minutes when Walker broke through the Brickies' defense. Shortly after the second period opened McLean passed to Cuthbert, who scored from close range to even the count.

The Brickies had a chance to go into the lead with a penalty kick but McLean's shot was high. About 4,000 people watched the contest.

Ultra-Violet Ray Treatment Under the Mercury Quartz Lamp $1.50

This Ultra-Violet Ray Treatment, however, is only a part of our Complete Scientific Treatment. For cases of "oily hair" it is sometimes used by itself.

For dry, tight scalps, brittle falling hair, itching or baldness, the Ultra-Violet Ray treatment is followed by vibratory and hand massage to loosen the scalp and increase circulation; by the gentle application of high-frequency current to electrify and tone the muscles and tissues, and especially is required of ointments, or stimulating and nourishing medicaments. These are applied to the scalp (not the hair) and gently warmed into it by the rays from the Infra-Red Lamp.

THIS COMPLETE SCIENTIFIC TREATMENT attacks the disease on the scalp from every angle, and leaves it all aglow with increased circulation, soft, pliable tree from dryness and tightness, and with a wonderful feeling of increased vitality. This complete treatment, including the Ultra-Violet Ray, is $3.00

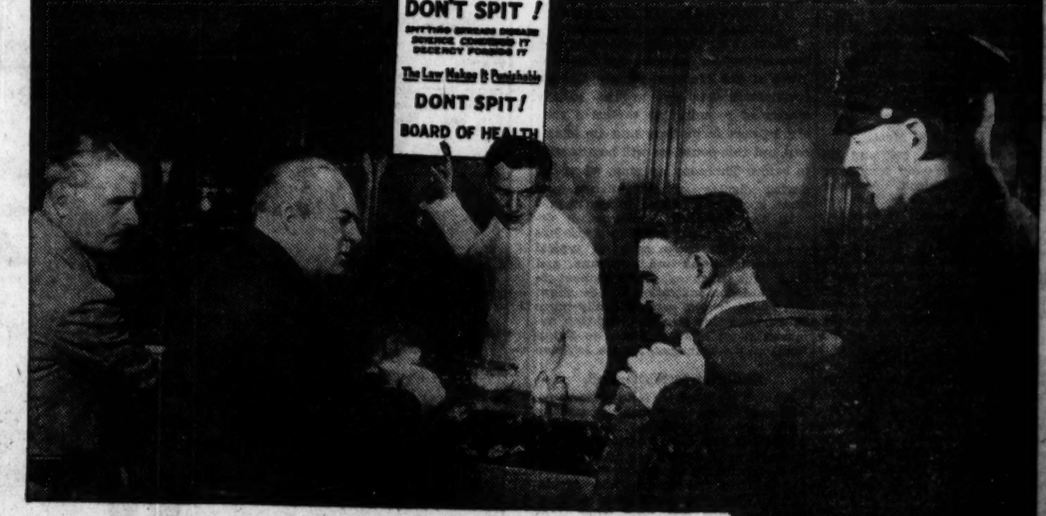
Spit is a horrid word, but it is worse on the end of your cigar



...the war against Spitting is a crusade of decency... join it. Smoke CERTIFIED CREMO!

The spitter is a beast. The law says "NO!" to his vile and vicious habit. But, for every spitter caught, there are hundreds who escape... hundreds who still roll cigars with filthy fingers—and spit on the ends! It is a fact that more than half of all cigars made in this country are still made by hand, and therefore subject to the risk of spit!

Certified Cremo protects you against this abomination! Every tobacco leaf entering the clean, sunny Certified Cremo factories is scientifically treated by methods developed by the United States Government during the war. And its purity is safeguarded along every step of the way by amazing inventions that foil, wrap and tip the cigars without the possibility of spit!

Try a Certified Cremo—see how wonderfully good it is! Made of the choicest, tenderest leaves that the crop affords, we claim Certified Cremo's quality is tastier than that of any other cigar. Don't let its 5c price stand in your way. Your physician has in mind a cigar like Certified Cremo when he recommends a mild smoke in place of heavy brands.

Crush-proof... immaculate... foil-wrapped ...Certified Cremo is the kind of cigar the late Vice-President Marshall undoubtedly was thinking of when he said, "What this country needs is a good 5c cigar!"

gality of his English manager, Mr. Charlie Rose, who has turned out to be the boxing correspondent for a London newspaper, with the true English common sense regarding the value of a shilling. It seems that Mr. Rose was a fellow guest with Philip on the cab ride and that as they were disembarking at the lunch wagon four shots rang out in the tranquil night.

"Wot ho," exclaimed Philip, ducking into the lunch wagon and mounting a stool. "Wot ho," exclaimed Mr. Rose and amid several other exclamations of "Wot ho" and "what the hell?" the American equivalent of "wot ho" from other members of the party, each in his respective idiom, all the chaps dashed into the lunch wagon, mounted the stools and hitched their feet in the stirrups to order muffins and tea. One of the shots shattered a window of the taxicab, so I hear from Mr. Johnston who has yet to deceive me at all, although not for any lack of trying, and both Philip and Mr. Rose had to impose on their host of the moment to the extent of several extra dishes of tea to brace their nerves. But instead of phoning the news right away to the press department of the Madison Square Garden corporation, Mr. Rose swore all present to secrecy until released therefrom by him. So it was a long time afterward that Mr. Johnston heard of the matter.

"For goodness sake," he exclaimed, "when did this happen?"

"O," said Mr. Rose, "a matter of about a fortnight ago, I should say."

"I thought you were a newspaper man," Mr. Johnston yelled. "Why didn't you tell the press agents about it? That story would have sold $25,000 worth of tickets."

"Naow," Mr. Rose explained with a shrewd expression. "Naow, you've it. I waited until I could score a swoop or a swipe, or whatever your American journalists call it, in my own paper in London. So I wrote it all out in a letter and mailed it back to London, by post. I shall 'ave a few quid for me trouble and ingenuity and now that it's been printed in London, I dare say it would do no 'arm to let the American chaps know it. True, I might have sent a special dispatch by cable, at a shilling a word but it seemed a waste of money when I could send one by post for tuppence. It's still news in America, isn't it?"

Michigan, Wisconsin Still Hope to Overtake Purdue

Purdue university, undefeated in six contests, and holding a two game lead over the second place teams, seems almost certain to win the Big Ten basketball championship. The Boilermakers have four games to play.

There is a chance, however, that Purdue might be forced into a tie. In that event Northwestern and Michigan, the two strongest opponents remaining on the Boilermakers' schedule, would have to come through with victories. This would create a triple tie, the other teams being Michigan and Wisconsin, provided, of course, these quintets do not meet defeat in other games.

Maroons Provide Upset.

Chicago provided the major upset of the season's Big Ten play Saturday night by dropping Wisconsin, 23 to 21, at Bartlett gymnasium. The Maroons had lost seven straight conference games.

Michigan already is looking forward to its return battle with Purdue a week from tonight. The handicap for Coach Veenker's team is the journey to Illinois Saturday night for an admittedly tough game, and then the trip back to Ann Arbor.

Norm Daniels' flash of form in his real Big Ten debut at Indiana Saturday has given the Wolverines added confidence. In the first game between the teams the Murphy clan was held to its lowest score in two years, and it was only a Michigan attack that refused to function that brought defeat.

Seven Games This Week.

Seven games are scheduled this week. Wisconsin plays its return game with Illinois tonight at Champaign and Chicago goes to Michigan tomorrow night. Wisconsin won a stalling game, 14 to 9, from Illinois in the first meeting and the Wolverines won, 29 to 16, from the Maroons.

Northwestern invades Lafayette Wednesday night hoping to avenge the 39 to 22 defeat at Evanston. If Riel, Lockhart, Mundy, Walter, and Bergherm shoot as they have in the last two games, Northwestern may win and do its share towards the possible triple tie.

Four games will be played Saturday night. Michigan hopes to wipe out a 24 to 18 defeat by Illinois while Minnesota goes to Purdue. Ohio State plays its second contest with Indiana at Bloomington and Chicago and Northwestern face each other at Patten gymnasium.

Becker Finds Wild Turkeys Near Highway

BY BOB BECKER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Charlotte Harbor, Fla., Feb. 23.—The wild turkeys which live within a few miles of this body of water must be a sophisticated, educated bunch because they seem to prefer to live close to a busy highway where they can smell gasoline fumes and hear the purr of speeding automobiles. That is the only explanation that we can make in view of the fact that we flushed two turkeys within a mile of the Tamiami trail a few days ago when we were taking part in the ceremonies which attended the closing of the quail season.

Finding two "toiks" so close to a busy state highway down here illustrates how thin the veneer of "civilization" is in some parts of this state. Here is a well known automobile highway which apparently runs through a settled country.

Yet you can turn off this highway, which is the most popular west coast motor route, and in ten minutes be in a dense cabbage palm hammock where turkeys still gobble.

It was about 5 o'clock in the afternoon when the dogs started to make game about 100 yards from a big hummock. We were slowly bumpin' along in a car behind the pointers. It was hard to keep track of the dogs because they were working through grass nearly four feet high, nosing the ground, pausing when the fresh scent came to their noses, and then freezing when their game seemed close.

We kept urging them on to locate what we thought was a running covey of quail. Then we saw two big birds take to the air and sail over the hummock. The turkeys had played tag with the dogs long enough and were hustling away to safety.

STANDARD OIL MAP REVISION SEEN IN OFFING

May Join to Fight Royal Dutch.

New York, Feb. 22.—A redrafting of the Standard Oil map is believed to be in prospect as a result of the decision of the Standard Oil Company of New York and the Vacuum Oil company to proceed with their merger plans. Other consolidations of equal if not greater significance, it was learned in Wall street, depend upon the outcome of the court test which will be applied to the proposed Standard of New York-Vacuum merger.

Informal discussions have been taking place for some months among several of the Standard Oil units, with the idea of meeting altered conditions in the industry. The Standard of New York and the Vacuum are the first to perfect their plans, but the attitude of the courts towards their project will be awaited by other Standard Oil organizations in the hope that precedent will be established to guide future mergers involving former subsidiaries of the old Standard Oil trust.

The issue has been clearly drawn by the Standard of New York and the Vacuum, since these companies were among the most important Standard Oil subsidiaries before the United States Supreme court decree of 1911 made necessary the termination of the Standard Oil of New Jersey's control of its thirty-three component parts.

Attorneys Hopeful.

Attorneys for the Standard Oil interests are hopeful of a favorable judicial decision in the case of the proposed Standard of New York-Vacuum merger because these two companies are competitors to a smaller extent, probably, than any other companies in the Standard Oil group. The bulk of the Standard of New York's business is in the United States while the bulk of the Vacuum's business is in foreign countries, it is contended. For this reason the company's counsel hope to be able to establish that their consolidation would not violate the anti-trust laws.

The Standard of New York and Vacuum admit, in submitting their merger plans to their stockholders, that they are seeking to maintain their position abroad against powerful foreign competitors, strongly entrenched as to crude supplies and refining and distributing facilities. The reference here apparently is to the Royal Dutch-Shell interests of Europe, against which the Standard of New York and the Vacuum have made common cause as a result of the Royal Dutch's aggressive opposition to their business relations with the Russian soviets. The Standard of New York and the Vacuum have for three years been buying Russian oil products over the protest of Sir Henri Deterding, managing director of the Royal Dutch. The quarrel at one time resulted in a bitter price cutting contest between the Standard of New York and the Royal Dutch in India.

To Fight Royal Dutch?

In oil circles it is believed that the Standard of New York and the Vacuum are preparing to pool their resources in preparation for a further test of strength with the Royal Dutch, not only in the foreign markets but in the United States as well, where the latter company has been rapidly expanding its operations. Some months ago the Royal Dutch, through a subsidiary, invaded the metropolitan district of New York, which has been looked upon as the most desirable territory to the Standard. The Royal Dutch is now operating in every state of the Union and is in competition with virtually every one of the old line Standard Oil companies.

For a time following the outbreak of the quarel between the Royal Dutch and the Standard of New York over Russian oil purchases the Standard Oil company of New Jersey supported the position of the Royal Dutch, but later the relations of the two last named companies were understood to have become strained and now the entire Standard Oil group is presenting a solid front gainst the Royal Dutch.

Plans for the consolidation of other companies besides the Standard of New York and Vacuum have their inspiration, according to Wall street information, in the Royal Dutch competition. It has been reported in the financial district that John D. Rockefeller suggested the reassembling of some of the Stanard Oil units because of this new competition.

Finds Henry Ford Can Be Laundryman's Competitor

BY SCRUTATOR.

Competition used to be described as the attempt of two grocers on one block to sell two cans of beans to a woman who wanted only one. Today we know that competition is something vastly more intricate than that.

The main question no longer is which of two or more individuals or firms shall fill an existing want, but whether the consumer chooses to satisfy that particular want or holds another more important.

An example, which is not fanciful, may be given. A certain man bought an automobile and in order to meet his payments had to cut down his ordinary living expenses. One of the economies he effected was to wear a shirt two days instead of one. The laundry's competitor in this instance was not the other man in the same business, but Henry Ford and his organization.

We can see quite plainly a recognition of such conditions in the growth of the trade association. Some scores of industries spreading over the entire United States have in the last few years gained the benediction of the federal trade commission on established rules of trade. The effect of these rules is, no matter how phrased, to cut down competition within the industry, that the members may be more able to battle with other industries.

Construction Slump.

Outstanding among industries that are cutting down on the eggs their golden goose could lay is construction. Because business men cannot run the construction business, building is suffering a slump. There is no recognition on the part of the unions of building trades mechanics that housing has its rivals for consumer dollars. The apparent theory of operation is that just so much building will be done and that the way to prosper is to get as high a price as possible for everything that is done.

We know that many thousands in Chicago alone are living in cramped quarters because it costs too much to construct more ample ones. The decline in building, particularly in one family houses, must be in large part due to the fact that building is higher than the general level of prices for all commodities and services, as compared to pre-war.

Below is quoted a statement by Gerhardt F. Meyne, Chicago contractor: "I hold two outstanding things responsible for the present lack of construction; one is abnormal transportation and drayage charges on building materials and fuel that goes into production of building material; the second is the high cost of building labor wages, together with uncertainties of completion due to a jurisdictional interference.

Must Support High Wages.

"Those not in the building industry must support the high wages and the idleness of the building mechanic, who has not been working 125 days the last year. The public outside of him must labor 300 days a year to pay rent and living expenses. If he would lower his wages commensurate with the average wage earner, which would give him opportunity to work 250 days a year [making ample allowance for lost time through weather, etc.], his average income would be higher and the other fellow could afford to live in and buy the house he produces."

Even foreign goods on merchants' shelves, Mr. Meyne added, are being sold in competition with the product of building employer and laborer, and both these must realize they have to set their price to meet what the purchaser is willing to pay in this competitive market. It is not a question of what labor should get out of the building it does, but of what industry can get out of total spending power.

EVERY VOTE NEEDED TO SAVE FOX FILM CO., STOCKHOLDERS TOLD

New York, Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Emory R. Buckner, attorney for the Fox Film stockholders committee, gave out a letter which Morton F. Stern of J. S. Bache & Co., chairman of the committee, sent tonight to the 9,100 class A Fox Film stockholders.

Mr. Buckner said the committee is determined if possible, to save the Fox Film company from receivership and to save the stockholders from what might turn out to be a total loss of their large investment.

The letter says in part:

"There are over 9,000 stockholders and every vote counts. Do not allow the size of your holdings to make you careless. Every stockholder's vote is not only necessary—it is imperative.

"Your company is a big money-maker, but it is also a big borrower at present, due to its recent expansion, and must pay its debts. Means of paying its debts and allowing you to participate in the benefits of the financing are to be voted on at the meeting, March 5, 1930. Judgments for unpaid debts are being filed against your company, and unless means of paying these debts are approved the results may be disastrous.

"You have in your hands the fate of your investment. Do not neglect to protect your stock holdings. Vote your stock as your best thought dictates, but be sure to vote your stock. If you have not already signed your proxy, do so immediately. You must have representation at this meeting."

Industrial Production Up 4 Per Cent in January

Washington, D. C., Feb. 23.—(AP)—The federal reserve board in its summary of general business conditions issued today reported a 4 per cent increase in industrial production in January from the low level of December. This increase, the board said, reflected principally a larger output of automobiles, steel, cotton textiles, and shoes. Output of copper, cement, lumber, anthracite coal, and flour declined. In the first two weeks of February steel plants reported an increased rate of operation, but continued to be less active than in the corresponding period of 1929.

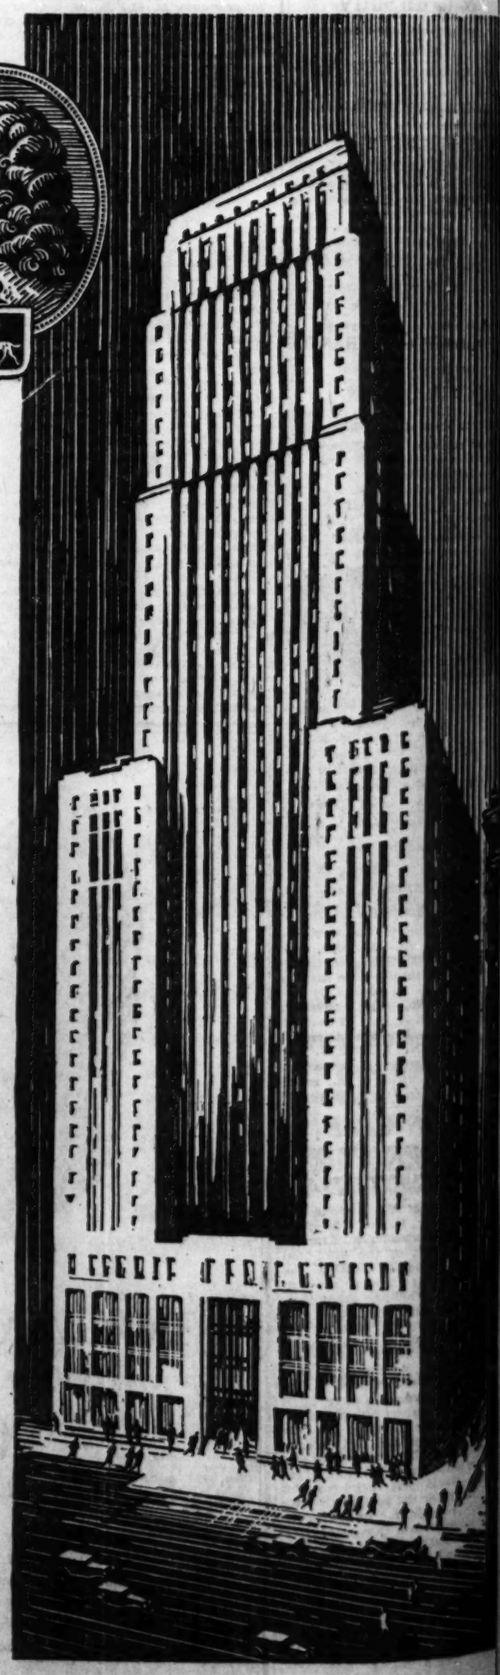
... HIS STREET

AND A BUILDING WORTHY OF HIS NAME



ONE LA SALLE STREET

No one can walk in La Salle Street and not be impressed with its dignity and atmosphere of permanence. For Chicago's Wall Street is serene in its position as leader of the city's financial and commercial life. It has become a tradition—firmly established as the honored name it bears; and business institutions established here have taken for themselves a generous share of the prestige of this famous street.

And, just as La Salle Street is the center of Chicago's financial and business life—so One La Salle Street has become recognized as the key corner of the city's great central business district—the heart of its financial, legal and commercial activities—an unsurpassed location.

Here is not alone an "Address of Prestige," but a 49-story business home of character and distinction—a Building Worthy of its Location—a building in which scientific planning and engineering skill have made rentals surprisingly lower than one would expect to find in a structure of this character.

THE SIEUR DE LA SALLE
1643-1687

Greatest of all French explorers. Discoverer of the Ohio and first to descend the Mississippi. Claimed all the Western territory for France, naming it Louisiana after Louis XIV. Died in Texas March 19, 1687.

Of Chicago's location he wrote: "... Here is the gate of the Empire; and here the seat of the Empire."

We believe One La Salle Street offers a combination of advantages unequalled in the central business district of Chicago; and we invite your consideration of this great building as your permanent business home.

YEAR WILL SEE BIG CHANGES IN WHEAT TRADE

Russia Spends Millions; U. S. May Cut Crop.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Net losses in wheat at Chicago last week were 4⅞@5½c, and they showed a decline from the high of the previous week of 10@12c, and from the top prices on May last July of 52c. At the end of May, 1929, prices were around the dollar level, with a sharp advance in the thirty days following.

There is an evolution in the wheat markets of the world and the next six to twelve months is expected to show striking changes. The southern hemisphere has less wheat than a year ago, while the United States and Canada have big surpluses that should be greatly reduced. European countries are preparing to raise more grains, and with Argentina, Australia, South Africa, Canada and Russia all working to increase production of agricultural products, prospects for high prices and profits to the farmers are most uncertain.

It will be only a few years before Russia, which is spending $100,000,000 for the erection of mills and elevators, and millions of dollars for farm machinery, to be in the competitive class again, which means that the United States will have to cut down its production to a domestic basis if farmers are to secure profits in wheat raising. It will take, however, around 25 years or more on the present basis of production to accomplish this change

Wheat Lowest Since Last July.

World's wheat markets are out of line, with a weak undertone at the lowest prices since last summer. Winnipeg sold below Chicago May wheat one time during the week and closing 3c premium at $1.17⅝ as compared with $1.14¾ to $1.14½ at Chicago. Liverpool May wheat was lower than Chicago at one time, and at the close was $1.20⅜. At the low point of the week, Thursday, March wheat in Chicago was $1.07¾, May $1.12¼ and July $1.14¼. March wheat compared with $1.18 for No. 2 hard winter wheat, the farm board price, and $1.20 for No. 1 hard. May at the bottom was almost 3c below the government price on No. 1 hard.

Futures in all markets of this country were below the government's prices for cash grain.

The government has continued buying cash grain in a moderate way, taking hard wheat at Galveston and Houston at the close of the week. This grain cannot be hedged as it was bought above the price futures. Durum wheat, which sells mostly about 12@15c under the price of No. 1 northern spring wheat, was down to $1 bu for May in Duluth, the lowest of the season. On Thursday May wheat in Kansas City reached $1.05.

Despite demoralization, there was a rally on the closing day, and despite all the bearish influences and heavy liquidation by holders of futures and pressure from short sellers.

Export Sales Larger.

With lower prices for wheat, export business in Canada and America has improved, but clearances from the country are wanted to convince the trade that the grain stocks are being reduced.

Canadian pool is understood to have been given financial backing by the banks and governments of that country. They are marketing their wheat as fast as possible and have plenty to move between now and next August. Crop prospects in western Canada from a subsoil moisture standpoint are uncertain. Extremely high temperatures in the winter wheat sections throughout the United States and over a considerable portion of Europe, prevail, placing the plant in a position where heavy freezes might result in serious damage. This might change present sentiment.

March wheat closed at $1.10, May $1.14¾ to $1.14½, July $1.16¼ to $1.16 and September $1.18⅝ to $1.18½. Prices follow:

American Brake Shoe and Foundry.

H. K. C.: American Brake Shoe and Foundry company set a new high record of earnings in 1929 and made further progress in its diversification program. The company has several plants located in manufacturing centers throughout the country and makes brake shoes for railway and traction cars, iron castings, etc.

Earnings for the year were reduced somewhat from early estimates because of a sharp recession in the final quarter, particularly in shipments to the automobile industry. The president stated in February that orders received in January showed improvement.

Net profits, available for dividends, in 1929 were $3,230,230, against $3,108,121 in 1928, $2,794,851 in 1927, $3,029,217 in 1926, and $2,786,607 in 1925.

Earnings were $33.87 per share on 95,385 shares of 7 per cent preferred (par $100) and $3.71 per share on 690,346 no par common shares in 1929, compared with $32.59 per share on the preferred and $3.57 per share on 684,096 common shares in 1928. Including equity in surplus earnings of subsidiaries, earnings in 1929 were $5.50 per share on the common, against $4.29 per share in 1928.

Profit and loss surplus as of Dec. 31, 1929, was $11,859,012.

Current assets were $13,211,579, and current liabilities were $1,520,197 at the end of 1929. This left a net working capital of $11,691,482, which compares with $11,711,831 on Dec. 31, 1928.

Dividends on the common stock are $2.40 per year. Prior to June, 1929, dividends were $1.60 per share in cash and 2 per cent in stock annually.

Both the common and preferred are regarded as high grade stocks.

U. S. Hoffman Machinery.

T. C. C.: United States Hoffman Machinery corporation sales and earnings showed a further drop in 1929. An effort is being made by the management to strengthen and extend the sales organization and to improve the corporation's product.

Net income in 1929 was $581,834, equal to $2.62 per share on 222,203 no par shares, against $953,245 in 1928, $1,196,810 in 1927, and $1,341,198 in 1926.

Dividends on the common stock are $2 per year. This stock is medium grade and somewhat speculative.

Union Pacific Railroad.

F. J. W.: Union Pacific Railroad company 4 per cent debentures dated June 1, 1928, and due June 1, 1968, are a sound investment.

SILK TRADING.

Raw silk futures totaling 9,760 bales, valued in excess of $5,000,000, changed hands on the national raw silk exchange in one of the most active weeks in the history of the exchange. Prices showed a steady decline over the week, the nearby months showing losses of 18 cents a pound, and the distant positions declining 9 cents.

Spring Lines Move Slowly Trade Reports

BY HOWARD CARSWELL.

While cautious statements described the business trend of Chicago wholesale district as "satisfactory" last week, there appeared a general lack of optimism over the moving of spring lines which was noteworthy.

The admission of one prominent wholesale house that their country buying was holding steady but its city sales had been suffering was indicative of a rather general gloom in the central market here. Whether or not Chicago's financial breakdown and its sundry ramifications have had any relation to the city sales and business was conjectural.

A stimulus to the sale of women's wear lines and house dresses is expected by the approaching National House Dress week, which opens March 3, according to the Chicago association of commerce. Its weekly report says that the week's mild weather started the lighter weight of wearing apparel moving. Mail order business in the middle west and northwest has been steadily mounting.

Barden-Allen, Inc., New York firm of resident buyers, have opened a Chicago office at 222 West Adams street, recognizing the position of this city as a central wholesale market center. Central States Department Stores, Inc., Chicago representatives of twenty-two middle western mercantile stores, have announced that with the acquisition of three new merchandiclents, the roster of their group of stores will be definitely closed.

The gigantic merchandise mart, whose completion about May 1 should provide a prime attraction for merchants and buyers from all parts of the country, is now about 80 per cent rented, according to C. A. Welles, general manager.

The Board of Directors of Peoples Light and Power Corporation has this day declared a quarterly dividend of 60¢ per share on Class A Common Stock for the period ending March 31st, 1930, payable April 1st, 1930, to stockholders of record at the close of business on March 8th, 1930.

Unless advised at or before the close of business on March 12th, 1930, that the stockholder does not elect to exercise the right to subscribe for additional Class A Common Stock and requests that the dividend be paid in cash, certificates for Class A Common Stock and/or non-dividend bearing scrip certificates therefor, will be issued to each registered holder of Class A Common Stock entitled to the April 1st dividend.

D. L. McDANIEL, Secretary.

STOCK MARKET APATHETIC TO CRIES OF ALARM

Regard Trade Reaction with Composure.

at the present juncture; comparisons of very recent trade returns have presented too vivid a contrast, the shrinkage has been too general and the level of activity too far below that of the last seven years.

When reports of average commodity prices, loadings of railway freight, employment, steel production and spinning mill purchases of cotton, had all reached lately the smallest figure since the country was emerging from the "deflation crisis" in 1922, it was impossible to deny that the business organism had been hard hit.

Nevertheless, the markets have instinctively refused to accept the fact of a "major crisis," and have insisted on this even in the face of the sweeping collapse of agricultural prices.

It is not strange that this idea of a brief and negligible interlude between a vigorous forward movement of industrial activity should prevail. Whether the set backs of 1927 and 1934 are or are not to be classified as "trade reactions" each of them was at all events very shortly followed by an industrial "boom" which outran all previous experience.

Cite Past Experience.

The much more complete collapse of business activities which followed the deflation crisis of 1920, and which at the time created much doubt regarding even the American future lasted hardly two years. By the beginning of 1923 steel and iron production was back again at the highest rate of wartime.

If general trade was slower in reaching its previous high mark again, that was because of circumstances in the credit market which have not been at all duplicated on the present occasion. The absolute paralysis of trade that followed the "war panic" of 1914 lasted barely six months in this country, then giving way to intense activity. Even the spectacular pre-war panic of 1907 had as its immediate sequel twelve months of rapidly reviving confidence with a fairly emphatic "trade boom" shortly afterward.

See New Problems.

It is entirely natural that these traditions should govern the attitude of the stock exchange especially, towards the present trade reaction. On the other hand it will probably be recognized, by the more experienced observers of such episodes, that some new industrial problems may have to be met and surmounted in the next business revival—perhaps in the grain trade, perhaps in the matter of prices for manufactured goods, perhaps in methods of production.

After the "deflation period" our producers had to learn and did learn at once, how to adjust the much lower prices for their goods to the continuing high labor costs. The reaction of 1924 was terminated by a windfall of luck to American farm producers which pulled them out of seemingly hopeless debt. It is probable that in 1927 the momentum of speculative confidence and of the resultant lavish spending made that year's industrial set back less of an indication of changed industrial conditions than it ought to have been for the best interests of the country.

MIDLAND STEEL REPORTS 1929 NET OF $2,555,425

Earnings of the Midland Steel Products company for 1929 were $2,555,425 after all charges, including estimated federal taxes, before dividends, according to the pamphlet report of the company mailed to stockholders today. This compares with $3,439,773 after the same charges in 1928. The increase in net over the preceding year was in spite of a sharp decline in business in the last quarter.

On the basis of the new capital structure of the company, recently authorized and soon to become effective, net for the year available for the new no par common stock was equal to $6.54 a share on the 242,225 shares to be outstanding. This compared with $6.02 a share on the same basis of computation in 1928.

Net current assets of the company as of Dec. 31 were $8,074,036, compared with $7,040,408 at the end of 1928. This increase of $1,033,628 was shown after an expenditure during the year of $1,128,228 for additions to plant.
